HOME ON VISIT—Martin McDonald, an old resident of Oakland and for many years accountant with the Hogan Lumber Co., is enjoying a well earned vacation in his native Prince Edward Island. Mr. McDonald found it impossible to join "The Maple Leaf Party" last year, much to his disappointment. He will spend most of his time in and around St. Margarets, in King's County, where he will receive a warm welcome from his sister, Mrs. Joseph Manning, and other relatives. He will also visit relatives in New York and other parts of the East. As it is over 25 years since Mr. McDonald last visited his old home, he will be delighted to meet several beautiful nieces who have grown into young womanhood during that time. He will miss his brother, Joseph McDonald, who died suddenly a year ago. We wish Martin a delightful vacation and a safe return to this city, where his friends are legion.—Oakland-Maple Leaf.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2. (U. P.)—Courtship by mail in a composite tongue, called Ido, has resulted in the engagement of a Hungarian, Paula Racz, of Kanon, Hungary, to a patternmaker at the Motals, Sweden, named Tage Carlberg. They have no other language in common.

ISLANDER DEAD—Death claimed a San Diego pioneer last month when Mrs. Lydia Murray Brown succumbed at a private sanatorium. Mrs. Brown was a native of Prince Edward Island and 88 years of age. She moved to San Diego in 1899, and for a number of years was prominently identified with the First Baptist church. She is survived by two sons, Neil E. Brown, and Stephen Brown, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, of San Diego. Her husband died several years ago. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Bunyan Smith. Interment in I. O. F. cemetery, says the Oakland Maple Leaf.

A SUDDEN DEATH—The Oakland Maple Leaf says:—Many friends will be grieved to learn of the death of Vincent A. MacDonald in San Francisco on August 11. Mr. MacDonald attended the night ball game that evening in company with four friends, and at the seventh inning, without a word of warning, he was seized with a heart attack and passed away shortly after. He was 31 years of age and the youngest of a family of five children.—His father, Joseph Daniel MacDonald, who was born in Souris, P.E.I., passed away eight years ago. His mother, whose maiden name was Catherine Agnes MacKinnon, was also a native of P. E. I. Besides the mother—there are three sisters and one brother left to mourn. They are: Mrs. L. G. McCabe, of San Diego; Mrs. James M. McEachern, of San Francisco; Mrs. Violet McCabe, of San Diego and Joseph C. MacDonald, of Los Angeles. Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Emydius Church for the repose of his soul. The funeral was postponed until the return of his mother and sister, Mrs. Violet McCabe, who are at present in Europe.

The many friends of Mr. William McDonald, Malpeque Road, will be glad to know that he is convalescing rapidly, after a very serious illness in the City Hospital.

NEW FORM OF ART

Defined as Pictorial Representation in Three Dimensions by Artists Engaged in Preparing Exhibits for 1933 Exposition

BY JULIAN T. BENTLEY
 United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (U. P.)—One of the most recently developed forms of art is being utilized under the brushes and chisels of diorama artists in the studios of the Century of Progress Exposition.

A diorama may be defined as a "pictorial representation in three dimensions," but it is vastly more than that, according to Edward J. Mahenden, London artist, associate exhibitor at the Royal Academy, who says of it:

Peering Through Windows

"Imagine yourself in a dimly lighted room surrounded by brilliantly lit life like scenes viewed through openings in the walls, just as if one were looking out of windows into the sunshine. These subjects are something of both picture and model and more than of both. The diorama is well made one has the feeling of looking miles away into the distance.

"The diorama calls for a combination of the art of the sculptor, the painter and the architect. The resultant illusion should be so complete that there is great difficulty in deciding where the actual modeling stops and where the surface which is not modeled but painted to represent the third dimension, begins.

"In the diorama shop of the World's Fair, the first such shop in America, everything is being modeled to give the greatest illusion of perspective."

Paints From Photographs

The visitor to the shop, two years before the fair opens, sees artist and artisan, designer, plaster worker and wood carver. Before a nearly completed diorama, representing the gathering of rubber in a South American forest, stands a tall be-smoked artist. Beside him is an open book with a photograph of the scene he wishes to represent.

Brilliant hues of gray, green, yellow, brown and red from his palette are applied to the figures of natives at work among the symmetrical rows of trees. In the farther distance of the diorama, which is arranged somewhat like a small marionette theater, the rubber trees becoming increasingly smaller both in trunk and leaves, preserve the illusion of perspective so perfectly that it is virtually impossible to determine the line where the models cease and the painted background begins. A remarkable illusion of vast distance is attained within a few feet.

Other dioramas represent Fort Dearborn in 1833, the entire fair as it will look in 1933, farmers cutting wheat, steamships landing all with minute attention to detail and perfectly executed.

SALESMAN INVENTS SELF-OPENING GATE

OMAHA, Sept. 3.—(U. P.)—No longer will the motorist, driving in the country be forced to leave his machine, trudge through the mud to the farmer's gate, unhook it, drive through and then get out again and lock it so the live stock will not escape.

Alfred I. Raiston, salesman, who did the above-mentioned things many times a day while calling on his country trade, has invented a "proofanity-proof" gate.

All you've got to do is to bump a set of bars with your front bumper. The bump releases the latch and the gate swings wide open. After the car has passed through, the gate swings back, automatically re-locking itself.

HUNTER RIVER AND VICINITY

Mr. and Mrs. Delbery McDonald and daughter who are leaving on Thursday for their home in Cambridge Mass., were the guests on Sunday of Mr. Bob Rogers, Hunter River. They were accompanied by the little son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Carr of Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. James Murray of Fredericton were the guests Sunday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. Bernsley Wonnacott, Greenvale.

Messrs Manning and Stanley Gallant, Hunter River, motored to Scarlettown on Sunday.

The many friends of Mrs. S. B. Spence, Greenvale, regret to hear she is confined to her home through illness.

Master Frank Andrews who has been spending his summer vacation with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Bernsley Wonnacott, Greenvale, has returned to his home in Charlottetown.

A decided reduction in the potato crop is reported around here where many fields are blighted. A farmer reports that over half the potatoes planted between Wheatley River and North Wiltshire are dying off with a consequential small yield.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor McPhail, Meadowbank, were the guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. Bernsley Wonnacott, Greenvale.

Mrs. Smith Greenvale, and her brother Mr. George Waye are having the pleasure of a visit from their sister Mrs. Musford for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigmore, Graham's Road accompanied by their daughter Myrtle and little son Eric motored to Wheatley River recently the guests of Mr. Wigmore's mother Mrs. Alexander Ross.

BUFFALO HAVE AIR RACE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 2. (U. P.)—A series of international air races may be held here this month, under plans now being made by the Aero Club of Buffalo with the sanction of the National Aeronautic Association.

The racing schedule has been arranged to follow by a few days the National Air Races at Cleveland and it is hoped that many crack pilots will be lured from that city to the Buffalo event.

Major Luke Christofor, official referee of the 1930 National Air Races in Chicago, will have charge, it was planned. A purse will be sought by sale of 50,000 tickets, and a minimum purse of $16,000 is expected.
