GOOD MARKET IN BRITISH WEST INDIES

MONTREAL, Que., July 8.—"There appears to be a good market in the British West Indies for many Canadian products, but according to the statement made by business men in these islands, Canadian manufacturers and distributors are not going after this market sufficiently strong."

Lorne McCutcheon, General Agent of the Canadian National Steamships, representing that Company at Barbados, B. W. I., who has reached Montreal, after making a thorough survey of the islands during the past couple of months.

Mr. McCutcheon said that while he did not feel that he had yet had sufficient time to make a complete survey, there were one or two things which had been brought immediately to his notice in the various islands. One of them was that the business men of the islands felt that Canadian manufacturers should pay more attention to that market, if they were to secure their share of the business which the British West Indies are anxious to place with Canada. "More than one business man has stated that the Canadian business men who come down to the British West Indies, seem to consider their trips in more of a holiday nature, and did not go thoroughly into the market possibilities," said Mr. McCutcheon.

"Another complaint, which I frequently heard, is that when business had been secured, not sufficient care is taken in forwarding of products. For instance, shipments are often forwarded with incomplete documents, or with documents entirely missing. This delays deliveries, and causes ill-feeling on the part of the West Indian merchant who had placed the order. There is a real market awaiting for the manufacturer who will cover the possibilities of that market thoroughly, and will then take advantage of the opportunities which are available.

Mr. McCutcheon instanced one case where he had gone to one of the most important men's furnishing stores on one of the islands. He had asked to be shown some socks, and found that every pair shown him were United States production. He asked the storekeeper if he had any Canadian socks. The storekeeper replied that he had never been approached, nor had anyone attempted to sell him socks of Canadian manufacture. Mr. McCutcheon had then asked for English socks, and the storekeeper had located a parcel covered with dust in one corner of the store. The United States manufacturer was getting the full advantage of the market because his salesmen were studying the needs and requirements of the territories in which they were selling.

Concerning the developments of trade northward to Canada, Mr. McCutcheon stated that the West Indian exporter realized that the quality and form of his products must come up to Canadian requirements. The exporters in the islands were attempting to secure further development of the Canadian markets for their goods. There has been a tremendous increase in shipments since the placing in service of the new Canadian National steamship's boats, and it was considered in all of the islands that there would be still further development, as their products became better known and better advertised on the Canadian market.

West Indies had developed tremendously since the inception of the new Canadian National liners, and there had also been an increase of travel from the West Indies into Canada, particularly during the Summer time, when attractive rates gave the West Indies business men an opportunity of going to Canada to study the markets there. Since the inception of the new service by the R. M. S. "Lady Nelson" in December last, the Canadian National Steamships' boats had been practically booked to capacity on every sailing, and during this year the Summer traffic too had developed to a great extent.

Five At Prince County Jail

The Summerside Police Court was again the center of attraction last week, it being filled to capacity daily since Tuesday by interested citizens listening to the trials of the prisoners, Martin Gallant, Gillis and Doucette who in their drunken brawl the previous Sunday thought to defy all law and order. From all the evidence it would appear that Officer Murray while on duty a block away heard cursing and swearing in the vicinity of Spring Street. On going towards the locality he found the disturbance was being created by the prisoners. The officer proceeded to arrest Martin. Then ensued a sharp issue as to whether law and order should govern the town or it be defied by drunks. Officer Murray was apparently not dismayed by their numbers or by the boisterous fighting attitude but tackled the job. He got Martin on the ground. They scuffled together for some time. Officer Murray when trying to get the handcuffs on his man received numerous kicks and fist blows rendering him incapable of making the arrest. The prisoners were, however, shortly afterwards lodged in jail.

Sipendary Wyatt in rendering his judgment in the affair of Saturday when the proceedings ended gave an exceptionally strong and emphatic talk as to the duty of citizens to assist the police when they see they

WOOD ISLANDS EAST SCHOOL

The semi-annual examination of the pupils of Wood Islands East School was held on Friday afternoon, June 28, in the presence of a large number of parents and visitors. The pupils were examined in the various subjects by their teacher, Miss Elizabeth MacDougall, and a short programme was then carried out.

At the conclusion, prizes were distributed by the teacher, and a Public School Certificate presented to Wendell MacMillan. The following address to the teacher was then read by Mary Bell MacKay:

Dear Teacher:—

As you are about to sever your connection with the school, we feel that we cannot let you leave without in some way expressing our appreciation of the services you have rendered for the past two years. Although we have been careless of our studies, and at times have tired your patience, yet you have been very patient with us, and made our studies a pleasure rather than a task. In the social life of the community, you have always been willing to help in everything pertaining to its welfare. Wherever your lot may be cast, we hope God's richest blessing may follow you, and trust that you may look back with pleasure to the days spent among the pupils of Wood Islands East School. In conclusion we ask you to accept this little gift as a slight token of the love and esteem in which you are held by the pupils.

Signed on behalf of the pupils of Wood Islands East School, June 28, 1929.

Gladys Brown, on behalf of the pupils, presented the teacher with a sum of money.

Miss MacDougall then thanked the pupils and the people of the district for this, and their many other kindnesses, which had served to make her two years among them such a happy, memorable time. After the singing of the National Anthem, all departed for their homes.

INSTITUTE MEETING—The Springfield Women's Institute meeting was held in the school house on Thursday, June 20, with eleven members present. It was decided to paint the interior of the school during the holidays. Correspondence was read from President of Red Cross and collectors have already canvassed the district.

HERE ON HONEYMOON—Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sinnott arrived at noon yesterday from Boston on their honeymoon. Mr. Sinnott, formerly of The Guardian, is now pressman on the Vandergrift News, Penn., and Mrs. Sinnott was formerly Miss Anna MacLellan, of The Guardian, and daughter of Mr. A. D. MacLellan, of Georgetown, now of Boston. They came here by auto, and after a week's visit renewing old acquaintances will return to make their home at Vandergrift.

RENEWING FRIENDSHIPS—Mrs. Theodore W. Clark, a former resident of the Island, is visiting her brothers, George and Havelock Ellis, of 26 Prince St. She was accompanied by her son George, who is an executive of the Radio Corporation of America, with headquarters in New York. Mr. Clark is making a flying visit to his birthplace, Alberton, before his return. He expressed himself as being amazed at the progress made in transportation on the Island during the past twenty years. The service and equipment of the C. N. R. into Charlottetown far exceeds what would be provided for similar traffic volume in the United States.

The Feeding Of Poultry On Range

J. H. McConnell, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

In order to produce good quality stock, it is necessary to induce a continuous growth throughout the growing season. To accomplish this, keep the flock comfortable, well supplied with good feed and abundance of water.

At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the growing stock is cared for as follows: the pullets and cockerels are put on separate fields of clover or alfalfa which have been free of poultry for at least three seasons, during which time a series of crop rotations have been practised. When possible this range of succulent green food is generally located beside a field of corn, or sunflowers, or an orchard, where the chicks can get extra green food, and grubs, and have lots of shade during hot days. The movable range house, one that keeps the birds cool and comfortable during the warm and sultry evenings, is so constructed as to make fresh air the limiting factor. Plenty of roosting space is provided. The water utensils are placed in the shade near the self-feeding hoppers. Five foot double hoppers, partitioned for mash, grain, shell and grit are conveniently located. The growing mash is composed of: bran, middlings, finely ground yellow corn and oat flour, equal parts, 1 per cent fine table salt, 1 per cent cod liver oil and (on good range) 5 per cent animal feed mixture of ground meat scrap, bone meal, fish meal, milk powder and ood liver meal. The animal feed is varied according to the season or the rate of sexual development required. The grain mixture consists of cracked corn, and wheat, equal parts, and one half part of plump oats. This method of feeding avoids waste and minimizes labour. However, if sparrows are quite numerous it is good economy to close the whole grain section of the hopper and practice hand feeding. The water vessels and hoppers are moved to fresh ground occasionally.

A copy of Bulletin No. 1, "Poultry Feeds and Feeding" should be in every poultry keeper's possession. It may be obtained, free, from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont.

Books In Charlottetown

The books we love turn up to us again in strange places! In hotels or in bookshops, sometimes on a steamer, have you not run across some old favorite that lit the world of the imagination for you in childhood?

To open such a volume again is to live once more in the days when the cornfield was a forest and the tall sunflowers giant trees, and dryads peered at one from besides the brooks.

"The Cuckoo Clock" fell into my hands on a shelf of the Cundall Home, and again the beautiful English of Mrs. Moleworthy and her charming fantasy opened a world within a world.

So many of the more recent books for children have departed from the simple English and good vocabulary of thirty years ago: such English as
