$20 Million In State Funds Is Found In Premier's Estate

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) Government investigators report they have discovered close to $20,000,000 in state funds mixed up in the estate left by the late Premier Sarit Thana rat.

The scandal has brought expressions of concern for Thailand's good name abroad. It has triggered reports demanding that Sarit, a field marshal in the royal Thai army, be posthumously stripped of his rank, medals and other honors.

Tough, hard-living Sarit, a professional soldier who grabbed power in a bloodless coup d'etat in 1957, died of a liver ailment last December.

Throughout his five year term Sarit showed himself an able administrator. He launched his country on a quick-paced, successful development drive and proved himself a tough anti-Communist.

While Sarit lived most people —obviously aware of the fact that he brooked little nonsense under martial law provisions— chuckled about tales of mistresses, mansions and merry-making.

After he died Sarit's widow, Lady Vichitra, became embroiled in a court case with two of his sons by an earlier marriage who demanded executive powers to the estate.

The sons claimed the estate was worth 2,800,000,000 baht, or about $140,000,000. Vichitra said it was not, filed a counterclaim and maintained her husband left everything to her.

INTEREST GROWS

Public interest grew with claims to the estate by some of Sarit's minor wives—a polite word here for mistresses. The administration froze the estate and appointed a five-man investigation committee to check into it.

If the 2,800,000,000 baht figure was correct, how could one man have amassed so much money during a few years in power?

The investigating committee came up with what looked like at least part of the answer: It claimed state funds were involved.

In an interim report, the committee said detailed statements from Bangkok banks, business firms and other agencies showed at least 394,000,000 baht (about $19,700,000) in state funds were mixed up in the estate.

What political repercussions the scandal might have for the administration of Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, one of Sarit's top lieutenants, is not clear, but he is face-to-face with an issue that promises to be around for awhile.

Train Wreck Kills 144

OPORTO (AP) — Portugal's worst railway disaster — the wreck of a single car that came uncoupled on a curve — has killed 104 summer holidayers and injured nearly 100 more. Hospital officials announced the death toll after a check of hospitals in the area.

The car, which officials said normally holds 60 passengers, crashed from side to side against walls bordering the track, then plunged down an embankment Sunday night.

"The car careened from one side and then hit the abutment," said the conductor Orlando Pereira Mendonca. 32. "In the midst of horrible darkness I yelled with all my force. And after some time, I don't know how long, I began hearing sirens."

Ferry Service Being Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—The transport department is studying the ferry service between Nova Scotia and New England, the Commons was told Monday by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

But the return, filed in reply to a written question from Lloyd R. Crouse (PC—Queens-Lunenburg), said it is too early to say whether an additional ferry should be placed on that run.

Mr. Crouse had referred to the June increase in passengers and vehicles carried by the Bluenose, the only vessel now handling the service. He suggested another ferry be added.

Mr. Pickersgill's reply noted that Bluenose fares were increased early this year and it will take more time to assess the resultant traffic patterns.

Yanks Decide On More Aid

SAIGON (Reuters) — The United States will open more men and equipment into South Viet Nam to bolster the struggle against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas, it was announced here Monday.

The South Vietnamese government announcement said the U.S. would send more military and civilian advisers plus more support facilities.

But increased aid does not mean there has been a change in US. policy, the government said.

The announcement followed two hours of talks between South Viet Nam's premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and U.S. Ambassador Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his deputy, Alexis Johnson.

It confirmed earlier reports from Washington that President Johnson had ordered a step-up in the war against the Viet Cong.

The U.S. already has about 16,000 men in South Viet Nam, serving as advisers, as training personnel for local forces and as combat advisers in action against the Viet Cong in the field.

Washington reports said Johnson has decided to send between 5,000 and 6,000 more military personnel in a major effort to crush the Viet Cong.

U.S. officials have not ruled out attacks on North Viet Nam, which backs the Viet Cong, but they have said that the war in South Viet Nam has not reached such a critical point.

REPEAL FAMILY LAW

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced Saturday night that the "family law" of the late Ngo Dinh Diem's regime has been repealed. The law banned divorce and polygamy and gave wives property rights with their husbands. A new decree regulating marriage will remain in force until a new civil code is promulgated. No details were given but presumably divorce is to be liberalized.

Riot Police Wait Action Call Through Malay's Heartland

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Throughout the Malaysian heartland, riot police loll in barracks near major population areas waiting for the call that means communal violence has flared.

"We can handle Indonesia's crush . Malaysia campaign," a government official says. "But if this country collapses, it will be because our Malays and Chinese go for each others' throats."

Indonesian President Sukarno has sworn to smash Malaysia by Jan. 1, 1965, and has launched guerrilla raids and waves of agents against Malaysia to make good his threat.

This month, menwhile, race riots brought death, curfew and bristling communal emnity to two areas in Malaysia. Shock waves spread throughout the nation.

The government first tried to hide and then to play down the fighting which quickly brought to mind communal battles in India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

The worst riot was in Singapore, 245 miles south of here, where eight persons died during the first few hours of fighting that also injured more than 340 and brought the torch to more than a dozen buildings and scores of autos, trucks and motor scooters. Singapore is overwhelmingly Chinese.

Malaysia has proudly boasted it is a uniquely successful experiment in racial harmony. But some government sources and others privately say the situation, never good, is deteriorating through key areas.

Much of the agitation is among the Malays, fearful that their country may be swallowed rule.

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

If one method of play offers declarer a 55 per cent chance of making the contract, and another method of play offers a 65 per cent chance, it is obvious that he should use the method that offers the better chance.

This recurring principle arises in the great majority of deals and is the backbone of good dummy play. The difficulty in applying it is, first, the declarer may not recognize that an alternative line of play exists, and second, even if he does, that he may not be sure about which line of play is better on a percentage basis.

Take a case like this one, where South is in six hearts. Let's say he wins the diamond with the ace, draws three rounds of trumps, and cashes the A-K-Q of clubs, hoping for a 3-3 break. When this fails to materialize, he ruffs a club, cashes the ace of spades, and leads a spade towards the Q-10. As the cards lie, he winds up going down one.

This is a somewhat unlucky result, since South had about a 3 to 1 chance of making the contract by playing this way.

Now let's look at another line of play, which might be easily overlooked. The alternative method, after drawing three rounds of trumps, is to lead a club and play low from dummy!

This play has a tremendous amount of merit because it makes the contract whenever the adverse clubs are divided 3-3 or 4-2. In either event declarer is certain to make twelve tricks consisting of six hearts, four clubs, a spade and a diamond.

In deciding which of the two possible lines of play to adopt, it is helpful to know how often the clubs can be expected to be divided 3-3 or 4-2. The combined probability of a favorable club division is 84 per cent. Deliberately conceding a club trick is therefore the better method of play.
