B. and P. Women Meet For Dinner

The regular monthly dinner meeting of the Charlottetown Business and Professional Women's Club was held Monday evening in the Breakfast Room of the Charlottetown Hotel. The president Miss Dorothy Cullen was in the chair. The color scheme of the tables was in gold and green, the Club's colors. The head table was centred with a large bowl of yellow mums on either side of which were three brass candle sticks with green tapers.

The program committee consisted of: Mrs. Craswell, Miss Hilda Harper, Miss Ethel Sutherland, Miss Ann Walch, Miss Bessie Beer, Miss Isabel MacDonald and Mrs. Millicent Beer.

Observers chosen to attend the International Congress in Montreal July eighth are: Mrs. Helen Dunbar, Miss Dorothy Cullen, Miss Bessie Prowse and Miss Gertrude Love. Two delegates were appointed to attend the National Convention which follows the Congress in Montreal. These were Mrs. Helen Dunbar and Miss Bessie Prowse.

Following the business part of the meeting Mrs. Grace Osborne, a Club member was introduced as the speaker for the evening by Miss Hilda Harper. Taking as her subject "Christmas in Labrador", Mrs. Osborne spoke from a background of rich experiences. Mrs. Osborne, a nurse by profession, served three years as Dr. Grenfell's assistant surgical nurse. Mrs. Osborne after her marriage was fourteen years in Labrador and lived at one of the lonliest lighthouses in Canada. She has spoken on Labrador one hundred and three times in Prince Edward Island. Christmas in Labrador is celebrated from Christmas eve until January sixth. Mrs. Osborne told of the food, the various customs and climatic conditions. Chiefly she traced the ancient custom of Mummery which is carried on in Labrador, tracing its growth from the Miracle Plays to the present day. Now from such totally divergent places as the historic cultured old city of Philadelphia, Mrs. Osborne's home city, the Kentucky Mountains, the Mardi Gras of Louisiana, to the wilds of Labrador, Mummery is still the good fri[illegible] in disguise.

Miss [illegible]abel MacDonald in her vote of thanks to Mrs. Osborne said: "Within our own ranks we have unlimited resources of talent as demonstrated to us to-night in Mrs. Osborne's address on Labador". Miss Dorothy Cullen adjourned the meeting.

Year Marked By Wholesale Turnover In Defense Heads

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—This year saw an almost wholesale turnover in the high command of the defence department.

The biggest commotion was raised over the retirement at 52 of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, regarded as Canada's most brilliant field commander in the Second World War.

He was replaced Sept. 1 by a man nearly five years his senior, Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham, head of the army's central command since 1951.

The announcement of the replacement of Gen. Simonds came less than a year after Hon. Ralph Campney took over as defence minister from Brooke Claxton.

IN NO. 2 POST

Air Marshal Frank R. Miller, 47, in August succeeded Brig. C. M. (Bud) Drury, 43, as deputy defence minister, No. 2 post in the department.

Before the year was out, the retirements of Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, 54, as chief of naval staff, and Dr. E. M. Solandt, 46, as chairman of the defence research board, were announced.

Admiral Mainguy is to be succeeded Jan. 16 by Vice-Admiral Harry George Dewolf, 52, and Dr. Solandt March 1 by A. Hartley Zimmerman, 53.

Though Air Marshal Roy Slemon remained as chief of air staff, one of his top lieutenants, Air Vice-Marshal John Plant, 44, chief of technical services, was removed from his post.

Air Vice-Marshal Plant advocated in a Toronto speech in early June that the army be scrapped to make way for a bigger air force and was promptly removed from his job which involves tri-service policy. He was made head of the RCAF's air materiel command.

CAMPNEY'S STATEMENT

No official reason was given for Gen. Simonds' retirement when it was announced June 8 except that, in the words of Mr. Campney, he had "completed the normal four-year term."

Gen. Simonds was chief of the general staff four years and seven months. His predecessor, Gen. Charles Foulkes, now chairman of the chiefs of staff, held the post five years and seven months.

the wedding of Elizabeth and her prince in 1947, thrilled at the birth of a royal heir a year later, was

Meanwhile, the age-old human concern with life and love and birth and death went on unabated.

Of the last 19 armed forces chiefs, only three, including Gen. Simonds, served roughly four years.

It is generally understood that Gen. Simonds did not want to retire but had planned to stay on at least another year as chief of staff.

In the Commons, the Progressive Conservative Opposition raised a fuss about the general's retirement. They maintained that Gen. Simonds' talents were being wasted and asked why he was not promoted chairman of the chiefs of staff as had been done in the case of Gen. Foulkes.

Gen. Simonds publicly advocated military conscription on two or three occasions, the last time just a few weeks before he was retired.

FIRST FROM RCAF

Air Marshal Miller, a native of Kamloops, B.C., is the first RCAF officer to become deputy defence minister.

Mr. Drury had been deputy minister since 1949 and was said to have wanted to get back to private business for some time. He became president and general manager of Provincial Transport Company at Montreal, his home city.

No reason was given for Dr. Solandt's departure to join Canadian National Railways as vice-president in charge of research and development.

But it was said that for some time he considered his work finished at the defence research board which he has headed since its foundation in 1947. As chairman of the board, he received $17,500 a year. As CNR vice-president he will get a reported $25,000.

No reason was given either for the retirement of Admiral Mainguy chief of naval staff since Dec. 1, 1951, though it was expected after Gen. Simonds retired.

Tax Changes Suggested By Commerce Chamber

MONTREAL CP -The Canadian Chamber of Commerce calls for a number of "specific changes" in income tax, excise tax and Dominion succession duty taxes in a brief made public Tuesday.

Some of its suggestions are new, others resubmissions.

The brief was prepared by the chamber's public finance and taxation committee part of the executive council- and mailed to Ottawa for scrutiny by Finance Minister Harris and Revenue Minister McCann.

The government has been asked: To ease medical expense deductions on personal incomes by applying the three-per-cent "floor" to income after personal exemptions; to provide greater tax equality between tax rates applicable to corporations regardless of ownership; to appoint professional accountants to the income tax appeal board, because the board deals "continually with accounting problems."

The CCC also suggests tax assessments by the department of national revenue should be issued only after taxpayers' returns have been "adequately reviewed."

ONE-YEAR PERIOD

Right to reassess a taxpayer, except in fraud cases, should be limited to one-year period dating from assessment, it is contended. Assessments should be issued in loss years as will as profit ones, and taxpayers should "have the right of appeal from any assessment."

The government is urged to amend the income tax act to benefit persons providing individually for their retirement. The CCC brief suggests, that such persons be granted tax exemptions similar to those given persons contributing to approved pension schemes.

Recommendations made again this year to the two ministers involved include:

That beneficiaries under a deferred profit-sharing plan be taxed only as and when they receive payments under the plan; that a wife employed by the husband as an ordinary employee be eligible to list her salary separately rather than jointly with her husband's; that costs of appeals assessments be deductable in determining taxable income.

Immigration To Canada Down As Would Prospers

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration to Canada slipped more than 30 per cent in 1955, barely getting over the 100,000 mark, responsible officials here estimate.

The reason? They say immigrant pools in foreign lands are drying up because of better economic conditions and more employment abroad.

They estimated the 1955 total won't be more than 110,000 immigrants, compared with the 154,227 persons who came to Canada's shoes to make new homes in 1954. The official 1955 figure won't be available until next month.

This latest skid - immigration has been going down almost continuously since 1951-undoubtedly will trigger a hot debate at the new session of Parliament opening Tuesday.

SHARP CRTICISM

It probably will rival that of last session when the government's immigration policies and practices were
