PERSONAL PLEA

Mrs. Weldon Chan, wife of a Vancouver Chinese who vanished in the face of a deportation order, came to Ottawa this week with her daughter Alice, 5, to make a personal plea to Immigration Minister Fairclough to allow the family to remain in Canada. Mr. Chan disappeared Nov. 2, the day before the family was to be deported to Hong Kong. (CP Photo)

Smallwood Terms Liberals Party Of Struggling Masses

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said Tuesday the Liberal party must never forget that it is the party of "the common people—the great struggling masses."

For years the Liberals "were devoted to expressing the yearnings of the Canadian people," he said in an unscheduled address to the annual meeting of the National Liberal Federation's advisory council.

"So long as it was that, it deserved the support of the people," he said, adding, however, that after 22 years in power federally "it looked a little tiresome" to have the Liberals in office.

It was little more than two years since they were removed from office and already it "looks like an age."

The premier said "The Liberal party can't go wrong by being liberal." If ever it ceased to serve the common people he would cease to be a Liberal party member.

ASKS REGIONAL RALLIES

Referring to a proposed national meeting of the Liberal party next year, Mr. Smallwood said it would be useful if it was preceded by regional rallies for the Atlantic area, the "empire provinces" of Quebec and Ontario, and the western provinces.

"I think they would not convince merely ourselves but convince Canada as a whole that they are missing something by not having a Liberal government."

Mr. Smallwood said the Conservatives have not been able to add "one iota" to the Liberal program, though they had tried to improve on it here and there.

National Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson was respected by all Canadians and by millions on the other side of the Atlantic.

"But no one man can win power, except by revolution or a coup d'etat. We must be worthy of the Liberal party and the leader and get together so we can win back the confidence of the people of Canada."

Yuletide Travel Plans Are Laid

MONCTON — With Christmas and New Years extending into long week-ends this year, Canadians all across the country will more than ever be on the move over the holidays and Canadian National Railways is prepared to handle the anticipated heavy passenger traffic.

Extra trains, additional cars to regular trains and schedule adjustments have been planned between Halifax, Moncton and Montreal, one extra sleeping car is already operating daily on the Ocean Limited and further sleepers and coaches will be added to this train and the Maritime Express. Coaches also will be added to the Scotian.

The CNR plans to substitute a conventional train for its railliner between Fredericton and Newcastle to handle the expected heavy volume of passenger traffic in the holiday season.
