Generals First Casualties In Kilt vs. Trews Scrap

LONDON (CP) — Two distinguished British generals have become the first casualties in the battle of the kilt versus the trews.

The war office announced Wednesday that Maj.-Gen. E. Hakewill Smith and Maj.-Gen. R. E. Urquhart have resigned as honorary colonels, respectively, of the Royal Scots Fusiliers, which wear trews, and the Highland Regiment.

Their resignations were demanded by the army council after the two officers were unable to agree on a common uniform for their regiments, which have been ordered to amalgamate into a single unit under the army reorganization plan announced last summer.

KILT "IMPRACTICABLE"

The units have been asked to name new colonels. And just to make sure there is no further arguments on the question of kilts and trews, the army council says "the wearing of the kilt by a regiment which would form part of the Rowland Brigade would be impracticable."

The trews-kilt amalgamation is part of a full-scale army reorganization now under way in which 36 regiments are being combined into 18 units.

The Fusiliers, second oldest Scottish regiment of the line, formed in 1678, always have worn trews, tight-legged tartan trousers.

But the Highland Light Infantry newcomers of 1777, never have been seen in anying but the kilt.

The war office, seeking to save money with a slashed defence budget, told the two regiments to amalgamate or be disbanded. For five months, they have been fighting the order, marching in the streets, raising questions in Parliament and using every channel of protest.

Will Cooperate With A. V. Roe

...HFAX (CP)—Mines Minister Manson said Monday the Nova Scotia government is ready to co-operate with A. V. Roe Canada Limited in a survey of the coal situation in Springhill, N.S.

Mr. Manson said the initiative would have to come from Roe. "We will not take the first step . . . but will co-operate in any way possible."

Mr. Manson said he had been advised by Premier Stanfield of a letter from Roe asking that a committee survey the coal situation in hard-hit Springhill, scene of an explosion a year ago that killed 39 men in No. 4 pit, since closed down.

The committee would consist of representatives from the Springhill citizens' committee, the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, union officials and the provincial government. Mr. Stanfield was not available for comment.

Roe recently purchased control of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation of which the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company is a subsidiary.

Freighter Out Of Control In Hurricane-Swept Area

HONOLULU (AP)—A 418 - foot tramp freighter, flying the flag of Greece, reported Tuesday it was "out of control" in a hurricane-swept area of the mid-Pacific.

The Margarita Chandris, with a crew of 35 to 40 men, gave no other information. There was speculation in Honolulu shipping circles that she may have lost a rudder.

The ship was sailing in ballast —without cargo. Thus she probably was riding higher, offering a large target for the battering of Hurricane Nina which lashed the Hawaiian Islands Sunday night and Monday morning.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Winnebago sped into the area, some 70 miles south-southwest of the French Frigate Shoals.

The position given in the SOS was about 420 miles northwest of Honolulu. The weather bureau said charts indicated winds of 50 to 55 miles an hour.

In the distress call the ship's position was given as latitude 23.00 north, longitude 165.15 west. An hour earlier, the weather bureau fixed Hurricane Nina's position as 20.90 north and 164.50 west.

The coast guard said the cargo liner President Monroe was expected in the area about 4 a.m. EST Wednesday.

The Greek ship had been scheduled to reach Honolulu at 8 a.m. Tuesday. But her captain messaged she was being delayed by the hurricane. That was the last word until the distress call.

Doubts Princess Should Get Honorary Doctorate Of Music

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mirror expressed doubt Tuesday that Princess Margaret, a known jazz fan, is qualified for the long-hair honorary doctorate of music the University of London is giving her.

The presentation is scheduled today.

As evidence of Margaret's taste in music, columnist John Rolls of the pro-Labor paper cited her "great collection of jazz records," Louis Armstrong's description of her as a "real hep chick," Count Basie's dedication of the "H.R.H. Boogie" to her and her liking for the records of Mel Torme, Danny Kaye, Eddie Fisher, Nat King Cole and Noel Coward.

Rolls said he was advised that Margaret actually is "a very competent pianist both of jazz and the classics," although it seems plain she much prefers the lighter stuff.

"No doubt she could not politely refuse the musical doctorate which the dons of London University have offered her," he commented. "But surely they could have offered this great musical honor to someone more vitally concerned with serious music."

The 27-year-old princess will receive the degree from the Queen Mother, chancellor of the university.

Rolls says this "is an example of the sort of thing which could be dropped if the court is to become up to date—and down to earth."

He asks why the princess should get the degree and asserts that "conferring these honors on royalty is becoming too much of a habit." He adds:

"I cannot find a recorded instance of Princess Margaret attending a classical concert in the last 12 months.

"Of course, she has been to choral events at St. Paul's Cathedral at Christmastide and there have been one or two charity functions which she patronizes involving listening to serious music.

"But that sort of thing is part of the princess' job."

Dulles Says Don't Forget U. S. S. R. Expansion Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles said Tuesday the West should not forget the political, economic, and psychological warfare the Soviet Union is carrying on to extend its power.

In an interview recorded here by the BBC, Dulles also said he would not exclude the possibility of conferences with the Soviet Union. But he said the usefulness of such meetings is "greatly limited when you cannot depend upon the other man's promises."

He described Russia as possibly the first nation to turn "treaty-breaking into a regularly accepted means of gaining their ends in the world."

Dulles predicted that the forthcoming North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting at Paris will result in increased consultation among NATO members. But he said some flexibility is required in determining just when and on what issues to consult.

On the question of tieing together NATO and other alliances, such as the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, Dulles said there should be greater interlocking, perhaps achieved by having observers from one alliance present to keep track of the work of another.

GETS U.S. CLEARANCE

Dulles' interview was given Monday to BBC representative Christopher Serpell and was released by the state department.

Dulles said he thinks the public attaches a great deal of importance, perhaps excessive importance, to the military aspects of the world - wide conflict with Russia.

The non - military aspects are just as important as the military, he said, as shown by the fact that many great Soviet successes have been achieved by non-military means.

"It is very important" he added, "that we shouldn't get our eyes so fixed on the skies, on Sputnik, that we forget what's actually going on underfoot, and that is the political, economic, psychological warfare which they are carrying on."

Signs Of Auto Insurance Boost

TORONTO (CP) — There were indications Wednesday of an increase in automobile insurance rates across Canada.

A spokesman for the All Canada Insurance Federation said an announcement was expected sometime next week. An insurance company official said the increase probably would be between five and six per cent.

Automobile insurance rates rose last January and again in the fall after small but steady decreases since a 1953 peak.
