IN MEMORIAM

SOMERS — In memoriam of Walter Somers who passed away November 12, 1962

We often think of bygone days
When we were all together,
The family circle is broken now
But memories will live forever.
If we had all the world to give,
We'd give it yes, and more
To see the face of our dear Dad
Come smiling in the door
Inserted by his daughter Mrs. William Hickox.

GRAHAM — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Bessy Graham, who departed this life Nov. 12, 1961.

November brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest.
But will never be forgotten
By the ones who loved her best.
Though her smile has gone forever
And her hand we cannot touch
We shall never lose sweet memories
Of a mom we loved so much.
Always remembered and sadly missed by daughter Hattie and grandchildren.

SOMERS — In loving memory of my dear husband, Walter Somers, who passed away November 12, 1962.

Dear husband, you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
You who have a grandfather
Cherish him with care
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see the vacant chair.
In loving memory by his wife Florence and grandchildren Milton, Donna and Lyman.

GREGORY — In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, Frederick J. Gregory who passed away November 12, 1957.

We lost a husband and father

Dearer to us than wealth untold
Happy and smiling, always content
Loved and respected wherever he went
Always thoughtful, loving and kind
A beautiful memory he left behind.
Sadly missed and always remembered by his loving wife and family.

SOMERS — In loving memory of my dear grandfather, Walter Somers, who passed away November 12, 1962

Dear pop you are not forgotten
Nor will never be
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

Weather Aids Harvest Cleanup, Brings Fears of Water Shortage

By J. LINCOLN DEWAR

The past few days have certainly been something special from the standpoint of getting the late harvest saved and for baling the thousands of acres of straw still on the fields.

A small acreage of potatoes may still remain but generally the crop is almost entirely saved and it is a bumper one.

We suspect that quite a large acreage of "sprouts" are still unharvested and this crop represents a very considerable amount of hand work. Should the weather become wet and cold this sort of fodder should be really disagreeable.

Without posing as a prophet of doom perhaps we should realize that winter can set in almost any day and stay. Last year the snow which came in November never left until May.

WATER SUPPLY

Some concern is now becoming evident at the level of water in farm wells. While there has been, during the past two months considerable dull weather there hasn't been usually heavy rainfall and should freeze-up occur without heavy rain, trouble is in the offing waterwise for the coming winter. If our memory is correct it was three winters ago that many farmers had to go through the business of hauling water and that is an extra chore which never ends, particularly as livestock appears to have a great thirst when the well is dry.

POTATO THOUGHTS

Due to holidays and other complications this letter is written before the potato meeting in Summerside. Thus we are in no position to report on or analyse the results.

However, the meeting is significant whether it is well attended or whether there is poor attendance. If well attended, it can be assumed that potato growers have a basic concern in the industry and are prepared to carry out some planning for the future.

If the attendance is poor, then this would suggest that concern for the industry isn't evident when prices are good and exists only when there are potato difficulties. Next week we will, of course, be in a much better position to report on the Summerside meeting.

SOIL TESTING

Shortly some 40 soil probes will be distributed as prizes to winners in the sixth Pasture Improvement Competition. This award again raises the point that the fall is a good time of the year to take soil samples as they can be dealt with early in the winter and plans made for fertilization and liming next spring.

If you plan to take soil samples, now is the time to do it.

This is a reminder that cattle farmers west of Portage will be between Nov. 17 and 25 have the opportunity of taking part in a warble fly elimination program.

Eradication of this pest can be a very important factor in improving returns from cattle and in removing the annoyance of cattle running with the fly.

NEW PEST

A new insect pest and this one stays in the year around is the cluster fly. This one resembles a large housefly but the habits are very different. The cluster fly hides in the walls, collects in attics, comes in through the wiring, and while not having the filthy habits of the housefly is still not very pleasant company.

The adult lays its eggs in cracks in the soil during the spring and summer, these hatch in a few days into maggots which at the first opportunity enter an earthworm by penetrating the body wall.

The maggot develops in the earthworm, emerges later and changes to a pupa which becomes an adult fly. So far there is no practical way of controlling the development of cluster flies, thus every effort has to be made to keep them out of buildings and this is very difficult.

MONCTON MEETING

Last Wednesday the Maritime Federation of Agriculture made up of the three Provincial Federations met with Dr. Benoit Gauvin, Feed Grains Administrator and Deputy Minister from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

A great deal of discussion took place on proposals for a more permanent type of freight assistance on Western grain and on the agency for the East recommended by farm interests.

To represent the Maritime organization in these matters a Feed Grains Committee of five persons has been set up. Later in the meeting a very good discussion took place with the Deputy Ministers who will be attending the annual Dominion-Provincial Conference later this month in Ottawa and also an ARDA meeting in Montreal.

ATLANTIC FAIR

The second Atlantic Winter Fair has ended history but the general impression appears to be that progress was made in smartening the show up and in general streamlining the entire operation. Certainly the change in price of admission to a dollar from a one ticket basis was a move in the right direction.

The building which housed the handicraft, fruit and vegetables, and other small displays was almost ideal for the purpose.

The 2200 entries in these sections made up a very attractive display. As the show has been quite extensively reported on by the press, there is no point in adding to this other than to say that the Atlantic Winter Fair seems to be on the way to becoming an important feature of Maritime agriculture.

ACROSS THE ISLAND

Fair Reminiscences, Islanders Are Great

By NEIL A. MATHESON
Provincia-Farm Editor

I HAVE written in considerable detail about Island winnings at the fair in the Guardian's news pages, but I learned this week that Shirley Burke, Elm Avenue—she's the Pipe Major of the Lads and Lassies Pipe Band—gained additional honors in the class in which I reported a first prize for her early last week.

That was the first prize for her Cockatiel. She also won a Rosette for second best bird in the British and foreign bird class, and has an attractive China mug and saucer donated by James Beattie, a bird fancier from Dartmouth, N.S. This beautiful bird attracted a great deal of attention at the big show and Shirley is understandably proud as a result.

This is my first opportunity to extend my most hearty congratulations to all of the Prince Edward Island people who participated, with such great credit to themselves and to the Island. It was easy for me to carry my head high as I toured the fair facilities, seeking news of the many triumphs and taking pictures of a few of the more prominent ones.

THE STRING of victories started with the ladies' homecraft work, the potato championships and the finished steer champions—all three reports came in my first batch of stories.

The Prince County Hockey team added to the glow on Saturday night when the Red Point Farmers' tug-of-war team completed successfully the international bid for the Atlantic championship they had started on Friday evening.

It was a tremendous 10 days of successful competition so far as our people were concerned. Again congratulations.

Before I leave this phase of the fair, I must explain that there were many Prince County businessmen and women from the sister provinces. The Island does not even compete in many phases of the show. And Nova Scotia and New Brunswick breeders of livestock also scored impressive triumphs in livestock rings. But pound for pound, and allowance made for the size and number of our exhibits, our livestock men were outstanding. Write for an Island newspaper as I do, that's just the way it should be.

Marked Improvement Seen In Fair

MARKED IMPROVEMENT was seen in many phases of the fair this year over the standard reached on the first attempt in 1963, but there are a number of changes being considered, and others that are hoped for, by exhibitors and fair people alike.

Livestock superintendent Alex Lamond—he's also vice-president of the fair—said following the completion of the livestock part of the exhibition "I'm 100 percent happy about it. There is a great improvement over 1963". He added that the livestock show had improved both in quality and quantity.

Elsewhere throughout the vast array of exhibits and commercial displays, visitors were fairly unanimous in their opinion that the display was more interesting and that its scope had been greatly expanded.

Split Show Is Unpopular

JUST ABOUT everyone concerned was unhappy about the "split" show method for cattle. Holsteins, Jerseys, Dual Purpose Shorthorns and Angus were shown on Monday and Tuesday. Then they had to clear out of the cattle barn and make room for Hereford, Scotch Shorthorn, Guernsey and Ayrshire cattlemen who had to be ready to show their animals starting Wednesday noon.

There were many reasons why this was unsatisfactory. It makes a rush-period for all of the cattlemen, particularly those who showed on the last two days. Many cattlemen said it gave them no time to talk to visitors and to each other, or to make sales, or gain experience and information.

But the fair people also dislike it. Mr. Lamond emphasized that fact; so it looks like a remedy will come as soon as extensions to facilities warrant it.

Government Grants Discussed

AND THAT brings me to something I learned in a chat with this genial gentleman, after the livestock show was completed, and we had a chance to relax. The big fair has not drawn a cent of government money to date. The only working capital has been put up by the City of Halifax, and it amounts to something more than $200,000, of which some $102,000 was for the stanchions and related equipment for the livestock.

It's easy to say Halifax benefits from the fair, but you have to listen to their retort "why should we put up the money to finance an Atlantic Fair?"

I have to agree with the Lamond idea that the government grant that went formerly to he Maritime Winter Fair should be made available now to the AFW, at least so long as there is no revival of the old MWF, and that seem unlikely at the present time.

Nova Scotia's minister of agriculture has agreed that this province should give their share of the old MWF grant to this new fair. Our Andrew MacRae agrees and stands ready to recommend to our government that we do the same thing, he told me this week. But thus far New Brunswick's minister is not ready to do the same thing. The New Brunswickers, apparently, are still not convinced that Halifax is not too far away from them to join in wholeheartedly in the fair program.

THE PROVINCIAL grants would total some $18,000, Mr. Lamond tells me. And the federal government would match that money. So an additional $36,000 would be available annually, which would ease the problem of breaking even financially.

And it is a problem. They lost $28,000 the first year, I was told. Figures were not available for this year when we were talking, as there was still more than a full day to go. I still have not heard whether the expenditures and receipts have been totalled and compared.

Before I leave this fair story, I want to acknowledge with warm appreciation the courtesies extended to me during the 10 days I spent gathering stories for this paper. They came to me everywhere I went. It would be most unfair to single out anyone for special mention. Little things may seem unimportant at the time, but they all add up to make covering the AWF one of my most enjoyable working experiences.

SENIOR AND GRAND CHAMPION HOLSTEIN

Appliances And War Toys Feature Show At Montreal

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP)—Miniature appliances and battery-operated war machines are some of the things little girls and boys will find under their Christmas tree this year.

The Toy Fair, held here by the Canadian Playthings Manufacturers, promises children a variety of toys that should also keep their parents amused during the yuletide season.

Little girls have been provided with their own tiny electric stove, complete with cake mixes and tins, and they run no risk of burning their fingers on this safety-assured toy.

New in the world of dolls is Trixy the Posing Pixy, a soft foam doll with a pixy face and internal wire cables that let her strike any pose. Tressy is a doll with hair that grows when you press a button and disappears when you wind a key.

War toys shown for boys included a battery-operated gun that shoots harmless grenades and can be converted to fire two other missiles, and a cannon that fires 35 feet.

Various road race table-top sets and a wide range of plastic assembly kits were also displayed.

TRAP THE MOUSE

Mousetrap is a new game played with dice on a board. A plastic construction which will trap each player's mouse is gradually built up in the centre of the board. Other games included a bilingual card game, assembling an outer space animal called Coette, guided missiles and fishing.

Many of the toys can be used for home decorating. Hollow plastic sailboats look like real models and can be placed on the mantlepiece when out of water. A new type of mosaic set for creative children turns out extremely attractive pictures that can be framed when completed.

For children wis'ing to go into the toy car washing business, a complete replica of the real thing is available — and mother doesn't have to worry about the water ruining her carpet. It is automatically collected inside the plastic covering and siphoned into a tube to be used for the next car wash.

Directive By Newspapers Described Silly, Dangerous

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerald Pelletier, editor - in - chief of Montreal La Presse, said here a directive issued by the management of two Quebec newspapers to their newsroom supervisory staffs is "both entirely silly and very dangerous."

Speaking during a panel discussion on biculturalism at the annual meeting of the Canadian Public Relations Society, Mr. Pelletier said:

"A very great number of newspapers throughout Canada are doing just that—suppressing news."

Quebec Le Soleil and l'Evenement issued instructions Oct. 22 to their newsroom supervisory staffs to limit in prominence and ban some reports about separatism, nationalism and protests against established authority.

In a front - page statement Monday the two dailies said they will treat news on the basis of recognized journalistic standards, keeping in mind the nature and importance of facts and statements as well as the public standing and authority of persons concerned.

Two additional organizations have armed protests at the directive.

In Jonquiere, Que., the National Federation of Pulp and Paper Workers, an affiliate of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, asked the management of the two dailies to modify the instructions and expressed the hope that the directive will be changed.

In Quebec City, the executive of the French - language corporation of Catholic Teachers in Quebec Province (Corporation des Instituteurs et Institutrices Catholiques du Quebec) also adopted a resolution of criticism.

The 70 - member executive, representing 40,000 teachers throughout Quebec, urged that the question of freedom of the press be studied in depth to find out how the power of information media can best be used to serve society.

The resolution recommended that journalists initiate the inquiry and keep the public informed of the progress of the studies, which it said could be carried out under the auspices of the journalists' professional organizations, or with the help of universities.

Newsman Tells Of Story Leak

OTTAWA (CP)—A reporter for the Kitchener-Waterloo Record has informed Labor Minister MacEachen he learned of the possibility of a Japanese car plant locating in Nova Scotia from a "private non-political source."

Mr. MacEachen's office released a telegram received from the reporter, Sandy, Baird who said the information was revealed in his column Oct. 23.

"At no time before or after this item appeared did I discuss it with any person in government," the telegram said.

News stories about the possible location of industries in the province became an issue when Premier Robert Stanfield last week criticized federal authorities.

In a statement Friday he said that "within the last 10 days . . . persons described in the press as 'federal officials' or 'federal authorities' have on three occasions disclosed to the press information concerning three industries negotiating with us."

Mr. Stanfield said Tuesday he had not accused federal authorities of being the source of leaks —but does accuse them of confirming speculation.

The labor minister challenged Mr. Stanfield to produce cases of leaks by any federal minister or official.

Newspapers Are Reported In Good Health

TORONTO (CP) — A trade magazine says newspapers are in good health and may even be on the verge of a boom.

A report, in a 44-page special section of Marketing, turns up these facts and figures:

There are 112 daily newspapers in 86 Canadian cities compared with 96 papers in 1941.

Total circulation in 1964 is 4,313,316 compared with 4,190,-900 in 1963.

On a typical day, seven out of 10 Canadian adults, 20 years old and over, read a daily newspaper.

Despite radio and television, people keep reading newspapers. Canadians will spend about $82,500,000 this year to get their daily papers.

Canadian dailies will end this year with at least a six-per-cent increase in national advertising lineage. Revenues are estimated at $191,000,000 in "good prospects" for $200,000,000 next year.

Color advertising in dailies increased about seven per cent in the first six months of this year.

Seven cents is the most common price for a newspaper with 10 cents the next most frequent price. A total of 41 papers sell at seven cents and 31 at 10 cents.

The report says people could not get along without newspapers. Interviews carried out in New York City during the 1962-1963 newspaper strike showed "people seemed to feel that their lives lost meaning without newspaper reports. . . ."

CHARGES AGGRESSION

DAR ES SALAAM (AP) — Tanzania has notified the Organization of African Unity that it has "concrete evidence" Portugal and certain Western powers plan to attack it. Foreign Minister Oscar Kambona told a press conference Tuesday he had notified the organization's secretary - general, Diallo Telli, about "this intended aggression" by white mercenaries. Tanzania is the name given to the new Republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar.

MASSIVE RESERVES

Geologists estimate the lead and zinc ore reserves around the Great Slave Lake area to be more than 60,000,000 tons.

YOUNG HUNTER KILLED

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que. (CP)—George Walsh, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh of Campbell's Bay, was found dead Tuesday on a country road near this community 60 miles northwest of Ottawa. The youth died of a bullet wound in the chest while hunting alone.

BOY, DOG RE-UNITED

James (Bucky) Welch, who lost both arms in a railroad accident in August, is back home at Louisville, Ky., with the puppy that figured in the accident. The 7-year-old boy was injured when he reached beneath a train to pull "Smokey" away from the wheels.

Defence Dept. Gets Weapon

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department is acquiring a fifth weapon which can carry nuclear warheads but sources said it will be used in a conventional role only.

The weapon is the 155-millimetre howitzer. Defence Minister Hellyer announced Sept. 24 that one of the three eight-gun batteries of the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, will be re-equipped with heavier 155 - millimetre howitzers next spring.

The other two batteries in the regiment, serving with the Canadian Infantry Brigade in West Germany, will retain the lighter 105-millimetre howitzer.

The United States is believed to have in the final stage of development a nuclear round for the self-propelled 155-millimetre howitzer.

Canada now has four weapons systems being armed with nuclear warheads. They are the Bomarc anti - aircraft missile, Voodoo jet interceptor, CF-104 low-level jet bomber and the Honest John artillery rocket.
