"Dead Ball" Favored By Major League Officials; Four Deals Completed

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) (By Scotty Reston Associated Press Sports Writer)

Silver Foxes And Bulldogs Play Draw
NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Major league officials resurrected the "dead ball" New York Giants acquired Lou Chiozza from the Phillies, and St. Louis Cardinals failed to peddle Dizzy Dean today as the league meetings got under way.

Both leagues also voted in favor of the "Baltimore amendment" which permits open recommendation of players to any organized club, and rejected Commissioner Landis' request that a copy of these recommendations be filed in his office.

In a day of wrangling only four deals, three of them minor, were completed:

(1) The Giants obtained Chiozza from the Phillies for cash and shortstop George Scharen, Giant farm hand from Nashville.

(2) Cincinnati Reds sent pitcher Leroy Herrmann, to San Francisco Missions in part payment for Eddie Joost, short-stop-second baseman.

(3) Cleveland sold pitcher George Blaeholder to Milwaukee.

(4) Cleveland sold outfielder Jimmy Gleason to Kansas City.

Agitation for a change in the baseball was started by Boston Red Sox. General Manager Eddie Collins wrote to the other 15 major league club presidents before the meetings.

"We received answers from 13 of them, and all but one was in favor of a dealer ball," Collins said. "I think a dealer ball will cut out the present tendency of everybody to swing from the hips on every pitch."

Specifications for the new ball will be made after League officials have consulted the ball manufacturers.

It was generally conceded Manager Bill Terry of the Giants had solved his third base problem with the acquisition of Chiozza.

Furthermore it was intimated that the Chiozza deal was just part of the Giants-Phillie bargain. The rest of it will send outfielder Hank Leiber, an unnamed rookie first baseman, and cash to the Phils for first baseman Dolph Camilli, according to the report.

Camilli would replace Terry, who announced again today that he is through as a player.

Failure of American League managers to complete a single deal of importance was a surprise. After allowing the Yankees to win the pennant by a margin of 19 1/2 games, the other seven clubs were expected to do some shuffling, but the managers admitted tonight they were farther away from a major deal than ever.

Cleveland seemed to be holding the answer to the numerous trading questions. The Browns, White Sox, and Red Sox were all trying to do business with manager Steve O'Neill of the Indians, but Steve, obviously hanging off for a decision on the "Feiler case," was not able to come to terms.

here tonight and kept their record clear of defeat so far this year.

Trade Talk At Baseball League Meet

BY PAUL MICKELSON Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Lis-tening and peeping around the potted palms of the big league baseball meetings:

The Cardinals still have Dizzy Dean and apparently are stuck with him. All Branch Rickey wants for his pitching headache is a whole ball club.

From the Pirates he wants Cy Blanton, Arky Vaughan, Catcher Padden, four good Pirate farmers and cash, from the Giants, he asks Hal Schumacher, Clydell Castleman Mel Ott, three farmers and cash. He was easy on the Cubs, demanding Bill Lee Frank Demaree, four lesser lights and greenbacks.

They're now betting 2 to 1 and no takers, the Cards keep Dizzy. The real inside is the Cards have given up on Paul Dean. Despite Paul's protests, the Cards bosses figure he'll never be a first class pitcher again. His inflamed shoulder is that bad, they say.

The day's meeting reached such a dead mark that they even voted to make the baseball dealer.

Two astounding pieces of news were revealed. The National League awarded its 1936 pennant to the Giants; the Yankees were awarded the American League flag.

RED WINGS 4—BRUINS 3
BOSTON, Dec. 8.—A third period goal by Gordon Pettinger with less than three minutes to play gave Detroit Red Wings a 4-3 victory over Boston Bruins tonight in a National Hockey League game.

The Bruins spotted the crippled Wings three goals during 35 minutes of sloppy play, came back roaring to tie the count and lost out only after waging a gallant battle for the deciding counter. A 15,000 crowd watched the thriller.

Pettinger hooked the puck out of a furious scrimmage near the Boston net to drive home the winning goal.

With only a minute remaining, the Bruins yanked their goalie and put six forwards in action, but the bell sounded before they could launch a successful thrust.

While the Bruins fumbled and stumbled for more than half of the game, Marty Barry, Herb Lewis and Larry Aurie built up a 3-0 lead for the Wings. The home forces came to life late in the second, when Cooney Weiland and Charlie Sands broke through goalie Normie Smith. Nels Stewart turned in the tying counter early in the final session on a combination play with Dit Clapper and Red Beattie.

Lineups:— Boston: Goal, Thompson; defence, H. Smith, Portland; forwards, Stewart, Clapper, Beattie; subs, Jerwa, Weiland, Gold worthy, Cook, Hollett, Getliffe, Cowley, Sands, Schmidt.

Detroit: Goal N. Smith; defence, McDonald, Goodfellow; forwards, Pettinger, Aurie, Lewis; subs, Williams, Barry, Deacon, W. Kilrea.

Rangers And Black Hawks Play Overtime Draw As Red Wings Defeat Bruins

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 8.—New York Rangers tonight played an overtime scoreless tie with Chicago Black Hawks and remained in the lead of the National Hockey League's American section.

Division of the points left Lester Patrick's Manhattan "youth movement" one point ahead of Detroit Red Wings who retained second place by defeating Boston Bruins.

It was the fifth stalemate for the Chicago fliers in the current campaign. The smallest crowd of the season, 7,000 fans, sat in at the scoreless battle.

Only brief flurries of speedy and spectacular hockey marked the contest, which was mainly productive of close checking.

A fisty joust between Earl Seibert, Hawk rearguard, and Art Coulter, Rangers hard-hitting defenceman, highlighted the second period. The Chicagoan earned a major penalty and Coulter a minor.

Lineups:— Chicago: Goal, Karakas; defence, Levisky, Burke; forwards, Romnes, Kendall, Trudel; subs, Welbe, Brydson, March, Thompson, Gottselig; Jackson, Larochele, Blair, Seibert.

Rangers: Goal, Kerr; defence, Coulter, Heller; forwards, Watson, Keeling, Murdoch; subs, Pratt, Johnson, Shibley, N. Colville, Boucher, Dillon, Cooper, M. Colville, Patrick.

Escobar And Jeffra Will Fight Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Sixto Escobar, world's bantamweight champion, makes his debut in the New York hippodrome tomorrow night in a 10 round contest with Harry Jeffra, Baltimore's outstanding 118-pound contender.

Jeffra will be out to make it two decisions in a row over the champion. Last October in Baltimore he won the verdict in a 10 rounder. The wagering favors Escobar at 7 to 5.

Take Up Sports For Confidence
(Canadian Press)

BUFFALO, Dec. 7.—For the person whose ego needs first aid, Dr. Henry C. Link, a New York City psychologist, in a speech here recommended these rules:

1. Play games with other people, both physical and social games.

2. Take up competitive athletics and sports.

3. Join social organizations, the church, clubs, scouting, Y. M. C. A. and the like.

4. Take an active part in these organizations; get on committees and take responsibilities wherever possible.

5. Cultivate the ability to treat members of the opposite sex like equals. Dating is a good way.

6. Children who dance together get a good start toward a sound attitude.

7. Cultivate the habit of economic independence. Don't depend upon your family or friends. Learn to take care of yourself. Children can start by doing chores in the home, by selling magazines and the like.

8. Form the habit of taking the initiative in dealing with other people. Don't wait for them to speak to you; speak to them.

9. Make friends by being friendly, whether you feel that way or not. If you cultivate only those who appeal to you, your circle of friends and acquaintances will shrink more and more.

10. Do all the above things in spite of discrimination or embarrassment. Only through the practice of these rules in the face of discouragement and difficulty can one acquire ease and natural polish.

Dr. Link if director of an organization formed to encourage business confidence.

Badminton Tournament Concluded

The Holy Name preliminary badminton tournament was brought to a successful conclusion last night. The play was featured by fast and heady badminton throughout.

The finals of men's doubles was scintillating at times, and the winners in doubt until the last point was conceded. Ladies doubles provided good badminton all evening. Mixed doubles held the interest of the spectators, there being some really fine badminton played in this event.

Following is the final result of play.

C.A.H.A. Splits With Parent Body Is Report

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—(Wednesday)—The Gazette said today it learned from "official sources" the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has severed relations with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. The split, according to the newspaper, will become effective Dec. 15.

The break, the paper adds, was brought on by refusal of the A.A.U. at its annual meeting in Regina two weeks ago, to approve all four points put forward by the C.A.H.A., namely, that professionals in the sport be considered amateurs in another; that amateurs be allowed compensation for broken working time; that amateurs be allowed to capitalize on their ability by accepting positions; that amateurs be allowed to compete against professionals without restriction.

The fourth point was the only one meeting A.A.U. approval.

Les Patrick Tempers Rash Young Blood With Old To Win With The N. Y. Rangers

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Surprise! The New York Rangers are leading the National Hockey League a merry chase, when a lot of rabid followers of white-thatched Lester Patrick's entry thought they might not show up when the circuit opened this winter.

The secret behind this rejuvenation of the team that failed in season, for the first time in 10 years, to squeeze into the Stanley Cup playoff, is the artistic blending of spirited youth with crafty age by that master dauber, Patrick.

Playing the best game he has shown in years, Frank Boucher, the oldest man in point of service in the league, since King Clancy retired, has been the steady factor that has made the play of such youngsters as Lynn Patrick, 22-year-old star of the Rangers' boss; the two brothers, Mac and Neil Colville, 20 and 22, respectively; Alex Shibley, 22, and Phil Watson, 22, the talk of the league.

Boucher and Clancy played together as amateurs. The only reason that King held the honors as oldest service player in the league up to his retirement was because he signed his contract with Ottawa 15 minutes ahead of Frank.

Level Head Main Asset
Boucher and Clancy first broke into hockey with the Ottawa Senators back in 1921. The 34-year-old centre, who served on that "greatest of all hockey forward walls teamed up with Bill and Bun Cook, has played the speediest sport every season since. While he isn't the flash on the ice he once was; his eagerness and skill more than make up for the recklessness of youth he has lost in some measure.

Probably Boucher's greatest asset as a puck chaser is his level head. For years he has been known as the fairest player on the ice. His knack of getting along with rivals has kept him out of a lot of battles.

That fact has enabled him to concentrate on playing the game, and not on defending himself against a lot of enemies he would have made through blows and harsh words.

The cleanest player in the game, Boucher hasn't been known to stage a fight on the ice since 1926. He has won the Lady Byng Trophy, emblematic of exemplary conduct, seven times in the last eight years.

In nine seasons he has spent only 104 minutes in the penalty box, whereas such a Peck, Bad News Eddie Shore of the Boston Bruins has served as much as 135 minutes in a single year.

Astute Patrick, for whom Boucher has slaved all these years, realizes the fact that Frank's even ways are just the tonic his flighty, skittery youngsters need under pressure. So Boucher is in there in every possible game.

Young Patrick A Comer
Work of the peagreens has been a tribute to his influence. In 1934 Patrick, Papa Patrick has a son who has promise of becoming one of the all-time greats of the game—if his dad doesn't persist in using him sparingly, fearing he will be accused of favoritism and cause discussion in the ranks.

Lynn's feat of starting in big time hockey as the son of a former luminary is unparalleled in the sport. With only one year of amateur hockey experience, with the Montreal Royal; when he was 21, the young fellow has developed into a whiz-bang forward, with plenty of speed, power, intestinal fortitude, and ability to take it.

Young Patrick is by no means the only young 'un with a promising future—the two Colvilles, Neil

With such a preponderance of young blood, it seems rash to predict that the Rangers will win the Stanley Cup this year.

But Lester Patrick has seemed to hit on just the right amount of seasoning as chief cook, and the Rangers will have plenty to say about who does win the old mug—if they don't.
