Memorial Library Presented At North Lake School

A meeting of special importance to North-Lake school district took place on Sept. 30, 1949 when Dr. L.W. Shaw Inspector Hynes and Mr. MacKenzie delivered one hundred and twenty-seven books to the Trustees. After the visitors were welcomed and instructions given, a program of speeches from the Hon. Stephen McDonald, Wm. Fraser, Miss Rita McDonald, teacher and Miss Carol Fraser was enjoyed by the pupils and ratepayers present. The books, a gift from Mr. Everett Fraser, a former pupil of the school who became Dean of a Law School in Minnesota, U.S.A. and is now retired though still a resident of the district, were presented to the trustees. Mr. Fraser made a deposit of $1000.00 in the Provincial Treasury, the interest to be used in perpetuity for school purpose especially to maintain a library to be known as the Robert and Elizabeth Fraser Memorial Library in honor of his parents. The career of the donor has been followed with pride by residents of the district and that feeling has been enhanced by his generous thoughtful gift. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. (Patriot Please Copy)

SEX PRACTICES Among Youth Shock U. K. Town

DEVIZES, Wiltshire, England, Oct. 15 (CP) - (CP) - A survey among 'teen-agers of the isolated village of Wootton Rivers were described in court today. Three 17-year-old youths of the village appeared before Justice Sir Laurence Byrne on charges of offences against girls of less than 16. The case was the aftermath of the birth of a baby to a girl in Wootton Rivers, an event which rocked to its foundations the community of 275 persons. Prosecutor Cyril Williams said that the activities which led to the charges had been going on for about five years, since a movie on sex instruction was shown in the village school. Inquiries launched when the girl's baby was born showed, Williams said, "that 19 or 20 young people were concerned in matters of impropriety." Some were so young that they were dealt with by the juvenile court. Defence counsel G. Hope Scott said the village boasted "nothing whatever in the way of diversions."

After the sex instruction movie was shown, impromptu field trips to farms "to watch the behavior of the animals, particularly with regard to their behavior when mating," followed, said Harold Rees, probation officer. "It seems that some of the exploratory conduct was occurring among the young people of the village," Rees continued. "The defendants, I suggest, were driven to these offences by the squalid circumstan-

Sub-Tropical Scilly Islands Are Tax Free

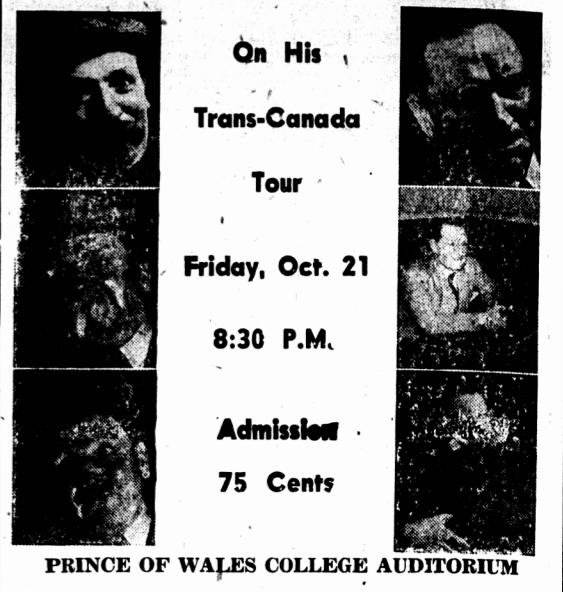

By Paul S. Underwood
LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP) - Sub-tropical gardens in Britain? They have them in the Scilly Islands, where there is no income tax and you pay an automobile tax only if you want to. The Scillies lie at the entrance to the English Channel, 25 miles south and west of Land's End—the southwestern tip of the mainland. This little group of islands is warmed by the Gulf Stream as it swings down the Eastern Atlantic. Lemon trees, banana trees, giant palms, prickly pear, burnese honey-suckle and cactus flourish in the warm equable climate. There are about 400 islands in the group, of which five are inhabited. There also are about 100 islets. About 2000 people live there. Their main occupations are taking care of tourists and raising spring vegetables and flowers for the London markets. The islanders' principal link with the mainland is a little 40-ton ship, the Scillonian, which they own. Three times a week the vessel makes the 40-mile Atlantic journey from Hugh Town, capital of the Islands, to Penzance, Cornwall. The island ship about 2500,000 worth of flowers every year to Britain, principally to London's famed Covent Garden Markets. Hugh Town has two banks, three hotels, five stores, 160 homes, a town hall, a post office, a Roman Catholic Church and a movie house. To visitors from the mainland, the most startling thing about the islands, except for the weather, is the almost complete absence of taxes. There is a vehicle tax of $1 for each wheel, but it's voluntary.
