ON THE LENGTH

True Englishmen, spent their gains freely on their houses. "Now I can tell you," I said, "how it is that Nelson's victory at Trafalgar brought about the popularity of British jams and marmalades in the United States. Nelson's defeat of the French and Spanish fleets gave England thereafter the undisputed command of the sea and cut the Continent off from the colonies. The chief of the importations from tropical countries was sugar, and the deprivation was so keenly felt that Napoleon offered a tempting reward for a method of making sugar independent of the sugar-cane. This was the origin of the beet-sugar industry which had at first to be fostered by bounties from the government. After Waterloo, half the countries of the Continent found themselves with thousands of acres of beet-fields which would go out of cultivation if cane-sugar should be allowed to compete. To protect the farmers, some countries put a high tariff on cane-sugar and paid an export bounty on beet-sugar. This bounty-fed beet-sugar was dumped on the London market. It ruined the sugar-planters of Jamaica, but it gave the British makers of preserves their chief material at a price which enabled them to import oranges and strawberries, and then to export to the United States their jams and marmalades.

Then I asked Sir Martin if he had ever considered the influence of the Gulf Stream on the field-sports of England. As the British Isles are as far north as Labrador, they would be desolate were it not for the warm Gulf Stream. Because it is nearer the Arctic, England has a longer day than France or the United States, and therefore the young men and maidens can do a day's work and still have two or three hours of daylight in which to play outdoor games.

The gentleman who is now in possession of the principles of a novel sport, and he can hunt down strange, unsuspected, and remote causes whenever he is sleepless at night or bookless on a train. The game can be played as a solitaire, or a half-dozen may take part, sitting about the wood-fire while the whiter winds swirl the snow against the frosted windows.

MARSHFIELD S. S. PICNIC.—One of the most successful picnics held in connection with the Presbyterian Church took place on the shore field of Alex. McBeath's farm on Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of children and parents and everything went without a hitch. There were races for old and young, wheelbarrow races, egg and spoon races, three-legged races, volleyball, football, etc. and everyone entered with vim into the spirit of the sport. A splendid repast was served by the ladies which was done ample justice to. The ladies of Marshfield being famous for their cuisine. Rev. Mr. Muir, St. James, and Mr. Ramage, the student in charge were present and helped greatly towards the success of the picnic.

INTERESTED AND INTERESTING VISITORS.—Miss Rosenberger, R. N., and Miss Mabel Dunham, B. A., of Kitchener, Ontario arrived in Charlottetown Saturday night, having motored all the way and visiting many of the principal cities and places of interest en route. Miss Rosenberger is a medical missionary in Korea and has many interesting things to tell of the gradual westernizing of that country where she spent five years. She is now nearing the end of her year's furlough and is preparing to return very shortly to the scene of her labours. Miss Dunham is the author of one of the most successful of recent books, "The Trail of the Conestoga," a historical novel which has already run through four editions and is very popular. She has another in course of preparation which she expects to publish in the early autumn. Through the kindness of their friend and fellow citizen, Mrs. Marr, who with her little son Ian, is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Messervey, the visitors were driven around the city and over several miles of the surrounding country.

The Public Forum

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Charlottetown Guardian does not necessarily endorse the opinions of correspondents.

IMPROVED ROADS

Sir.—The improved condition of our public finances—as shown by the Guardian of Saturday last, will, I think, justify the Provincial Government in still further improving the public highways—especially those leading into the towns and ports at which the produce of the Province is shipped. There is a great deal of traffic, for instance, on the North River Road, near this city. In the fall and spring it is usually "bad." I think that the Provincial Government would do well to have it made a permanent way as far, at least, as the turn of the road. No doubt the Federal government could be induced to assist in the permanent improvement of the roads in the vicinity of those harbors at which there are considerable exports and imports and I have no doubt either that Charlottetown and Summerside, at least, would be glad to co-operate in the work of road improvement within or near the limit of each municipality.

PROGRESS

A good road, is a good asset; and a permanently good road would be—if not always, a thing of beauty—"a joy forever." I am, Sir, etc.

GOOD NEWS

Sir.—The report of the External Auditors, published by The Guardian on Saturday, conveys good news to the taxpayers of this Province. It shows what can be accomplished by care in the administration of public affairs, and the exercise of business ability by the government. A reduction of the Provincial liabilities by $85,655.68! Its a splendid result of the management of Extern. Premier Stewart and his colleagues. The example set for Mr. Saunders and his colleagues is one to be followed by them. There is yet ample scope for good financial management. I note that the net debt of the Province, on the 31st of July, 1927, was $1,958,485.49. It ought to be forthwith reduced. Of course the first duty of the new government is to obey the order of the electors to carry into practical effect the Prohibitory Liquor Act, and, of course, the roads and schools and other public services must be maintained. But the record of the Stewart government shows that these services can be satisfactorily performed, and that the public debt can, at the same time, be considerably reduced. We all hope that the reduction of the Provincial debt will be continued.

INSIDIOUS EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective advisedly. Sufferers from Eyestrain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eyestrain is present a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.
