While flying at an altitude of more than 1,000 feet, the hood on the engine suddenly blew off cutting the gasoline pumps and carrying a portion of the propellers. Colonel Leckie said the machine was a freak one and had never worked satisfactorily. EAST KING'S EXHIBITION A GREAT SUCCESS

Splendid Showing of Cattle and Horses, Sheep and Swine. Creditable Exhibits of Domestic Science Work, etc.

The Eastern King's County Exhibition held yesterday at Souris proved to be the most successful held there since the exhibition was inaugurated. The management are indeed to be congratulated, for the exhibition was one of the best county fairs which has ever been held in this province. Good weather marked the occasion, and the attendance was consequently large. The delegation of farmers and their wives and families from the surrounding country being in attendance.

(Special to The Guardian.) THE INSIDE EXHIBIT. The indoor display, which was held in St. Patrick's Hall, was splendid in every particular, and in a number of features excelled the provincial fair. This was particularly true of the flower show, which was extremely lovely. The vegetable exhibit was also splendid. Pumpkins and squash of giant stature, monster caulages and turnips proved outstanding features, while vegetables, carrots, parsnips, beets, onions, tomatoes, corn and cucumbers made up a display that created keen interest. There was also an exceptionally fine showing of potatoes. The fruit exhibit was made up of apples, plums, and crab apples, and Mr. J. A. Clark, of the Experimental Farm, judged the flowers and vegetables. The exhibit of grain and seed though small was of exceedingly good quality and was judged by Mr. John Andrew, of East Royalty. The domestic science exhibit was large and appeared to be of particularly good quality, comprising bread, fancy cakes, biscuits, preserves, etc. There was a nice showing of bottled preserves, comprising raspberry, currant, strawberry, and sweet pickles. The dairy exhibit was of fairly good quality, though containing excessive salt. There was but one entry of cheese. Particularly fine was the fancy goods, and the ladies who made this such a success are to be complimented. The display included such articles as lace work, soft cushions, mats, woollen socks, and slippers, etc. The Experimental Farm had an interesting exhibit, though of course not so large as that of the provincial fair. It comprised one 76 lb. squash, samples of Irish Cobbler and Green Mountain potatoes, sample varieties of wheat, oats, etc., that had been grown at the Experimental Farm, a model of a 100 hen poultry house, Mr. Harry Newson of the Farm exhibited a case of live bees which proved very interesting. The fair was formally opened about 12.30 by His Honor, Lieutenant-Governor McKinnon and Hon. Walter Lea, who both made short and appropriate speeches.

THE CATTLE SHOW.

The outstanding feature of the exhibition was the cattle show, which was a big advance over that of the previous year. Ayrshires predominated and were credited to a provincial show. The aged bull class brought out eight good representatives of the breed, the four prize winners being exceedingly good animals. It augurs well for the success of the dairy breed that so many good sires are used in this community. The class of Ayrshire cows, any age, brought out twelve splendid representatives. Those which received first, second and third prizes would make strong contenders at the provincial fair. They were brought out in splendid condition and made a very fine showing. The Ayrshire young material breed and the most of it of good care and fitting; but a number of young animals could have handled more feed to advantage. In Holsteins some very good grades of this breed were also shown. Only one herd of pure-bred Holsteins were displayed, that of Mr. A. W. Morrow, of North Lake, promised better than the class of milk. These showed indications of being good workers and first-class matrons of the breed, but they were apparently only in ordinary field condition. Two aged bulls of this breed were shown, fair representatives, but according to one prominent breeder, most of the class of animals that should be mated with the females of this character as the success of the breeder depends so largely on the character of his mate. Some fairly good grades of the breed were shown, but it is evident that East King's is an Ayrshire rather than a Holstein stronghold. Only one or two representatives of the Short horns or beef breeds were in evidence.

THE HORSES.

The horse show, though not as good proportionately as that of dairy cattle, was, taken altogether, very creditable. Some classes were well fitted, particularly the heavier breeds. The heavy draft animals brought out a class of nine; the general purpose class was probably nearer their proper type for their class than any other one variety of horses. Mares in foal brought out some good classes, but carriage and light. One class of unregistered carriage horses for the benefit of the breed, might as well have not been exhibited. This was the statement of a leading authority, who took a strong interest in every feature of this show. To use his words, they lacked of ability to improve the character of our horses, which a sire is supposed to possess. Only two Clyde stallions were shown, and it would seem that there is room for several good horses of this type. The cattle were judged by Mr. James Roper of East Royalty, who was particularly pleased with the best specimens.

THE SHEEP.

In sheep there was a fine line-up of all classes, particularly worthy of note were the Shropshires and Oxford. From the large number of pure bred rams exhibited, one could judge the quality of sheep

Rotary Club Boys' Night

Rotarians had a most enjoyable evening at the M. C. A. last evening. It was regular monthly meeting night but the spirit of the "boys' predominated and it no doubt delighted the hearts of the youngsters present to see their mothers and fathers and "papas" jumping around in the inter supper games which formed the biggest part of the programme. The supper was a grand success. Several ladies were present to assist upon the tables, and the piano music furnished by Miss Earle helped materially in the general enjoyment. Rotarian Frank Hutcheson ably presided. After the roof things had been disposed of and Rotarian Van Buskirk had obligingly rendered his favorite "Hong Kong" ballad to the delight of the youngsters, the chairman introduced Rev. Mr. Raymond as the speaker of the evening. As the reverend gentleman enthusiastically commended the Rotarian scheme of holding these "father and son" nights, "I have been watching with a great deal of interest," he said "the work the Rotary Club are doing for the boys. I must tell you to love your sons—must tell them how you love them! You cultivate your business men and your neighbors, you care for their business and social success, but you cannot invest your time and energy where it will have such far-reaching results as in cultivating the boys of your boys. There is a tendency in these days in dealing with anything which comes up to have an "organization" to handle it. The Editor of one morning paper in the other day a very clever editorial upon this subject. "There are no more great organizations coming in that will take us to keep up with the times and indeed many organizations such will inevitably fail to do their work—the father and son idea will do it. It is a noble and uplifting thing with a sure to illuminate him. Much is asked on these days against the movies and other attractions, but if the boy is a normal boy the "movies" nor anything else can shake him if the father keeps right." Mr. Raymond laughingly alluded to his own "credentials" which he had beside him in the person of his boys. He then touched upon the lamentable dead lock existing between the government and the college teachers. "I have been watching from day to day," he said "for some one to get up and make a protest against the injustice that is being done to the young people of this country. (Applause) I don't know the merits of the case one way or the other, but surely we can get our heads together some way and find a solution of the problem which will be fair to the boys of this country." The reverend gentleman's remarks especially the latter part of them were greeted with hearty applause. Some discussion ensued upon the educational question, but as the youngsters were present and anxiously waiting for the adjournment to the gymnasium upstairs, it was decided to discuss the matter privately after the fun was over. A vote of thanks was heartily tendered the ladies for the splendid supper provided and thanks also were heartily extended to Mr. Raymond for his inspiring coming up all hands adjourned to the gymnasium where Mr. Gorbell, the Y. M. C. A. Secretary had a programme of games mapped out. These consisted of a "mule race" a "relay club race," "match the club" and a basket ball relay. The games were highly contested and it must be admitted the youngsters got away with the lion's share of the points. This ended one of the most enjoyable evenings in the history of Rotary.
