The opening organ number was played by Juliette Poirier followed by a song "March To Victory" by the children. The salute of the flag was then given and The Last Post was played by the Bugler. After the two minutes silence the reading in memory of fellow comrades was rendered by Patrick Martin. A short address of welcome was given by Rev. Father Monaghan, thanking the members of the Legion for attending. The next item on the program was a poem "The Wardens" very effectively given by Eleanor Gillis and this was followed by "A Song of Peace" by the school children. On behalf of the Legion, Captain L. A. Moore responded to the address of welcome by Father Monaghan and expressed the pleasure of all the members for the privilege of being present. On behaf of the children an address of welcome was read by Teresa Baudet seconded by Rita Martin, supported by Jules Poirier and presented by Jamesene Mullen. Brig. Foster in addressing the assembly expressed his pleasure at being present at the inspiring service. To those who heard him his message was received with a determination to bear in mind the admonitions so forcibly brought home to all by the speaker's words. After the singing of God Save the King the assembly retired from the Church while the march "No Surrender" was played by Dorothy Gallant. —S.

Jury Decides Death Of Soldier Was Accidental

A coroner's jury at Summerside yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the inquiry into the cause of the death of Pte. Amand Gallant. Pte. Gallant died after an operation Sunday morning in the Prince County Hospital Summerside, after having been taken to the hospital Friday evening from the Borden train in a serious condition. It was reported at the time that he had fallen across the railway tracks at Borden. Eight witnesses testified at the inquest yesterday before Coroner Dr. W.B. Howatt.

Gnr. Louis Gallant of Abrams Village at present on leave from his unit, testified that he first met Pte. Amand Gallant on the train at Sackville, they were both coming home on leave. Witness said that Amand Gallant got off the train at Borden pier to look for a taxi which would take them to Summerside quicker. When Amand didn't return he went to look for him and was told by the Military Police that Amand had got hurt, they told him that he was in a car of the train lying on two seats. He went where Amand was and asked him what happened but he didn't know. He seemed to be suffering but was conscious.

At Emerald Amand Gallant was put on Summerside train. Witness stayed with him till they reached Summerside. Air Force Service Police took him to hospital. Witness accompanied them and stayed about 15 minutes. Questioned by the Coroner witness stated he had given deceased three drinks of whiskey on the train but they didn't affect him. Deceased had had physical examination before leaving Newfoundland and was in good health.

Unusual Call

Dr. J.C. Simpson testified he first saw Amand Gallant about seven o'clock in the evening of Nov. sixth in bed at the hospital. Amand Gallant was under the influence of liquor but was not drunk. He complained of pain in his abdomen. "I gave him a complete physical examination and found absolutely nothing to account for the pain". Saw patient again about midnight but was not called to see him just happened to be in the hospital. Witness testified he was called about five o'clock in morning by night nurse who said patient had taken a weak spell. "When I saw him he was completely all right." "The same morning we had X-ray and other examinations made and my conclusion was that the boy was not seriously injured."

The witness said that later in the day after other signs appeared and after consultation with three other physicians he decided to do an exploratory operation as he was unable to make a diagnosis. "This operation disclosed that the had lacerations of the small intestine a most unusual finding, particularly in view of the fact that there was no history of any great violence. This injury with accompanying sequelae caused his death." He had at 7.30 the following morning. There was no mark or bruise of any kind on his skin. No evidence of any kind of disease in the intestine.

Saw Gallant Fall

Willard Leard, Transfer Bridge operator, Borden, testified that he was in the power house on Borden Pier looking out window in direction of ship's gangway for passengers. He saw soldier running up platform towards power house, before he reached the power house he turned off to the right and jumped across to the apron of the landing pier a distance of about 9 feet. From where he was witness could not see that happened when he landed so went around to another window and saw deceased hanging on to a steel girder where he had apparently fallen across it. He saw men pick him up.

Eldon Campbell, Station Agent at Borden, corroborated evidence of previous witness. He said deceased could not stand when pulled up and decided he must be seriously injured. He had tried to get a doctor but the doctor was away.

Richard McCarville, a cook on the car ferry testified that he was standing on the stern of the boat. Saw a soldier running up the platform towards him. He turned off past the stern of the boat and jumped from the pier and landed on his stomach caught the girder and slipped down. He would likely have fallen into the water if sombody hadn't caught him. Witness pulled him up. Deceased couldn't stand. This was about 4.15 p.m. on Nov. 6th.

Lance Corporal J.R. Murray, Amherst, of the 37th Provost Company, saw deceased on train coming to the Island from Sackville. Spoke to him just before coming in to Tormentine. Next time he saw him they were putting him on a seat in a car at pier at Borden. Deceased couldn't speak, seemed to be suffering; at Emerald put him on a stretcher in the baggage car of train going to Summerside. Coming from Sackville deceased seemed all right, he was not drunk.

Lance Corporal F.J. Cormier, Amherst, of the 37ht Provost Company, corroborated evidence of last witness.

Sgt. W. B. Irvine, R.C.A.F., Service Police, testified he was at C.N.R. station evening of Nov. sixth at approximately 6.50. Asked by Gallant the witness to help him with the injured soldier. Assisted deceased to waiting room seemed to be in great pain, took him to hospital. He asked deceased how he got hurt. "He wouldn't tell me at all".

Text of Verdict

The jury brought in the following verdict; "we the undersigned jurymen empanelled to inquire as to the cause of the death of Amand Gallant do find that he came to his death at the Prince County Hospital at Summerside P E I on Nov. 8th, 1942, as a result of an accident caused by a jump or a fall from the C N R pier to the apron of the landing pier at Borden P E I., on Nov. sixth, 1942. We also find that death was purely accidental." Signed George Bowness, foreman, Chester Palmer, Jack Schurman, Allison McLean, John Arthur, Earle McDonald, Albert Leard. S.

which has been floating around. Everyone realized that it meant a brighter and better outlook for the disposal of this season's pelts.

Getting back to the judging, it would be difficult to give even a slight descript on of the many types of white face, light silvers, full silvers, platinum silvers, shown. These are the result of the crossing, mostly, of white face foxes brought from Western Canada with our own silvers. Many were beautiful indeed, and because of their variation from what we have been accustomed to regard as the ne plus ultra in fox pelts, they focused unusual attention.

It will be noticed that there was a wide distribution in the prize list, which was very gratifying to the directors, evidencing as it did a greater spread of interest among exhibitors.

Final Class of the Day

This was the standard platinum adult class, and in Section 1 four good adult males were tabled, two of them from the celebrated LeForest Fur Farm, Quebec. They won first and second place, with the entries of Roy Woodside and Lowell Hancock third and fourth, but by no means suffering in comparison.

This morning the judging will be completed, with platinum, medium, light and extra light classes, and standard pearl platinums. On or about noon the distribution of prizes will be made by President Lowell W. Hancock.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads — dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and apply gently with wet, hot cloth over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe simple method.

"The educative value of the Boy Scout method of training must be admitted without doubt. Already it has produced magnificent results." Archbishop Charbonneau, Montreal. Toronto Boy Scouts are assisting in a wool salvage drive. By collecting wool clippings from 240 Toronto clothing stores, they expect to collect sufficient to make 44,000 uniforms for the armed services.

"I've still got those stockings," His Majesty the King told the Chief Scout, Lord Somers on a recent visit to Imperial Headquarters in London. The King was shown a photograph of himself in Scout uniform taken 15 years ago. Not only did His Majesty recall that he still had the stockings, but he was able to recall the names of all the officials shown in the photograph with him.

When a Fleet Air Arm plane crashed into the sea off the English coast, the scene was witnessed by a British Boy Scout and his chum. The pilot managed to get clear of the burning plane but lost consciousness. The Scout, 13 year old Alan McRobert who was paddling in a home-made punt nearby soon arrived on the scene, supported the unconscious man on the frail craft and brought him safely to shore.

Typical of the manner in which Boy Scouts of rural Canada are doing their share in the war effort is the record of the scouts of the little Northern Ontario community of Wabigoon. They have collected nearly 20 tons of scrap metal, 2 tons of rubber and a ton of rags. Every boy is a War Saver and the Troop itself has invested $20 in War Savings Certificates. It has also raised more than $20 for the bombed out Boy Scouts of Britain. It has the unique distinction of being one of the very few Boy Scout Troops in Canada sponsored by a Women's Institute.

A recent good turn of the Boy Scouts of Croyden, England, was cooking for a Home Guard Camp with equipment provided by the boys themselves.

Boy Scouts of Hoylake, England have an unique way of helping the Salvage Drive. They operate a parking lot for bicycles, charging a fee of 3 pounds of rags, which are turned over to salvage authorities.

Seeds sent by British Boy Scouts in the spring have brought forth their first crop. A London Troop provided samples of their crop from seed sent from Ruthilda, Sask., to be served at the Scout Restaurant at Imperial Headquarters in London.

Fostering international friendship and understanding, eight Montreal Boy Scouts spent two weeks this summer in a camp in the United States, and a similar number from that country spent two weeks at the Montreal district camp at Tamaracouta in the Laurentian Mountains.

"We should rejoice that the training so many of our soldiers, sailors and airmen have received as Boy Scouts has enabled them to play their part in the service of their country and win distinction on land on sea and in the air," His Excellency the Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone told a gathering in the capital city recently. The Chief Scout for Canada mentioned three Ottawa Scouts, now in the Air Force who had recently been decorated.

Lady Baden-Powell, widow of the Founder of the Boy Scout Movement has returned to England from Konya, Africa where she and Lord Baden-Powell have lived for years. The Chief Girl Guide of the World said on her arrival in London, "I came home because I felt I must be in England in the centre of activity. I do not mind danger—in fact I like it. My idea is to urge the Girl Guides in Britain to do even more wonderful work than they are doing now.

RED SHIELD HOME FRONT APPEAL

TORONTO, Nov. 12 —While conclusive reports have not yet been received from many communities, particularly in the four western provinces where late harvesting conditions have caused unexpected delay, the Red Shield Home Front Appeal now seems to be assured of a successful conclusion, it was announced at National Campaign Headquarters here today.

"In practically all communities which have reported their drives completed, quotas have been reached, and offsetting a few which may not attain their objective are others which have received more than was asked. In predicting a successful conclusion to the Red Shield Home Front Appeal for the country as a whole, we are assuming that Winnipeg (where it was found necessary to postpone the drive until November) and the communities where the Salvation Army merged their appeal with Community Chests or other organizations, will reach their quotas; we are confident they will," Lt.-Col. H. Chas. Tutte, national campaign director, stated.

It was pointed out that while there were 143 straight local Red Shield Home Front Appeals and 43 Community Chest and combined campaigns held where the Salvation Army actually has a Corps or social institution, in literally hundreds of other places drives were organized. National Headquarters has record of over 200 of these non-corps communities which have worked, or are still working, to help the Salvation Army carry on its Christian Service Work in Canada despite the demands of war.

Colonel Tutte thanked all those who had contributed or were still contributing to the success of the drive, and added that the credit was due to the thousands of good citizens across the country who gave generously and willingly of their time in canvassing, directing, publicizing or in other ways contributing to the tremendous effort involved in an appeal of this nature.
