DETROIT, June 13.

The village of Luddington, situated on Lake Michigan, at the terminus of Flint and Pere Marquette Railway, was visited by a most destructive conflagration on Saturday night, which almost wiped out the entire business portion of the place; also the Congregational Church, Episcopal Church and rectory, Methodist Parsonage, City Hall and a large number of offices, saloons, dwellings, &c. SKOWHEGAN, Me., June 13.

At Carratunk Falls, Solon, on Sunday, three brothers named Higgins, of Concord, sat on the rocks watching the drivers, a log knocked one off, and another sprang to save him, and both were drowned.

The largest jam of logs ever known on the Kennebec is lodged at Carratunk Falls, extending a mile above, and filling the bay below the Falls. A hundred drivers are at work and the logs are being blown out with powder; thousands of spectators are there daily. Two large drives coming from above Bingan are increasing the jam very fast.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 14.

One of the most destructive storms that has ever visited Central Iowa, swept throuh here on Sunday afternoon and evening. A heavy hailstorm at Peoria, in Polk County, broke much window glass, and in some instances hailstones crashed through the weather boards and plastering. Stones, which were the size of goose eggs, also killed some live stock and poultry.

During the storm in Des Moines, Sunday afternoon, the Baptist Church was struck by lightning and a large hole burned in the roof. Many trees were denuded of branches, torn up, and crops levelled. Near Rising Sun half a dozen houses were blown away. A man named Erickson was killed and his baby and wife were blown a quarter of a mile away. John Watters' house was demolished, and his baby killed. Many families took refuge in cellars.

In Camp township four houses were blown down. In Grant township a child belonging to Douglas Johnson was killed and several houses demolished. The damage by hail was great. Near Monteith, Guthrie County, stones fell, tearing many shutters to pieces and perfectly riddling unprotected window glass. Crops are beaten into the ground and much live stock and poultry killed. Casey, Guthrie county, reports two fine farm houses blown away and the furniture destroyed. A wagon bridge at Madison county, was demolished and a flourishing mill at the same place was unroofed and six inches of hail fell. One house was swept away and another unroofed near Adair, Guthrie county.

Robert Trowbridge and Herman Rathburn were killed by lightning three miles northeast of Exira, Audubon county, while riding in a wagon. At Norwalk, Warren county, two houses and four barns were destroyed. John Keeler's little girl was caught by the wind, but her father managed to catch her, and by throwing himself on the ground and seizing a small shrub held both himself and child till the whirl wind had raised.
