

Scrofula

Few are entirely free from it. It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood. It may then produce irregularity of the stomach and bowels, dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tendency to consumption before manifesting itself in much more obvious eruption or glandular swelling. It is best to be sure that you are quite free from it, and for its complete eradication you can rely on

SOME AMERICAN PLAGUES.

The potato bug and the horn fly are afflictions to our farmers in these latter years and may have served to remind some persons of the plagues of insect pests which visited the land of Egypt in the days of Moses and the Exodus. Some statistics recently compiled in the Agricultural Department at Washington go to show that North America has probably suffered as great loss in the aggregate from various insects as befel Egypt in her memorable visitations. Back about 1867 these losses to American farmers were estimated at $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 yearly. These losses were sustained in different parts of the country from insects which attacked the grain, corn, fruit and animals of the farming states. Some years the breaking loose of hordes of insects would totally destroy the crops and cause such general distress and poverty that starvation seemed to threaten the inhabitants of entire counties and states.

Notable among these visitations were the great locust plagues which swept over large portions of the West and Northwestern States and our own Red River Country in the seventies. George E. Walsh in a paper on this subject tells how under the locust plague men became paralyzed with fear; prayers were offered up in all the churches and public places, and even executive proclamations were issued by the Governors of the afflicted States calling for general supplication for divine aid in removing the visitation. In 1877 the Governor of Minnesota issued a proclamation appointing the 26th day of April as a day of prayer throughout the state for that purpose. Successive plagues of locusts had brought this about. In 1873 they had greatly damaged the grass and grain crops in Southwestern Minnesota. The following season they had spread so as to cause general alarm. Millions of the creatures appeared and swept across the country destroying every green thing in their way.

An appeal was made to the Legislature but nothing could be done, and in 1875 the swarms had multiplied tenfold. During that summer and the next the scourge spread with alarming rapidity throughout Minnesota and into adjoining states until the destruction became so great that the inhabitants were reduced to starvation. All sorts of efforts were made to check the plague. Coal oil was used in vast quantities, and farmers and their families devoted their time to destroying locusts. In the Dakotas, and Iowa their numbers became so great that people were driven to despair. "It was impossible to raise crops," writes Mr. Walsh. "If they were raised the swarms of locusts would destroy them before they could reach maturity. By the spring of 1875 and 1876 the great Northwest had nearly reached the limit of patience. Bankruptcy stared the whole northwestern group of States in the face.

"In the autumn of 1876 the Governors of Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Dakota and Iowa met at Omaha to discuss the plague and devise some means of averting the ruin that was paralyzing their fertile land. Eminent entomologists met with the Governors in this conference, but all that science could suggest has been tried, and the conference broke up without anything more definite being reached than the calling of a general day of prayer. A strange coincidence, or as soon will have it, a divination answer to the public prayers, followed the 26th day of April set aside for this purpose. A few warm days brought the locusts from their winter hiding places in great numbers, and then a cold wave suddenly developed in the Northwest, and the unbatched larvae and young locusts were almost totally destroyed by the frost which spread over the whole afflicted sections."

Such in part is Mr. Walsh's account of the plague of locusts in the west and how it was stayed—certainly not by the hand of man. Billions and billions of eggs of the locusts and their young larvae were destroyed by the cold wave following a few days of balmy spring weather. It saved the Northwest from bankruptcy and a period of depression that would have lasted to this day. Millions upon millions of dollars had been lost, and hundreds of farmers had migrated to other lands, leaving their farms in many instances as they were and fleeing from the plague as did the ancient Egyptians. "The awful screech and noise made by the locusts maddened and crazed men, woman and children, and the days became horrible nightmares which have never since been equalled."

The locust plague that was so wonderfully stayed in 1877, has not returned except in a small way in some isolated sections, so that it is no longer feared. But other insect pests have committed serious ravages. Among these is the chinch bug, which has earned for itself the name of the "costliest insect in America." It is so small an insect that it is hardly conceivable to the naked eye but multiplies with incredible rapidity. It destroys grass, corn and all kinds of grain crops. In 1871 this bug caused a loss of $70,000,000, in 1874 a further loss of $80,000,000 and in 1896 was again very destructive. Next to the locust it has been the most injurious of insect pests in America, and it has not lost its power for evil. The great cotton crop of the South has its enemy in the cotton worm, which has sometimes wrought from 20 to 30 millions damage in a single year. The phylloxera has done incalculable damage to the vines of France and other countries. We in Canada have our own troubles with plague of flies, bugs and insects that prey upon our live stock, potatoes, grain and fruit crops, but we have never yet experienced so severe a plague in these lines, as has befallen other lands during the present generation.

HEALTH

The general health of a woman is inseparably related to the local womanly health. When the delicately womanly organism is diseased, the body loses plumpness, the cheeks lose their roses, and a nervous and fretful condition becomes habitual.

Thousands of sick women who have been cured of diseases peculiar to the sex by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have testified to the restoration of the general health when the local disease was cured.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I used four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mouthport, Lancaster Co., Pa. "and can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, uterine trouble. Am in better health than ever before. Everyone who knows me is surprised to see me look so well. In June, when I wrote to you, I was so poor in health that I could not walk. You answered my letter and told me what to do. I followed your advice, and to-day am cured. I tell everybody that with God's help Dr. Pierce's medicine cured me. If these few words are of any use to you, you are welcome to use them. They might help some other poor suffering woman."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 large pages, in paper cover, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A LITTLE GIRL ALMOST DEAD.
Morrisburg, Ont., Feb. 13th, 1901.
Messrs. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—My little girl was almost dead with summer complaint. I tried numerous remedies for her, but they did no good. A friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so I procured a bottle, and by the time she had taken three doses it began to help her, and two bottles effected a complete cure. I owe her life to your excellent remedy.

A LITTLE BOY'S LIFE SAVED.
Seagrave, Ont., Jan. 2nd, 1901.
Messrs. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—My little boy was very bad with diarrhœa. He passed nothing but blood. I tried everything, but could get nothing to do him any good until I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. A few doses made a complete cure, and I have more faith in your remedy for diarrhœa than any other preparation on earth and always keep it in the house.
