Places Death Toll At 33

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LAKEHURST, N. J., May 7—(Friday)—An announcement at 12:05 a. m. EDT today by Harry Bruno, press aide for the American Zeppelin Transport Corporation, said that 33 out of 97 persons aboard the dirigible Hindenburg were lost in the disaster. Bruno said there were 36 passengers aboard the airship on the flight from Germany, of whom 20 were saved. Forty-four of the crew of 61, he said, also were saved—a total of 64 survivors. An official announcement tonight listed as having survived the Hindenburg disaster 20 of 44 passengers aboard and 44 out of the 61 members of the crew, thus leaving a total of 41 unaccounted for. Twenty-four bodies were counted in two places, 13 were at the Naval Sick Bay and 11 in the great hangar itself.

EVACUATION OF REFUGEES UNDERWAY

(By Robert B. Parker, Jr., Associated Press Foreign Staff) BILBAO, Spain, May 6—Proud Basques sped their women and children from the danger of battle and starvation tonight under the protecting guns of British warships, and made ready to stand defiant siege against the insurgent army. Five thousand toddling youngsters and women of Bilbao left for France this morning aboard the Spanish Government ships Habana and Izarra. The French liner Chal-amare was designated to carry the second refugee contingent to Bordeaux tonight. To the children it was a lark. They scampered over the decks and dashed all through the ships. Even while insurgent warcraft slipped through the morning mists and threatened briefly to attack. But many of the women wept. They felt they might never again see their native Basque country. Some left husbands and fathers in the trenches; others already were widowed by war. A weeping old lady carried a faded wedding dress. Some balanced babies of bed linen and pictures atop their heads as they clung to their babies. They were no cheery whitties or happy goodbyes. The Habana and Izarra slipped into the Bay of Biscay for the dash to Bordeaux finally, in the misty dawn, to face the threat of the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera and the destroyer Velasco. Quickly, however, the convoying British battleship Royal Oak and two British destroyers formed a protecting flank. The Almirante Cervera apparently made a futile effort to cross the Habana's bow. But the insurgent warship withdrew at sight of the British war craft, and the destroyer Velasco turned also back into the mists after hovering for a time in the distance.

Britain Rejects Munitions Nationalization Proposal

LONDON, May 6—(CP cable)—The British Government rejected today proposals for munitions nationalization of armaments factories or for more rigid control of private manufacture. A Government white paper held that sweeping changes now might disrupt the $750,000,000 defence program and would be unwise concentration of an "isolated aspect" of a problem which should be settled by international agreement. There would, however, be quick action in the event of war. "His Majesty's Government recognize" the white paper said, "that if ever this country should become involved in a major war, a much wider measure of control over

SALVAGE WORK UNDERWAY AT SPRINGHILL

Bodies Of All Victims Except Engineer Burned Almost Beyond Recognition. (CP. by Guardian's Special Wire) SPRINGHILL JUNCTION, N.S., May 6—(CP)—Body of an unidentified man found tonight in the wreckage of what had been the Montreal-Halifax Express, set the death toll in the wreck at seven. Four men, including the driver and an express messenger were known to have been killed a few hours after the crash between the express and a string of runaway coal-cars that had broken away from the railway yard here and careened down-grade with ever increasing momentum into the approaching train. The six bodies recovered from the wreckage included those of all the known dead, but it was thought not impossible that others aboard had met death. Several hoboos were noticed "riding the rods" some time before the accident.

Germany Stunned By Disaster

(A. P. Guardian's Special Wire) BERLIN, May 7—(Friday)—Word of the Hindenburg disaster spread consternation early today through a shocked and at first disbelieving Germany. "The shock was all the greater because the country, so many years free from airship catastrophes, almost had begun to believe it was immune. Officials at the zeppelin's home port of Frankfurt at first refused to believe the news. "We just got radiograms from the Hindenburg at seven P. M. and eight P. M. (one P. M. and two P. M., EST) saying all was well," one said. "There must be some mistake." Dismayed Berlin officials expressed the quick hope the extent of the disaster would be less than first reports indicated.

1500 EXPECTED IN CORONATION DAY PARADE

Final Details Of Local Program To Be Decided At Committee Meeting Tonight. Final plans for Coronation Day observance in Charlottetown will be decided at a meeting of all Coronation Day program committees in the City Hall tonight. A tentative program provides for a parade on the afternoon of May 12th, of between twelve and fifteen hundred persons, representing militia and naval units, war veterans, fraternal societies and other organizations to the Forum where short addresses will be heard. His Worship Mayor W. Turner will preside. Speakers will include the Administrator of the Government, the Hon. J. A. Matheson, K.C., Chief Justice of the Province; the Premier, the Hon. Thane A. Campbell, K.C.; a representative of the Ministerial Association; His Excellency, Rt. Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, Bishop of Charlottetown, or his representative; and Hon. Dr. W. J. F. MacMillan. The parade will form up in Victoria Park and march to the Forum for the program there and then re-form and return to the Park. It had been expected that the proceedings at the Forum would begin at sharp 3.15 but it is possible that the time may be changed slightly to enable those taking part in the parade and the spectators to hear King George speak to the peoples of the Empire after the coronation ceremony in London. The following organizations have signified their intention of having representative in the parade. The Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve; the Prince Edward Island Light Horse; the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; the 2nd and 8th Medium Seige Batteries; the Prince Edward Island Highlanders; the 21st Field Ambulance; the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.; the Boy Scouts; the Girl Guides; the Sons of England; the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; the Loyal Orange Association; the Caledonian Club; the Benevolent Irish Society; the Knights of Pythias; the Knights of Columbus; and the Charlottetown Firemen. Col. U. G. Dawson will be in command of the parade. Elaborate preparations are being made for a display of fireworks at Victoria Park in the evening of Coronation Day. The decorating of public buildings, business houses and private residences in Charlottetown is beginning to get well under way and a City in gala attire on Coronation Day is assured.

Blast Rents Zeppelin In Point Of Landing On 1937 Maiden Voyage

Panic Grips Spectators As Screams Of Terror Replace Laughter Of Happily Waving Passengers Seen On Observation Platform Of Ship. (By Robert Okin) (Associated Press Staff Writer) LAKEHURST, N. J., May 6—Her silvery bulk shattered by a terrific explosion, the German air liner Hindenburg plunged in flames at the United States naval air station here tonight, with indications at least one-third of the 99 aboard perished. As minor explosions continued to tear her twisted aluminum skeleton and ribboned fabric hours afterward, estimates of the death toll were conflicting and duplicating. Harry A. Bruno, press relations counsel for the Zeppelin Company which operated the luxurious modern dirigible, said that 64 of the persons aboard her on her maiden 1937 voyage here had been reported saved. He listed 20 passengers and 44 of the crew as survivors.
