MANY DOWN WITH PLEURISY. Doctors say the country is full of it. First comes a chill, then cold-develops into inflammation, grows you can't draw a breath, the ribs get sore, and pleurisy sets in. A good home-cure consists in taking twenty drops of Nerville's every four hours. Supplement this by vigorously rubbing the chest with Nerville's, and when warmth and circulation are established, put a Nerville's Plaster over the aching spot. Nerville's is a powerful, always successful in colds, neuralgia, and pleurisy. Try it yourself.

WONDERLAND'S ABUNDANT PROGRAM. Continued from page 1. an hour in the society of the fair charmer. He certainly is taught; lesson but peace reigned supreme afterwards. The Baboon is a theme which has forceful depictions, striking and thrilling situations, and a climax which happily ends the story well. In brief it tells of the abduction of a wife by a monstrous Baboon, who carries her off sustains her with food for a year, when she is found in a semi-savage state by her husband, brought home, but is ravaging mad. The scene which shows her reason restored by her child's caress is most touching in its heart appeal and the film throughout is grand indeed. The Eleventh Hour is a story which touches all hearts and makes the sympathy of all turn to the two children who at the eleventh hour pleaded for their father's life. Condemned to death, pardon asked for in vain by the wife, then the final preparation for death is shown when two little ones arrive on the scene with the pardon obtained from the governor through their own pleading. See this film it will make every instinct of love and sympathy in any heart aroused with such a fine picture is an educator and teacher of good impulses. This picture is even superior to "The Children's Reformatory" which had such a run here. The illustrated songs are "In the City of Sighs and Tears" by Mr. Harney, and "Somebody's waiting for me" by Mr. Trainor. The former has some elegant slides, depicting the big buildings in New York and throughout are especially beautiful. Mr. Trainor's song is a musical gem, and with the additional attractions of vaudeville in The Three Julians magnificent work. Wonderland offers a bill of fare this evening unsurpassed in all points of excellence.
