The citizens of Montague and vicinity will be glad to know that the restaurant, formerly owned by Annear and Llewellyn, has been re-opened under the management of Miss Selma Llewellyn, and is to be known as the "Blue Dome Restaurant." The attention of readers is directed to the opening announcement appearing on this page. The restaurant is located on Main Street on the south side of the bridge. Situated in an ideal location, the restaurant attracts immediate notice whatever the approach. The inside of the restaurant is beautifully painted in pastel blue and cream, lending a soft and homey atmosphere. In the front is located the fountain service behind a new waist-high, semi-circular counter, which was constructed by Hilchey and Vanlderstine. The counter is built of masonite topped with battleship congoleum. Behind the counter is a lovely array of confectionery and tobacco wrapped in the colorations of Christmas indicative of the yuletide season, which is further enhanced by the presence of a large beautifully decorated Christmas tree in the main dining room. Here in a homey atmosphere diners may enjoy the home-cooked food served pleasantly and efficiently. Miss Llewellyn is to be duly commended and congratulated on the opening of this excellent restaurant, and her many friends wish her every success.

Merry Christmas from Duvar's Radio Service.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Montague Branch of the Canadian Legion was held in the Legion Hall on Thursday, December 18th, with the president, Mrs. Douglas Coffin, in the chair. The meeting opened in the usual form by observing one minute silence. Roll call was followed by the minutes of the last session read by the secretary, Mrs. Archie Hilchey. The financial report was read by the treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Clair. Under new business, plans were formulated to send a box to the Christmas tree at Moore & MacLeod's for the hospitalized war veterans

Many French Would Quit Native Land

(By Stuart Underhill)

PARIS, Dec. 20—(CP) — Postwar restlessness and uncertainty have shaken even the Frenchman's deep-rooted passion for his land and an ever-increasing number are seeking to migrate to North or South America.

More than 300 inquiries, either by letter or personal call, are made daily at the Canadian Embassy here. A small percentage of the applicants comes from Eastern European countries but most are French.

Some have tragic tales to tell of homes shattered by the war, leaving them rootless in their own country. Others fear the trend of events in France and Europe. Some are young, some are old, even at the age of retirement.

Only about 350 a month get the coveted Canadian visas, largely because they cannot arrange transportation across the Atlantic. Employment requirements in Canada and rigid health regulations eliminate many others.

Currency restrictions are a further discouragement. The French Government allows emigrants only $300 each.

"On the whole we get a very fine type of applicant and I'm sure those going forward will make good Canadian citizens," said A. J. DesJardins of Ottawa and Montreal, chief of the Canadian Immigration Service for France.

Most of the emigrants select Quebec as their destination because of the language problem but every month settlers from France and the Balkans start on their way to other parts of the Dominion.

"The United States and South American Embassies also are swamped with requests for visas," DesJardins said, "but most Frenchmen seem to feel a strong sympathetic tie with Canada."

Queries come from French African territory and from travellers who've worked their way from Eastern Europe. Other non-French applications come from among the 5,000,000 foreign-born residents, many of whom are now seeking a new haven.

MONCTON, N. B., Dec 22—(CP)—Moncton's second centenarian, William Christie, celebrated his 101st birthday in good health at the home of his only son, John here today.

Mr. Christie, who resides near William MacGorman, his elder by six days, established a bakery here 62 years ago and operated it until his retirement in 1920.

NEW WHITE HOUSE MASCOT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—(AP)—"Feller", the new White House mascot, got a taste of the limelight today — photographers, reporters, and a visit from President Truman.

The five-week-old silver buff cocker spaniel, sent to Truman as a gift, spent nearly 30 minutes posing for pictures. Later the dog was "introduced" to White House reporters.
