RECOGNIZE HIM

No, it isn't one of the Beatles rock 'n' roll group. It's Prince Charles, heir to the British throne. A gusty wind at London airport blew the 15-year-old prince's hair into this fashion as he returned from his Scottish school, Gordonstoun, for a weekend visit with the Royal Family.

Reports to date, stated Mr. MacCollum, indicated that all clubs and many former Y's Men all over the globe were subscribing generously to ensure that a modern building would be available to carry on the vast administative work, which had been started in the cellar of Mr. Grimes' home.

Guests for the evening included, Alton Dolliver, Henry Purdy, Arthur Rodd, and, from Summerside, Keith Lapp and Charles Linkletter.

West Nfld. Smothered Under Snow

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) —Newfoundland's West Coast late Friday was digging out from a storm that earlier in the day piled up to 15 inches of snow in some areas, blocking all roads and stopping rail service.

Although most main roads had at least one lane of traffic late in the day, all secondary and side roads were still closed. The storm caused interruptions in telephone, telegraph and power services but these had been restored late in the day. At last report, trains were again running on time.

For the first time this winter the snow that affected the West Coast did not reach the Avalon Peninsula in the east. Although the Avalon and other areas on the province's East Coast have been hard hit by snow this winter, the West Coast has been relatively lucky.

No deaths or injuries have been attributed to the storm.

Liberal Split In Que. Seen Weeks Away

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit party, said Friday a breakdown between federal and Quebec Liberals is only weeks away.

He said there can be no conciliation between the groups as long as the province holds fast to its demands at this week's federal - provincial conference in Quebec.

Mr. Thompson said Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec has sold down the river any national leadership aspirations he may have had.

Recent statements by Mr. Lesage led Mr. Thompson to question the premier's dedication to seeing Canada remain a nation, he said.

Mr. Thompson was interviewed as delegates gathered here for a two-day convention of federal and provincial party officials.

He said he doubted the Canada Pension Plan would go ahead if both Quebec and Ontario did not participate. He added that he was particularly concerned that Quebec was "opting out" of the federal pension scheme.

"What right will Quebec members of Parliament have toward implementing the plan elsewhere in Canada?" he asked.

of marketing our valuable crop without using undue autocratic powers with which the board is invested if it is deemed wise to use it."

Mr. Burge went on to say, "The approach at the moment is to deal with the marketing of potatoes in any one of three different ways."

The first is to work out "an agreement between the potato shippers and the Potato Board as to the method of selling the crop, and supervised by the Board or a committee from the Board."

The second is by "Board regulations after consultation with the shippers," and the third is by "a combination of both agreements and regulations."

Mr. Burge went on to say "the Board recognizes that the potato industry is worth about $10,000,000 to the economy of the Province and feels that in view of the depressed prices for potatoes for the past five years in the United States and Canada, it is essential that arbitrary action that will encourage other areas to supply our customers must be avoided at all costs."

THE WEEK AT SDU

Students Get Down To Work As Final Exams Draw Near

This Week at SDU
By Charley McMillan

It's "get - back - to - work" week at St. Dunstan's now that the Easter Holidays are a thing of the past. The seven - day rest was a welcome relief after the long, hard months of the second term, but everything must be turned aside to prepare for the trip down the backstretch. There are term papers and book reports to catch up on, as well as a backlog of material pushed aside during the busy term.

However, there have been a number of extra - curricular activities going on that do merit some attention. Although not actually a part of the college run of events, the NHL playoffs are getting as much attention as anything, especially since the two favorites got behind in the series. In a quick poll taken on the campus, Toronto and Chicago are the best bets to win the cup, with Montreal a close third. There are several extra TV sets on the campus now to provide coverage for the increased viewing audience.

RED AND WHITE OUT

The latest edition of RED and WHITE is on the news stands, and early comments appear to be favorable. This is the second issue put out under the management of Paul D. Foster, and it is two pages longer than the first. The twelve - page edition is filled with a great deal of material, and it should provide some interesting and provocative comment.

One of the features in the paper that will be greeted with mixed emotions is the announcement that Latin is no longer required for a general Arts degree. It is certainly no secret that Latin is considered by some students as a downright evil, and as such, it must be avoided at all costs. The result is that many students go into Science to get away from Latin.

It is difficult to say if there will be a mass exodus into Arts now, but many students will greet the move with a sigh of relief. But as the Arts people say: De gustibus, non est disputandum.

QUEENS MP IS GUEST

Heath Macquarrie, MP for Queens, was guest speaker of the St. Dunstan's Progressive Conservative club at a special meeting on Tuesday afternoon. In his address, Mr. Macquarrie explained some of the historic aspects of the Conservative Party, and used different examples from the regimes of various prime ministers. After the 25 - minute talk, he answered questions from the members and discussed problems put forth by some students. After the discussion he was thanked by the president of the club, Bill Phalen.

The SDU Jayvees tangle with Buck Whitlock's Legionaires tonight in the first game of a best - of - three series for the City Junior League title. The Saints entered the finals Wednesday night, courtesy of a 5-3 victory over North River. After posting an 8-7 win in the first game, they lost the second 6-4, but were missing Andre Gelinas, George Monaghan, and George Power. Then on Wednesday they had little trouble in copping their victory, although North River gave the Saints a few scares in the third period.

This final series should be a real thriller for the fans. Rivals all season — they ended in a tie for first in the regular schedule — these teams are about as evenly matched as possible. There is, however, a technical difficulty about the two teams that needs clarifying. For the Maritime Juvenile playdowns, the Legion took on three Varsity players: George MacMillan, Denis DeCarufel, and Mike Kelly. Some people say that these three are eligible to play in the finals because the Legion has some injured players; others say that no St. Dunstan's students can play against a St. Dunstan's team, for obvious reasons; still others say that they are not eligible because they didn't play two games of the regular season.

ART EXHIBITION

An exhibition of drawings and paintings in oils, pen and ink, and collage by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murawski will be on display in the board room of the SDU Library until April 13. These paintings, 25 in all, have been completed since September of last year, when Mr. and Mrs. Murawski arrived on P.E.I. Mr. Murawski teaches mathematics at St. Dunstan's. Later on in the year, there will be a display of a group of renderings and photographs of buildings designed by Alfred J. Hennessey, prominent Island architect and designer of the Kelley Memorial Library and the proposed Coffee Shop.

The final general body meeting of the year was held yesterday. It marked the exit of Student Union President Colin McMillan, who is succeeded by Gerry FitzGerald. At the meeting, the coveted administrative "D" s were presented. These D's are awards donated by the Union to Students who have qualified for the necessary requirements as laid down by the constitution. Receiving gold D's for 1,000 points in administration were Noreen Cameron, Colin McMillan, and Paul D. Foster. Recipients of Silver Ds for 800 points were John Dunphy and John Roy.

About 125 students donated blood at the annual Blood Donor Clinic held on campus Wednesday. However, a considerable number of students, ineligible to give blood for reasons of health, had their names checked off to increase their class percentage in the inter class competitions. Winston Cannon is the St. Dunstan's chairman. He said after the clinic that there could have been more students out donating blood, but felt that many more would attend the clinics in town. There is also a trophy given for the best percentage between SDU and PWC.

TEACHERS

$9,190 compared to $17,775 for 1963-64.

There was considerable discussion from the floor with members seeking a firm outline on how the additional revenue was to be spent in expansion plans. A resolution as finally moved by Alfred Morrison of Souris High School to defer action until next year when a more detailed program listing proposed expenditures would be submitted.

TEACHER REQUIREMENTS

Mr. MacKenzie dealt with examinations, summer school for teachers, and changes in requirements for teaching certificates. The latter now requires a two-year course beyond grade 12 at both Prince of Wales College and St. Dunstan's university.

Discussing enrollment figures in grades nine and 10, he said that total enrollments for the province in these grades in 1962-63 were 2,069 in grade nine and 1,733 in grade 10.

He saw no necessity for Saturday sessions to make up lost time during storms. He suggested the curriculum could be covered by longer school days.

Speaking on what makes a good teacher, the deputy minister said the answer lies in the heart of each teacher as he examines himself to see if he is doing all he is capable of doing.

J. A. S. Williams, director of curriculum stated that he was happy to report a great improvement in teacher qualifications. From 1961 to 1963 figures had gone from one-third superior teachers to one-half superior teachers.

He stressed the value of school libraries, and said that pupils in schools with good ones are more likely to stay in school than pupils in a school with a poor library.

Senate which had been cooling its heels since March 26 waiting to approve $240,000,000 worth of supplementary spending estimates. The two bills which were before the Senate Friday covered $154,422,000 of that amount, with the rest still to be passed by the Commons.

Both Liberal and Conservative senators protested against Parliament being forced to sit Good Friday and against prolonged debate in the Commons delaying arrival of the estimates in the Senate. They said they had been insulted and Parliament degraded.

Within minutes of Senator O'Leary's action, Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) told the Commons he had filed notice of a bill to abolish the 102-seat upper chamber.

NEEDS 48 HOURS

He said he has had the bill prepared for some time. Forty-eight hours' notice is required before the bill can be introduced, which means it could be presented to the Commons Monday.

Senator O'Leary refused to consent to final reading of the $130,794,000 appropriations bill despite a strong plea from Senator Connolly. The government house leader said he admires the stand Senator O'Leary proposed to take in opposition to passing bills through the Senate at the last moment at one sitting. However, he also thought that Senator O'Leary has a great sense of the importance of public business being conducted expeditiously and as quickly as possible.

Outside the Senate, Senator O'Leary said he halted passage of the first appropriations on principle—"We showed them we could hold up a bill to point up this practice of sending the Senate bills at the last moment."

He said it was not as vital as the government contended to have fresh funds by Monday for the unemployment insurance fund. But he said the second bill had been let pass because the point had been made—"we didn't care."

Within minutes of Senator O'Leary's action, Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) issued a biting statement saying that from the senator's "cushy lifetime position of $15,000 a year (he) bears sole responsibility for denying thousands of unemployed in Canada their few dollars in unemployment benefits."

SAFETY DEVICES

OTTAWA (CP)—All aircraft chartered by the northern administration branch of the northern affairs department will be required in future to be equipped with crash position indicators. The department said Friday the step has been taken in a bid to improve flight safety.
