IN MEMORIAM

MR. PHILIP DOYLE

It is with the deepest sorrow we have just learned of the death of our dear uncle, Philip Doyle, Hope River, who passed away March 19th, 1919.

Death at any time is sad, but he was one we all loved so well and his death has made a deep impression of sorrow never to be forgotten by his nieces Mrs. Frank Seales, Mrs. Margaret A.
Desmond, Mrs. L. R. Rye, Mrs. Fred W. Ramelli and Mrs. O. L. Lynds, all of Boston, also Mrs. Fred Pulsar James, Philip and William Doyle, of Charlottetown; Besides Mrs. Emily J Doyle, Hope River.

Often our thoughts will wander To a grave so far away Where they have laid our dearest uncle
We all have loved so well.

MRS. WILLIAM A DIXON.

There passed peacefully away at her home, Fortune Bridge, "Emily Melvina" beloved wife of Wm. A.
Dixon. Mrs. Dixon departed this life at the early age of fifty years.

About four months ago she was stricken with paralysis, but hopes for her recovery were entertained until about three weeks previous to her death when she was again stricken with paralysis from which, despite the best of medical skill, she did not rally. She was called home, it is true in the morning of life, but say not that such a life has been lived in vain; its memory and influence, must ever enrich the heart experience of those who are left to mourn and into their lives, must come, even through sadness, the fuller life beyond death's shadows.

Mrs. Dixon was a woman of sterling qualities, loved and endeared by all who had the pleasure of knowing her. She leaves to mourn, besides a grief-stricken husband, one daughter Mrs. Norman Richards, who nursed her during her illness, and four sons namely: Arthur, Roy, Harold, Howard and father Mr. Alex.
Webster of Cardigan, and one brother John Webster of Cardigan.

The funeral services which were very impressive were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. S. MacKay. The remains which were followed by a large concourse of friends were laid to rest in the Presbyterian Cemetery, Fortune. "Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord."

PROBING AN ELEVEN YEAR OLD MURDER MYSTERY.

TRAVERSE CITY, March 29—Examination of Mrs. Stanislaw Lypchinski, charged with the murder of Sister Mary Johns, of the Polish Convent at Isadore, eleven years ago, was adjourned today at Leland, near here until April 10.

Three physicians testified at today's hearing that the bones found in a cemetery after being removed from neneath the Isadore Church, were those of a woman. They also stated the skull had been fractured and that in their opinion a one inch crack in the skull had been caused by a blow severe enough to cause death.

When the examination is resumed Father Edward Podlaszewski, of Deroit, will be called and questioned regarding testimony given late yesterday by Jacob Flees, the church sexton, to the effect that Father Podlaszewski had ordered the removal of the remains from beneath the church.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

How an N.C.O. and a man of the Canadian forestry corps discovered a lake under ground in the heart of a mountain and thus provided a huge camp, a village and a wide stretch of surrounding country with a much needed supply of water is told in a dispatch from Mr. Fred James, official correspondent at the front of the Canadian overseas ministry.

Towering above the village was a lofty hill, half way up which was a small hole 30 inches wide. A group of units of the forestry corps was encamped close by, and there was difficulty in getting an adequate supply of water.
Hearing a legend from the villagers that beyond the entrance to that hole in the mountain was an abundant supply, the N.C.O. and his companion decided upon an investigation.

They entered the hole, crawling with great difficulty in the cramped space of the pocket under the mountain, until at last they came upon an extensive opening 1,000 feet from the entrance. There stretched below them, was a considerable lake of crystal water. Where the supply came from they did not know. It was a phenomenon.

Pipes were quickly laid to the lake through the tunnel and connected with a pumping plant outside, and today that subterranean lake is giving an abundant supply of perfect pure water.

The story sounds like a chapter from a financial fairy tale, but it is another example that truth is stranger than fiction.

FREAK CONDITIONS IN THE FISH INDUSTRY.

There is no accounting for tastes, and that is being shown every day in the week in some sphere of life. In the fish industry, one has only to turn to those persons whose chief delight is to gorge themselves with a dish of loquid fish; in the east it is sometimes classed as a seacut, while in the water of the Gulf of Mexico, where it is sometimes taken in large quantities, it is called octopus or octopli. It makes very little difference what the name may be, the fish is considered a delicacy by Italians, Greeks, Japanese and Chinese. Five or six years ago dev-ilfish sold in the Vera Cruz markets for about 35 cents a pound. Now, with the additional high cost of living, it is bringing higher prices, sales during the present week being made at 75 cents a pound, wholesale. Who says fish is high in price when devilfish brings more money in the wholesale market than any other variety outside of Kennebec salmon when it first comes to market?—The Fishing Gazette.

men in uniform confronted her and asked for the lady of the house.
"There are three soldiers at the door," she told her mistress.
"Show them into the parlor," she was instructed.
When the mistress came down and saw the soldiers she was somewhat taken back.
"You are the soldiers who have been sent up here, are you. Who sent you?"
"Headquarters, ma'am," was the reply.
"Yes, I know," she continued, "but what was the name of the officer."
"Lieut. Louis Cohen," was the reply.

ried Mr. Hathaway assistant state superintendent of schools, who owned a 320-acre ranch adjoining her own.
After the death of her husband, Mrs.
Hathaway farmed the two ranches. It was difficult to get masculine help, so she introduced modern machinery that could be operated by women, and announced to the countryside that hereafter her place was to be called the "manless ranch."
DOES THE HORSE LIE DOWN?
One occasionally sees the statement that horses seldom, if ever, lie down. That there are horses whose caretakers have never seen them resting in that way we do not question because we have heard it from stablemen who have carefully observed them. But no one who knows anything about horses and who has seen them stretched out at full length, and who has noticed unmistakable evidences on the horses' themselves in the morning of having lain down, will credit the assertion. Many a horse is doubtless too sensible to lie down on rough, filthy unbedded floor, but give him a comfortable, well-bedded stall and not only will he lie down but repay his owner with better service and more years of usefulness because of the more perfect rest thus obtained.

A HORSE'S DEATH CRY.
One of the touching incidents of the war is told by a member of the crew on an American ship carrying 2500 horses to Europe before the United States became a belligerent. This ship was attacked by the German cruiser Mocwe while crossing the Atlantic.
After the transport had been torpedoed her crew was taken aboard the Mocwe, while horses dead and alive poured out of the great hole left in the side of the transport by the torpedo.
"Then," says the one telling story, "a fine big white horse sprang out and swam strongly to us, half a mile away.
Ah, he was a noble beast, that horse.
Near us he neighed. An officer barked something in German and a sailor began shooting at the animal with a pistol. One shot hit and the horse screamed. Did you ever hear a horse scream it sounds like a woman in agony and it makes your blood creep. He was right near us and we could see his eyes, wild, pleading fear of death in them. The officer jerked out his own pistol and fired once, and the horse sank immediately. That's the horse I have nightmares about sometimes.

A WOODEN LEGGED COW
That a broken leg need not be a handicap in the bovine species has been demonstrated by a valuable cow which was found on the ranch of C. A. Chafin, near the town of Temple, in Texas, says Popular Science. A corn-planting machine was the means of accidentally breaking one of her legs and her owner substituted there for a wooden member.
It fits so well that she walks about with the same ease that she possessed before the accident occurred.
This successful surgical operation will no doubt suggest to other farmers the feasibility of saving their cattle when they are similarly injured.
This cow's milk is as good as ever in spite of her accident and her artificial but serviceable leg.
