Globe-Trotter On New Jaunt

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21—D. Jay Collier has packed his old kit bag and started off on another jaunt, this time to celebrate his 42nd wedding anniversary.

Collier is 86. He is said to be the most widely traveled man in the world. He has departed from his home in Cleveland, Ohio, exactly 79 times for foreign parts, and has covered something like 3,000,000 miles.

Business interferes with travel, according to Collier, so he got rid of his business a few years ago to concentrate upon the call of wanderlust.

"I got settled down about a year ago, but then I got to ailing and decided a trip would help me out," he said.

Consequently, Mr. and Mrs. Collier sailed together to celebrate their wedding anniversary. Off-hand, Collier recalls the following jaunts: six times around the world; twice around Africa; seven times around South America; three times to Japan and China; 30 times to Florida and Cuba, and 31 trips to the Pacific coast.

JASPER OPENS FOR SEASON

JASPER, Alta., June 21—With trout fishing in newly opened Maligne Lake a big drawing card, Jasper National Park has opened its tourist season in promising fashion. Guides report bookings and inquiries greatly improved over the last two years, and some ten people are already casting their rods over the waters of Maligne Lake which last year gained for itself the reputation of being one of the greatest fishing grounds on the continent. Jasper Park Lodge already has a quota of fifteen guests with weather conditions remaining ideal and the famous golf course, over which the Canadian Championship was played a few years ago, is in better shape during mid-June than it has ever been.

FREDERICTON, N. B., June 21—The Maritime Firemen's Tournament of 1933, as it is being arranged by the Fredericton Department, promises to be a real big event in the Provincial Capital. Beginning on the night of July 24th, the program calls for three days entertainment that will leave the visitors feeling at once glad that they came and yet content to return home.

Already Karl A. Walker, Chief of the Fredericton Fire Department, has received inquiries from upward of fifty volunteer departments whose members are enrolled in the Maritime Fire Fighters Association and in most cases the queries contain applications for entries in the various events to be run in the firemen's field sport meet. In addition to the Maritime companies several fire departments in the State of Maine have also signified their desire of taking part and at the

Human Varieties Shown in Museum

CHICAGO, June 21—(C.P.)—All contemporary types of the human race, in bronze and stone, went on public view here with the opening of Chauncey Keep Memorial of the Field Museum of Natural History.

Slender and graceful, an African girl transfixed in wild gyration of a tribal dance, stands petrified at the brink of crescendo. Squatted beside her an old negro pounds his crude drum for a tune known never to be finished.

A nimble Hawaiian balances on a surf board. A Solomon Islander climbs the trunk of a cocconut tree. Around a cock fight is gathered a group of Malaysians. An Australian bushman poises to hurl his poisoned spear.

The racial types range from swart Sumatrans to smart New Yorkers. The statues are all the work of Malvina Huffman, sculptor who spent three years poking about the ends of the earth in the interests of art and science. Far into the depths of dank, tropical jungles she pushed her safari. The story of contemporary mankind was the object of her hunts; her weapons, a notebook and a batch of clay.

Victor de Reszke Plays For Pennies

LONDON, June 21—The only son of the glorious bass, Edouard de Reszke, is playing a guitar on the streets of London to keep his wife and five-months-old son from starving.

And with him is Maurice Gaye, a concert singer, and son-in-law of a baronet.

Both are public-school men. Any night in Soho, and any day in one of the suburbs, you can see and hear them, collecting pennies in a hat.

Gaye wears a mask to prevent his identity becoming known. Victor de Reszke uses another name. There is a third man, too, a Lithuanian violinist.

"I hated my father," said de Reszke, speaking of his early years. "He sent me to a public school, but I could not stand the way he treated my mother, who was an Englishwoman."

"He left £35,000—but not to my mother—or me. With my last savings I sent her to Italy."

"When I left school I went on the stage. I began with Tree and Matheson Lang, and later toured for two years as a juvenile lead."

"Then I ran dance bands. But my old illness, asthma, forced me out of the stage."

"Three years ago I married, and I have a small son."

"Necessity drove me to the streets. By chance I met Maurice Gaye in a cafe. One of his singing masters had been a pupil of de Reszke, and so we decided to try street work together."

"I took nerve, but we have been doing it for a month, and we make enough to live on."

"In a good day we make about eight shillings, and that is split among the three of us."

Sportsmen Come For Holiday

MATAPEDIA, Que., June 17—Practically every day sees sportsmen getting off the Ocean Limited of the Canadian National Railways here to fish adjacent salmon streams and those in Gaspé Peninsula. It is the largest invasion of sportsmen for the past three years. Yesterday thirty American fishermen arrived and the day previous a party of twenty-five disembarked from the train. The majority being Upper Canadians among whom were Senator Donat Raymond and Mr. Norman Daves of Montreal. NOTED MINIATURE PAINTER TO LOCATE IN CANADA

MONTREAL, Que., June 21—The Baroness von Ritschl, well known in England as a miniature painter under her maiden name, Lorna Burgoyne, is looking for a suitable farm in Canada upon which she and the baron, an Austrian, might settle. The baroness leads a busy life. She divides her time between Austria and her native Devonshire, in England. In Austria she lives on her husband's farm. In England she is a member of the British Society of Women Artists and an Associate of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters. Besides, she is the mother of two children. Lorna Burgoyne miniatures have been widely exhibited in England, and one was bought by Queen Mary. It was dull weather, interfering with landscape work, that led the baroness into the specialty of painting flowers in miniature. She has an odd technique which she guards as a professional secret. If the baroness comes to live in Canada she hopes to help found an association of Canadian miniature painters, there being no such association at present. She left recently by the Canadian National Railways for a visit to New York and Baltimore. The baroness' grandfather was Capt. Burgoyne of the famous racing clipper, "Titania," which brought tea to England from India. Her husband's family is one of the oldest in Austria.

Make Study Of Annual Parasites

DR. IVAN W. PARNELL, OF MACDONALD COLLEGE, MEMBER OF EASTERN ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

MONTREAL, June 20—First steps towards a study of the parasites in a number of wild animals in North-west Quebec will be taken this summer by a member of the staff of the recently-established Institute of Parasitology at Macdonald College. Dr. Ivan W. Parnell will be a member of the Eastern Arctic Expedition, due to sail from Montreal on the Nascopee on July 8, and he hopes to be able to collect, preserve and bring back a number of samples for research investigation at the Institute.

Although the members of the staff in parasitology have been largely concerned so far with a study of the parasites of domestic animals, it was announced when the Institute was founded that attention would also be directed to some of the northern fur-bearing animals which are destroyed in great numbers every year by parasites. The Arctic expedition seemed to provide a suitable opening for commencement of this work, and arrangements were made between the federal department of the Interior and McGill University for Dr. Parnell to make the trip.

Specimens will be taken largely in northern Quebec on this trip, and if the efforts are successful a wider field will be covered later taking in the Churchill district and various sections of the Northwest Territories of Canada.

Dr. Parnell will keep his eye open for specimens for other McGill departments, such as entomology, during his trip. He will go as far as Quebec, Ont., with the expedition and then return by train, while the people will continue on to Inuit.

DAMAGED WALLS

Pieces of unused wallpaper are usually kept, when a room has to be redecorated, so that accidental damage may be repaired. When only a small patch is needed it should not be cut from the new paper, but carefully torn to the required size. When the patch is pasted on the wall the rough edge will be less noticeable than one that has been sharply cut. If the paper has a distinct pattern to which the patch must be exactly adjusted a piece rather larger than is actually required should first be cut out from the spare paper. This piece should then be held over the damaged spot and the correct outline marked as nearly as possible by pin pricks through the paper. The edge may then be torn round by the pricks. A thin paste made from flour and water should be used to secure the patch.

It is hoped, however, a week or more of complete rest will restore him to health.

WHY DOES THE HEN MOVE ON THE NEST

SAINT JOHN, N. B. June 21—Why does the hen move on the nest? This apparently foolish question is the answer to the success which has been attained in production of chicks in incubator hatching, states the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. To compensate for the natural movement of the eggs caused by the hen stirring about the nest, every six hours the shelves in the incubators upon which the eggs are placed are moved to keep the yolk of the eggs mobile and prevent their sticking to the shell. Eighteen days after the eggs are placed in the incubators they are removed to the sanitary hatching, or another hatching machine, where the moisture content is increased to soften the shells and thus enable the chick to make an easier entrance into the world. The incubators are maintained at a constant temperature of 100 degrees with a humidity of 95. The Mari-
