Berlin Man's Experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Cured his Backache—Early Symptom of Kidney Disease, of which Bright's Disease is the Last Stage.

Berlin, Ont., May 13—(Special)—With the papers telling daily of deaths from Bright's Disease, and medical science convinced that Bright's disease is kidney disease, of which backache is one of the earliest symptoms, the statement of Andrew Hauss of this place becomes of interest to everybody. In his statement Mr. Hauss says: "I had been troubled with a pain in my back for over a year. I tried everything I could get to rub with or take inwardly, but could not get relief. I was advised to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and did so, with the result that one box cured me completely."

Mr. Hauss' experience teaches how easy it is to cure kidney disease, if you take it in time and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. But even if the disease has reached Bright's Disease, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. It will take longer, but they never yet failed to cure it.

was distinguished in the Border wars, and upon the edge of Carterfell, a mountain between England and Scotland, is Reed's Square, thus named in honor of the knight. In the fifteenth century flourished Robert Reed, or Robin of Redesdale, as he was called. He was associated with the Earl of Warwick. This Robin was of sufficient importance to have a monument or figure of himself cut in high relief upon a rock; the figure represents a giant clad in armor.

It is here, in Redesdale, that many scenes in Scott's novels and poetical works are laid. In the "Fair Maid of Perth" mention is made of the powerful clan Chattan, Readough or Redeloch, was a branch of this clan. This may have been the original name of the Read family. The portrait of a Peer Read, who was knighted by Charles V. at the siege of Barbary, can be seen in the council chamber at St. Giles together with an account of the gift of his houses to defray the expense of ringing the bells of St. Giles Church every morning at four and every evening at eight. He married a widow, the Duchess of Brampton.

The first of the name of Read in this country was William Read. He came to America with Governor Winthrop in 1630 and settled in Boston. Colonel Read, son of Sir Thomas Cornwall and grandson of the Lord of Shropshire, came in the same year. Colonel Read settled in Salem and was a prominent man in the colony. He held the rank of Colonel about 1643. Another member of the family, who served in the colonial wars, was Captain George Read or Reed Bartholomew Read, with his three sons, was in the Revolutionary War. A James Read, who commanded a regiment at the battle of Bunker Hill, was the first brigadier-general appointed by the Provincial Congress.

One of the five signers of the Declaration of Independence, who were also framers of the Constitution, was George Read. He was tauntingly told that he signed the Declaration with a halter about his neck. Mr. Read replied that he was prepared for any consequences which might ensue. In September, 1776, he was president of the convention which framed the first constitution of Delaware, and in 1787 he was a member of the convention which framed the Constitution of the United States.

Mr. Read lived in great style at New Castle, Delaware, maintaining a state and etiquette peculiar to colonial times. He always travelled in a splendid yellow chariot drawn by bay horses. Two original portraits of "the signer" are extant. One was painted by Gilbert Stuart. The Father of his Country had the honor of belonging to the Read family; his great-grandfather being George Read, who came to Virginia in 1637. Joseph Read, Washington's military secretary, was probably a relative. He was the man above all others; Washington excepted, who had the confidence of all parties at the time of the struggle for independence. Had his life been spared he would undoubtedly have filled the presidential chair. General Read—to give him his title—in reply to an offer by the British commissioners or the most important office in the colonies and $10,000 in cash, to act in the interest of the British government said that the King of Great Britain had nothing within his gift that would tempt him.

Reeds of the present day have no trouble in proving eligibility to membership in different patriot societies—the Society of Colonial Wars, the Sons of the Revolution, and the Sons of the American Revolution. Through Sarah Warren, wife of a William Read and lineal descendant of a Richard Warren, one of the signers of the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower, descendants may also claim membership in the Mayflower Society—a membership which is most highly prized. Among Reeds who have won distinction as authors and preachers is Hollis Read, who wrote "The Hand of God in History" and "Read's Researches." The Rev. John Read, who was born in 1673, was famous for his ready wit. It is related in the Connecticut Historical Collections: "A Mr. Walker and Mr. Read were both preaching at Hartford. At the time a controversy arose as to which of the ministers should go as missionary to the little settlement of Woodbury. The men were requested to deliver sermons on the day when the matter was to be decided. Mr. Walker took as his text, 'What went ye out into the wilderness to see—a reed shaken with the wind?' He enlarged upon the propriety of a reed being found in the wilderness. Mr. Read took as his text, 'Your adversary, the devil, walketh about seeking whom he may devour.' He stated that the adversary of man was a great walker, and, instead of remaining with the brethren, ought to be kept walking at a distance from them. The result was that Mr. Read came off victorious and retained his place at Hartford."

He was a large land-owner; some of his property he purchased for "two coppers per acre"—this was the township of Ware, in Massachusetts. Another township which he owned he called the Manor of Peace. Although a minister of the Gospel—and renowned for his piety—he was also one of the most distinguished lawyers of his time. He was called "Father-Jack" John, from the fact that he was a famous pedestrian and always wore a leather jacket upon his long tramps. The Reeds are a long-lived race, capable of great endurance, especially under opposition, and possess a determined will and perseverance which generally carries them through whatever they set out to accomplish. The race of Reads was originally of almost gigantic size and strength, ancient records representing them to be an uncommon size. At the present day they are generally taller than the average. In intellect they are above mediocrity. In times of emergency they have often placed themselves in the front rank in order to defend their country and its laws. They are a rugged race.

Another characteristic may be mentioned. They have been famous for marrying relatives. This practice grew out of the exclusiveness of Puritan times, and, perhaps, in some cases, was designed to keep property in the family. An old Read coat of arms is surmounted by a crown; this would indicate royal origin for the family. The motto is, "Equilibrium et Diligentia." The coat of arms, of which an illustration is given, is that of George Read, signer of the Declaration of Independence. It is borne at the present day by his descendants. The arms, gules, display a salix between four sheaves, or crest, on the stump of a tree, vert, a falcon rising, belled and jessed, or motto, "Cedant arma togae"—"Let arms yield to the gown."

CUPID'S MIRROR.

"The beauty of a woman's face or figure is but the external sign of the good health within." says Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the specialist in women's diseases. Further, to be happy and beautiful one must naturally have good health. Now, if a woman has dragging-down feelings, together with constantly returning pains and aches, a too great drain upon her vitality and strength, she will never look beautiful. The feelings of nervousness, the fogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, all result from those disorders peculiar to women, and the only way to effect their cure is to strike at the source of the difficulty. There is every reason why she should write some great specialist, one who has made the diseases of women a specialty for a third of a century like Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. All correspondence is held sacredly confidential, and he gives his advice free and without charge.

During a long period of practice, Doctor Pierce found that a prescription made up entirely of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, cured ninety-eight per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in a form that can be had at any store where medicines are handled. In many cases Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will fit the needs and put the body in healthy condition. So sure of it is Dr. Pierce, he offers a reward of $500 for women who cannot be cured of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapse or Falling of Womb. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure. Don't allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by offering you a cheap substitute. RHEUMATISM IN EVERY JOINT

Mrs. E. H. Hill, a Trained Nurse, Living at 2286 8th Ave., New York, Was Perfectly Helpless With Rheumatism and Kidney Disease.

"Doctors Failed to Help Me, But I Was Completely Cured by Warner's Safe Cure, and Since Then Have Never Had an Attack."

READ HER LETTER. "I had rheumatism in every joint in my body, was perfectly helpless and had to be turned and lifted in bed. This was followed by yellow jaundice. My liver and kidneys were out of order and my urine was scant, and of a reddish-yellow color. It contained uric acid. My finger nails were brittle. The whites of my eyes were yellow and my skin was dry and harsh and the color of a lemon. I had no appetite and felt low spirited, drowsy and heavy. I wanted to sleep all the time. I tried several doctors, but they did not seem to help me; I was then persuaded to try WARNER'S SAFE CURE, and after taking one bottle I was so improved I kept it up until I had taken six, and was completely cured. I have never had another attack. I am an experienced nurse and have recommended it to many people, with excellent results."

They were brought back to perfect health by Safe Cure. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood, and is a never-failing sign that your kidneys are diseased and need immediate attention to prevent Bright's disease, diabetes and other serious stages of kidney trouble. If you have the slightest doubt about your condition

TEST YOUR KIDNEYS AT HOME: a reddish-brown sediment forms, or if particles float about in it, or if it is the least cloudy or smoky, your kidneys are seriously affected and utterly unable to carry the waste matter out of the body; and if allowed to run on without treatment, the uric acid will clog the blood and poison the whole system, causing rheumatic pains and swellings, inflammation of the bladder and urinary organs, headache, backache, especially in the loins; indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, torpid liver, nervousness, all manner of blood and skin eruptions, and, finally, a complete break-down of the general health, with Bright's disease or diabetes and death. DISEASES OF WOMEN. Bearing-down sensation, fainting spells, painful periods and other so-called female troubles are all unifying symptoms of kidney disease. If you are already suffering from any of these diseases your life is in grave danger, as the kidneys rarely put forth such outward symptoms until the disease has secured a firm hold. You should begin taking Safe Cure at once.
