Diary Of Events Leading Up To Abdication Today

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

A diary of King Edward's friendship with Mrs. Wallis Simpson: May 27, 1936—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson were listed in the court circles as King Edward's guests in Buckingham Palace in his first formal dinner after his accession.

July 3—Mrs. Simpson announced as dinner guest of the King.

Aug. 8—King files from England for vacation cruise, joining in France his guests, among whom were Mrs. Simpson.

Aug. 10—Month's cruise on yacht Nahlin starts from Sibenik on Dalmatian coast of Yugoslavia.

Sept. 6—Cruise ends at Istanbul. Homeward trip includes stop Sept. 8 in Vienna, where Mrs. Simpson arranged to have King consult ear specialist.

Sept. 24—Mrs. Simpson guest of King at Balmoral Castle house party.

Oct. 5—Mrs. Simpson starts suit for divorce against Ernest Aldrich Simpson on grounds of misconduct.

Oct. 27—Mr. Justice Hawke grants Mrs. Simpson a decree nisi, final in six months in the ordinary course of events.

Nov. 12—King Edward attends party given by Mrs. Simpson.

Nov. 13—Mrs. D. B. Merryman, Mr. Simpson's aunt, of Washington, D. C., arrives to chaperone Mrs. Simpson.

Nov. 28—The Times, without mentioning Mrs. Simpson says "King's position must be kept high above reproach or ridicule."

Dec. 1—Bishop of Bradford, in speech to diocesan convention said of King Edward: "He stands for the English people's idea of kingship and I hope it still is an essential part of that idea that the King needs the grace of God for his office, we hope he is aware of his need. Some of us wish he gave more positive signs of such awareness."

Provincial newspapers, linking the speech with gossip over Mrs. Simpson, lifted the self-imposed censorship of the press.

Dec. 2—London newspapers "break" the story with picture and flaring headlines.

Dec. 3—Prime Minister Baldwin, after two conferences with King Edward, in answer to a question in the House of Commons said: "The situation is of such a nature as to make it inexpedient that I be questioned about it at this time."

Dec. 4—Mrs. Simpson arrived at 4:10 in Rouen, France, after a secret trip from England and left early in the afternoon for the South of France.

Prime Minister Baldwin, in his first public statement, told the House of Commons the King was free to marry whom he would but the lady whom he married "necessarily becomes Queen" since "there is no such thing as what is called a morganatic marriage known to our law."

He said the Cabinet was "not prepared" to introduce legislation "dealing with a particular case" after an explanation that "the matters to be dealt with are of common concern to the commonwealth as a whole and such a change could not be expected without the consent of all the Dominions. I am satisfied from inquiries that this assent would not be forthcoming."

Dec. 5—Winston Churchill appealed for "time and tolerance" and challenged the authority of "any ministry" to advise the sovereign to abdicate.

Baldwin, in a late night meeting with the King at Fort Belvedere, delivered "certain documents" which authoritative sources said might have included papers for the King's abdication.

Mrs. Simpson ended a two-day automobile dash across France at the villa of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers of New York, in Cannes.

Dec. 6—The Cabinet met in 10 Downing Street, some members of a street crowd booing the ministers as they arrived. The Archbishop of Canterbury was also booed.

Dec. 7—Baldwin, mentioning Mrs. Simpson's name for the first time in the House of Commons, said: "These matters were not raised first by the Government but by His Majesty himself in conversation with me some weeks ago when he first informed me of his intention to marry Mrs. Simpson whenever she should be free."

"The subject has therefore been for some time in the King's mind and as soon as His Majesty has arrived at the conclusion as to the course he desires to take, he will no doubt communicate it to the Governments in this country and the Dominions."

"It will then be for those governments to decide what advice if any, they would feel it their duty to tender him in the light of his conclusion."

He said it was "the earnest desire of the Government to afford His Majesty the fullest opportunity of weighing the decision which involves so directly his own future happiness and the interests of all his subjects."

Mrs. Simpson in a signed statement issued in Cannes said she was willing, if her action would forthwith from a situation that has become unhappy and untenable."

Dec. 8—King Edward and Baldwin conferred for five hours at Fort Belvedere. The Dukes of York and Kent were also present. No statement was made in the Commons. Mrs. Simpson's solicitor, accompanied by a clerk and a physician, flew from London to Cannes, ostensibly to arrange disposition of her London residence.

Dec. 9—Baldwin promised the House a statement for the next day. The Cabinet met both in the morning and the evening, and the country became resigned to abdication. A wagon of luggage, believed to be the King's left Fort Belvedere. The King conferred with Queen Mary and the Dukes of York and Kent.

B. C. Education Training Plan Proves Success

(By Ivan Corbett)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
VANCOUVER, Dec. 10.—Recreational centres throughout Canada similar to those in British Columbia's government department of Physical and Educational Recreation are envisioned by Ian Eisenhardt, provincial director.

Meeting in Toronto a few weeks ago with the Youth Committee of the National Employment Association Mr. Eisenhardt explained the British Columbia plan to Chairman Alan Chambers, Alcoria, Andre Moutpelt, Montreal; Joseph McCull-ley, Newmarket, Ont.; and W. C. Nickerson, Halifax. The committee submitted its findings to the National Employment Commission which will, it is expected, make a recommendation to the federal government.

In British Columbia the recreation department has planned this season for 35 centres with a membership goal of 10,000. Enrolment in 1935-36 reached 4,535 with a total person-attendance of 54,298. Instructors cannot be trained fast enough.

Mr. Eisenhardt says many men working in mines and forests are employed only seasonally and need physical training to maintain their health and physique during idle periods. Physical training would also aid those who had been cured of tuberculosis to rebuild themselves physically.

The recreation department was organized in this province in the
