MUNICIPAL REFORM!

The Morning Guardian.

APRIL 6, 1891.

The Two Sides.

While it is to be regretted that the civic reformers have been unable as yet to decide on a definite and distinct plan to be submitted to the people for the reform of the City Council, all who have become convinced that reform is necessary, can have no doubt as to whom their votes should be given. The issue is clearly drawn. Dr. Jenkins favors representation by population and equal rights, principles which will commend themselves to every fair minded man. Whether they shall be crystalized in a re-adjustment of the Wards, or their abolition substituted by collective voting, will hereafter be decided amicably and satisfactorily to all reformers; a measure will then be submitted to the Legislature, and after receiving its assent, will be submitted to the electors for their approval at the polls. If the majority say yea, well; if nay, then we will bow obediently to the voice of the people. Can anything be fairer or more just than that? Surely such a policy will commend itself to the independent electors of Charlottetown.

On the other hand what does the anti-reformers through Coun. Douse propose? Simply to divide Ward Five in two, and add two more councillors to a Board which is already large enough. But what about Ward Four? Has it no right to justice and fair play? Must it be left with double the population of nearly every one of the other wards and the same representation? That is the policy of Coun. Douse and his party. We submit that such an arrangement is unfair, inequitable and unsatisfactory. It means that the present dissatisfaction and the feelings of injustice rankling in many breasts, instead of being allayed will only become worse, and that for another period municipal government in Charlottetown is to be unsatisfactory and unjust.

We appeal to the citizens therefore to rally around Dr. Jenkins and return him by a handsome majority. It is for a principle, a measure, we are fighting, not a party or a man. Let no side issues or personal feelings keep any man at home. But let each do justice to his neighbor and o himself.

Concerning the lock-out of Dr. Jenkins' supporters from the Market Hall Friday night Mr. Henry C. Douse informs the public through the evening papers that "If Dr. Jenkins or Mr. Stewart had come to me to engage the hall, I would have been happy to let them have it."

That is the matter, is it? Because Dr. Jenkins and Mr. Stewart went to the office of the City Clerk, who always considered and still considers himself competent to hire the place, and did not go hunting round the street corners for Mr. Douse, that gentleman is of the opinion that Dr. Jenkins had no right to the hall whatever. This is certainly a nice state of affairs. The city is to be allowed to lose revenue—which the dear knows it needs badly enough—in order to gratify the officiousness of Mr. Douse. And yet some people do not want reform.

Mr. Douse publishes his card to the electors in Saturday's evening papers. We have only this to say about it: It is not as crooked or contradictory as Mr. Douse's canvass.

Three Hundred Victims a Day.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 30.—It was thought last week that the death rate had reached its maximum, but when Registrar of Vital Statistics Tomlinson closed his books at 6 o'clock this evening he had chronicled the death of nearly 300 people for the past 24 hours. Never before in the history of the office has it submitted such a statement for one day. It showed that Chicagoans are dying at the appalling rate of one every five minutes. Streets leading to the graveyards were filled all day with funerals. At one place on Warren av. three processions became entangled up, and it required several minutes to separate them.

It is estimated that there are 600 bodies waiting burial in Chicago to-night. Rains continues to fall and the weather is warm and heavy. There are reports which show that la grippe is spreading in all parts of the city.

One-half of the people who are dying have been stricken by the scourge.

The hospitals are no longer able to take care of the sick, as every inch of the available space has been taken by the swarm of sneezing and choking persons which poured into the doors last week.

It is found that the deaths this week will reach the unprecedented figure of 1200.

Italy and America.

SOME INTERESTING NOTES ON THE ITALIAN AFFAIR.

Blaine Didn't Like Fava.

The impression is deepening in diplomatic circles that there is a decidedly personal aspect to the withdrawal of Baron Fava. Last year Mr. Carlton, United States Consul at Palermo, made a report to the Secretary of State upon the subject of brigandage in Italy. He described a number of cases of outrageous treatment of foreign citizens, Americans included, by the Italian banditti, and scored the Italian Government deeply for its failure to suppress these criminals and defend foreigners in Italy. This report was published in this country in a much diluted form, and aroused Baron Fava's indignation. He notified his Government of the report, and announced a determination to secure the consul's recall. In Secretary Blaine's absence he was able to do this.

Blaine was Much Displeased.

Mr. Blaine was much displeased at the action taken, but it was too late to recall the department's decision. Consequently the relations between the Secretary and the Baron became somewhat unpleasant and according to floating gossip about the State Department, by some means the Italian Government came to understand that a representative on more cordial terms with prominent United States officials might obtain more favors for his Government. Favors were much in demand in Italy, which had been sadly pinched by the provisions of the MacKinlay tariff act, and entertained the belief, based on European customs, that concessions could be arranged by the executive branch of the two Governments irrespective of legislation. So the Baron's usefulness in the United States has been impaired—according to State department gossip—and the opportunity was looked for when the experiment of a new representative might be tried.

Italians Afraid of a Draft.

NEW YORK, April 1.—About 300 Italians rushed to the Naturalization bureau to-day to get their second papers. They appear to be afraid they will be drafted into the service of the Italian Government and are sure war is imminent.

A Hundred Thousand Cowboys.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., April 1.—The following telegram was sent to Secretary Blaine to-day by cowboys:

"A hundred thousand Kansas cowboys would like to spend the summer in Rome. Can you furnish transportation?"

Italian Politics in it.

The pressure brought to bear upon Premier Di Rudini, and which compelled him to act vigorously, was fomented by the friends of ex-Premier Crispi. Especially was this pressure brought to bear by the Sicilians, who dreaded or sympathized with the Mafia. Their attitude has been stiffened by the fact that the leading opponents of Crispi and his cabinet openly declared that the lynching of the Italians was just, even if illegal.

One of these opponents of Crispi is charged with the authorship of a strong editorial in the Fanfula, which argues that the Italian Government would do well to suppress crime in Italy before meddling with the punishment of murderers in New Orleans. This editorial delares it is notorious that not a day passes without a murder taking place in Italy, the majority of which crimes go unpunished.

D'Arco Wouldn't See It.

During an interview, Signor D'Arco said: "Suppose a dozen American citizens were murdered in an Italian city, and we pleaded impotence to punish the murderers because the city enjoyed an autonomous form of government, what opinion would you in the United States, and what opinion would the civilized world at large have in regard to our plea?" Mr. Porter thereupon tried to make clear to Signor D'Arco the relations of the Federal Government to the individual states, as fixed by the constitution; but Signor D'Arco was not satisfied, and replied with some heat: "We have nothing to do with your constitution. If it is found wanting you must mend it. You know that it is no constitution worthy of a free civilized country if it does not insure punishment for crime and protection for the weak."

Is the Mafia Working at Rome.

BERLIN, April 1.—It is reported here that mysterious warnings, sent by the Mafia society, have been conveyed to King Humbert of Italy. In these warnings the Mafia society is said to have demanded protection from King Humbert and the Italian government for Italians resident in foreign countries. It is further believed that the recall of Baron Fava was largely owing to the fears of the Italian ministers aroused by the Mafia threats.

The New Orlean's Assassins.

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—A close examination of the alleged assassins discloses the fact that all but four of the eleven slain were registered voters. The four whom consul Corte claims were entitled to the protection of the Italian government are: Trahina, Bognetto, Monisterio and Comitz. The first named is a voter in the parish of St. Charles. Bognetto is a fugitive murderer from Palermo and the other two have very bad records.

First Step Towards a Rupture.

The action on the part of Baron Fava and the Italian Government is not regarded as a diplomatic rupture. It is merely the first step towards such rupture.

Political circles here fully endorse the action of the Italian Government. The newspapers of the city pronounce themselves very strongly against the action of the United States Government.

Influential Italians advise the Italian Government to send a circular note to friendly powers denouncing the United States as being confessedly unable to ensure justice in the United States, and potent to fulfil the duties of a civil government.

Other prominent Italians suggest that the Home Government break off all negotiations with the Government at Washington, and deal directly with the State of Louisiana in the matter.

Premier de Rudini said to an associated press representative last night that personally he was most kindly disposed towards the United States Government, and expressed the hope that the Washington authorities would not fail in their duties towards society, justice and law. If the United States Government does not perceive that it is in the wrong, diplomatic rupture is inevitable.

NEW ORLEANS, April 1—Sentiment here is very strong that the action of the Italian government in recalling Minister Fava is hasty and ill-advised.

The Times Democrat says: "To break the friendship existing between the United States and Italy on account of the affair at the parish prison is incredible. There was no international or diplomatic issue involved. Eleven assassins were executed, and they would have met the same fate had they been English, Russian, or any other nationality, for the race question did not enter into the matter in the slightest degree."

Attorney General Rogers said to a reporter last night: "The state of Louisiana is fully capacitated to enforce its laws, and I believe it is generally recognized that the State alone had to deal with the perpetrators who violated its laws in this or another case."

(Coutinued from first page.)

America sank. And yonder multitude!—that is where the Pacific went down. That is where the City of Boston sank. The whole air is full of spirits—spirits flying north, spirits flying south, spirits flying east, spirits flying west. Crash! goes Westminster Abbey, as all its dead kings, and orators, and poets get up. Strange commingling of spirits searching among the ruins William Wilberforce, the good; and Queen Elizabeth, the bad. Crash! go the Pyramids, and the monarchs of Egypt rise out of the heart of the desert. Snap! go the iron gates of the modern vaults. The country graveyard will look like a rough ploughed field as the mounds break open. Not one straggler left behind. All! all! And now the air is darkened with the fragments of bodies that are coming together from the opposite corners of the earth. Lost limbs finding their mate—bone to bone, sinew to sinew—until every joint is reconstructed, and every arm finds its socket, and the amputated limb of the surgeon's table shall be set again at the point from which it was severed. A surgeon told me that after the battle of Bull Run he amputated limbs, throwing them out of the window, until the pile reached up to the window-sill. All those fragments will have to take their places. Those who were born blind shall have eyes divinely kindled; those who were lame shall have a limb substituted.

Wake up, my friends, this day, this glorious Easter morning, with all these congratulations. If I understand this day, it means peace toward Heaven and peace toward earth. Bring more flowers. Wreath them around the brazen throat of the canon, plant them in the desert until it shall blossom like the rose, braid them into the mane of the war charger as he comes back. No more red dalhias of human blood. Give us white lilies of peace. Strew all the earth with Easter garlands, for the resurrection we celebrate this morning implies all kinds of resurrection, a score of resurrections. Resurrection from death and sin to the life of the Gospel. Resurrection of apostolic faith. Resurrection of commercial integrity. Resurrection of national honor. Resurrection of international good will. Resurrection of art. Resurrection of literature. Resurrection of everything that is good and kind and generous and beautiful. Nothing to stay down, to stay buried but sin and darkness and pain and disease and revenge and death. Let those tarry in the grave forever. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."

Christ, the Lord, is risen to-day,
Sons of men and angels say,
Raise your song and triumphs high,
Sing, ye heavens, and earth reply.
Love's redeeming work is done,
Fought the fight, the battle won.
Lo! the sun's eclipse is o'er;
Lo! he sets in blood no more.
