Racy Literature.

Drunkenness turns a man out of himself, and leaves a beast in his room.

Where ought the milk of human kindness to be always found? Within the pale of the church.

Philip Sidney said, "I am no herald to enquire of men's pedigrees; it is enough for me to know their virtues."

It is very dangerous for any man to find any spot on this broad earth that is sweeter to him than his home.—H. W. Beecher.

Adversity has ever been considered as the state in which a man most easily becomes acquainted with himself—particularly being free from flatterers.

"Papa, what is humbug?" "It is," replied papa, "when mamma pretends to be very fond of me, and put no buttons on my shirt till reminded of it a dozen times.'

Snooks wonders where all the pillow-cases go to. He says he never asked a woman while engaged on plain sewing what she was making, without being told that it was pillow-cases.

"Is there any danger of the boa-constrictor biting me?" asked a lady visitor at the Zoological Gardens. "Not the least, marm,,' replied the show man; "he never bites, he swallow his wittles whole."

A strong-minded woman in this city was heard to remark the other day that she would marry any man who had plenty of money though he was so ugly she had to scream every time she looked at him.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness;" and this is the reason, my little dears, why you are put in the tub on Saturday night, before being taken to church on Sunday morning."

Mrs Mount Chessington: "Dear me, Dundreary, what a singular child!" His Lordship: "O—Of course he is a vewy singular. (With earnestness). I—If he w—w—wasn't he'd have been t—twins, or something of that sort."

Master: "Well, did you deliver the message?" Servant: "Yes, sir, but I think the gentleman is rather queer." Master: "Queer! how do you mean?" Servant (laughing): "Well, sir, he asked me where my hat was, and it was on my head all the time."

A little negro passing a drug store was accosted with, "I say Bub, what makes your feet so long behind?" The little negro answered, "Why, massa, you see when de Lord made us niggahs he thought he wouldn't give us any feet; but when he made up his mind to gub 'em, we was so glad dat we jumped right into the middle of 'em—det's so!"

Things not worth trying.—Dip the Mississippi dry with a teaspoon; twist your heel into the toe of your boot; send up fishing-hooks with balloons, and fish for stars; get astride a gossamer, and chase a comet; choke a flea with a brckbat; but never attempt to coax a woman to say she will when she has made up her mind to say she won't.—Spurgeon's Proverbs and Jingles.

A short dialogue heard at one of the stations of a railway in Germany: "Your tickets, gentlemen, if you please?" "Ah! Himmelkreuzschochwerenothtonnerwetter! May I be devoured by ten million devils if I can find my ticket. Ah, here it is; for Elberfeld." A mild clergyman; "Sir, if you swear in that way, you are more likely to go to hell than to Elberfeld." "Oh! it make no difference; I have a return ticket!"

Bulls.—Punch reports the speech of an Irish M. P. who thought Ireland was overtaxed: "Take a tenth of your income, sir? Ay, they do, and they'd take a twentieth if they dared." An American lecturer of note solemnly said one evening: "Parents, you have children; or, if have you not, your daughters may have." A Western editor once wrote: "A correspondent asks whether the Battle of Waterloo occurred before or after the commencement of the Christian era. We answer it did."

SINGULAR OBITUARY NOTICE.—One of the Spanish provincial papers publishes a singular notice in its obituary. It says: "This morning our Saviour summoned away the jeweller Sicbald Illmaga to another and a better world. The undersigned, his widow, will weep upon his tomb, as will also his two daughters, Hilda and Emma, the former of whom is married, and the latter is open to an offer. The funeral will take place to-morrow. His disconsolate widow, VERNIQUE ILLMAGA.—P. S.: This bereavement will not interrupt our buisness, which will be carried on as usual, only our place of business will be removed from No. 3 Tessi des Teinturiers, to No. 4 Rue de Missionarie, as our grasping landlord has raised our rent."

A 'CUTE ONE AT MEETING A DIFFICULTY.—Houses, particularly the inferior sort, are more plentiful than they were some years ago, but many proprietors and factors are still very particular about the choice of tenants, and they have an almost Malthusian dread of large families of children. A woman who numbers no fewer than eight of the cherubs round her fireside applied a few days ago to parties who had houses to let for a room to shelter them. Her proposals were well enough entertained till she answered the inquiry as to extent of her family, when no landlord could be found to accommodate them. Driven to the exercise of her wits, they did not fail her in the sad emergency. She took the childen to the churchyard, and placing them within the gate, told them to wait there till she tied in another quarter. The usual question was put, "Have you any children?" to which the anxious mother repied in tremulous tones, "Deed, sir, I have eight but they're a' in the kirkyard." Human nature could not resist the appeal of one who had been so greatly bereaved, and she was accepted as a tenant. It is needless to say that the little ones were soon transferred to their new home from that temporary abode where many generations have rested long.—Hawick Advertiser.
