SUMMERSIDE PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

MacDONALD—MacDONALD

St. Dunstan's Basilica, Charlottetown was the scene of a pretty event on Wednesday morning, June 18th, when Miss Genevieve Lauretta, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald of St. Georges became the bride of Mr. Gerard MacDonald of Little Pond, older son of James A. E. MacDonald and the late Mrs. MacDonald. Rev. Patrick McMahon, P.P., performed the marriage ceremony and celebrated Nuptial Mass. The wedding marches were beautifully rendered by Mrs. Joseph Dougan, organist, and Mr. Frank MacIntyre of Charlottetown sang appropriate hymns during the Mass.

The bride was becomingly attired in a floor length gown of white flowered silk organdy with full length veil caught with rosebuds. She carried a white prayer book with white ribbon streamers. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank MacDonald who looked lovely in a blue floor length gown with matching accessories. Frank MacDonald capably performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony breakfast was served at the Queen Hotel to the immediate relatives following which the bridal party left by motor on a honeymoon trip to Boston and other points. The bride travelled in a powder blue wool suit with white accessories.

Previous to her marriage the bride was guest of honor at two miscellaneous showers where she received many costly and useful gifts. Their many friends join in wishing them many years of happiness.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER AT LONG CREEK

A very pretty miscellaneous shower took place in the Long Creek hall on Thursday evening, July 31st, in honor of Miss Mary MacKenzie, a very popular young bride-to-be. The hall was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers and cut flowers.

Mr. W. R. Shaw very capably acted as chairman and expressed the regrets of the community in losing Mary who was always willing to give of her time and talents in church, institute or any enterprise to better community life; but all rejoice that her marriage does not take her very far from the home of her childhood. To the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Hector Currie, Mary was escorted to the decorated seat of honor under a large wedding bell. A carriage loaded with gifts was wheeled to the bride-to-be by Lucy Ann the very winsome little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacEwen.

The gifts consisting of many useful articles, including money were opened by Miss Vera MacLeod while Mrs. Malcolm MacNeill read the very humorous verses. Miss Lillian MacNeill and Miss Shirley MacDonald arranged them on the table. Mary thanked the many friends for their good wishes and beautiful gifts and invited one and all to visit her in her new home. The audience were kept in gales of laughter by some humorous stories told by the chairman, followed by "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" lustily sung by all present.

A very pleasant social time was enjoyed while the younger folk "tripped the light fantastic toe" to music furnished by MacNeill's orchestra. Refreshments were served by the ladies and at a late hour all wended their way homeward after wishing Mary many years of health, happiness and prosperity.

Mr. Frankie Kelly left on Sunday by air for Halifax, N.S., after spending his vacation with his parents in Morell. He has resided in Halifax since his discharge from the Navy and is employed in one of the shoe stores there. B

Negro Charged With Rape Shot By Police

PRENTISS, Miss., Aug 4—(AP)—Virginia Hartzog, sheriff's clerk, said tonight that Versie Johnson, Negro, charged with raping a white woman, was shot to death today when he grabbed for a state highway patrolman's gun.

She said a "crowd" gathered at the jail shortly after the Negro was arrested and "gave the sheriff until 8 o'clock tonight to get a confession."

Sheriff G. A. Berry, patrolman J. S. Puckett and a patrolman named Hopkins took the Negro to the scene of the crime, she said.

"He was telling them how it happened," she said, "and got up behind Patrolman Puckett and grabbed him around the waist and tried to get his gun." One of the three officers shot the Negro, she said.

The attack on the white woman was said to have occurred about 9 a.m. The woman, an expectant mother, begged the Negro not to molest her, she said, and offered him all the money she had in the house. After the attack, she said the Negro took the money from the house and fled.

Being Consort Far From Easy, History Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, husband-to-be of Britain's heiress presumptive to the throne, has two choices as to what kind of a royal consort he will be. His predecessors through history provide the patterns. The role of being husband of a ruling queen has been tested in two ways — both difficult.

Most men who have been royal consorts were cast, either by choice or circumstance, in the traditional pattern of inconspicuous helpmeet, dwarfed in the shadow of the power and might of their wives' inheritance. The few have been dominant personalities.

Most state unions were short on moonlight and roses, long on political liaison and diplomatic opportunism. In almost every instance the husband of a queen has been a prince or a duke.

Perhaps the most famed royal consort was the male ancester of both Princess Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the throne, and of Lieut. Mountbatten.

In Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Mountbatten finds the almost perfect prototype of husband to the queen. Albert was not only his wife's partner and guide in public life, but the undisputed master of his own house. Further, he filled to the British public's satisfaction a position requiring discipline, caution and restraint.

Viscount Mountbatten, viceroy of India, is credited with the role of match-maker for his 26-year-old nephew, Philip, and Princess Elizabeth. It was Prince Leopold, an uncle of Victoria who later became King of Belgium, who was primarily responsible for that earlier marriage.

Albert was shy, stiff of manner, studious and utterly without enthusiasm for sport. But he had a mind of his own and never was content to be a nonentity — and he never was.

"Adored" Guidance

At first Queen Victoria excluded him completely from the business of government and relied on her trusted ministers. But before long Albert stepped to her side and remained there until his death in 1861. The queen, at first so determined to run her own show, openly admitted and bowed to her "adored husband's" guidance.

Philip Mountbatten will not be the first man with that Christian name to become husband to an English Queen. Queen Mary I, unhappy child of Henry VII whose turbulent reign gave her the name of "Bloody Mary," married a Philip, son of a King of Spain. England and Spain actually were at war and he met with unfriendly subjects in his adopted land. Philip stuck it out for a little more than a year. Then he left for Brussels to become Spanish governor of the Low Countries.

Britain's Queen Anne was the wife of Prince George of Denmark, a quiet man who fitted perfectly the conception of a quiet, unobtrusive royal consort who remained outside the spotlight focused on his sovereign wife.

Mary II, Anne's sister who preceded her on the British throne, ruled jointly with her dour, silent husband, William, Prince of Orange.

Henry, Lord Darnley, in the brief period between his marriage and his murder, was the royal consort of tragic, beautiful Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots. He conspired with Mary when she was the widowed Queen of France to make her Queen Elizabeth's successor, but after his marriage to her, when she declared him to be King of Scots, Darnley betrayed her.

Kinsmen	3	8	.273

The Junior Recce team from Charlottetown journeyed to Summerside Thursday evening and took on the local Junior Kinsmen but the game was called with two out in the first half of the fourth on account of darkness caused prematurely by a large black thunder cloud that came up from the north-west. The rain did fall about twenty minutes after but it was the darkness which forced the calling of the game.

The visitors were ahead 5 to 4 when the game was called. Three of their runs came in as a result of two wild pitches and a passed ball. The first run scoring on a wild pitch was earned and MacKenzie batted in another earned run, but all the others were the result of misplays on the part of the local defence. One of Summerside's counters was earned, Oatway getting a single, stealing second, moving to third on a fielder's choice and being batted home by Stewart who, by the way, batted in two runs in the abbreviated contest.

The visitors collected seven hits off Stewart in three and two-third innings the local squad getting two hits off MacLean in three innings. Hennessey, Corish and Matheson all cracked out doubles.

George Pope, centre fielder of the local Kinsmen, made a beautiful running catch of Corish's fly to centre a few minutes before the game was called.

Only three more games to be played in the regular schedule of the Summerside Baseball League. The best the Legionaires can do now is to tie the Red Sox for first place and the game which will have to be played, weather permitting, between the Kinsmen and R.C.A.F. will no doubt be the decisive one to decide which of these teams will end up in the cellar of the League. If the weather permitted, you will see the result of that game in another part of this paper.

The race for the batting championship and the Grand Trophy is apparently going to be a close one. At least the five leaders, and perhaps one or two others still have a chance to come out in front. The final three games will definitely decide the winner.

Yearling Prices Near New Record

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug 4—(AP)—Keeneland's yearling prices stood today as the third highest of all time with a $6,826 average and marked the throughbred breeding industry as profitable despite the 31-per-cent drop in the market from last year's record average.

The auctions closed Thursday night as the last of 436 head were sold for a total of $2,976,400. Last year 415 youngsters brought a record $4,113,600 to average $9,912.

Leading sire this year was Calumet Farm's Whirlaway whose five offspring sold for $105,100, an average of $21,020. Whirly's youngsters last year averaged $26,000 for six head.

No. 2 sire was War Admiral whose five colts and two fillies brought $130,200 for an average of $18,600.
