THINKS HE IS TAKEN TOO SERIOUSLY

Has No Sympathy With Relative's Radical Policies

LIKES LIMELIGHT

Not Much Attention Was Paid to His Words Three Years Ago.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—"A detective genius," is the term applied by F. D. Saklatvala, president of the Middle State Oil Corporation, at his office, 220 Broadway, yesterday, in referring to his brother, Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist member of the British Parliament, who cannot attend the inter-parliamentary union conference next month because Secretary of State Kellogg has shut the gates of the country against him. Mr. Saklatvala has a natural affection for his brother in England but he himself has no sympathy whatsoever with his brother's radical political policies.

Likes Publicity. Almost from childhood, he said, his brother has always taken "the opposite side," to every question. "He likes publicity," said Mr. Saklatvala laughing. "I think he's been taken too seriously."

What do you think of the action of Secretary Kellogg in barring him," he was asked. "Well, it's an open question," he replied. "I guess the Government authorities know their business."

Asked if he considered that the British Government had instigated his brother's action against him, he replied: "I don't suppose they would be pleased to have him here."

Unnoticed Before. In expressing the opinion that his brother was being taken too seriously, Mr. Saklatvala pointed out that his brother three years ago attended the conference of the same inter-parliamentary union in Copenhagen. "I believe he spoke there, but nobody paid much attention to him."

BRITISH WILL REMAIN SAYS AMERY

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—The conflict between Great Britain and Turkey over Mosul suddenly became more serious last night. After a declaration before the Council of the League by Tewfik Ruzid, which was interpreted as a repudiation of the previous Turkish statement that Turkey would accept the decision of the Council, L. C. M. Amery, British Secretary for the Dominions, solemnly announced that until and unless Turkey pledged anew her acceptance in advance of the Council's eventual findings, Great Britain would not consider herself bound by this decision.

Colonel Amery later made clear to the correspondents that the British troops would continue to occupy Mosul, "we shall remain where we are."

So grave is this new development considered that M. Loucheur, who presided over the Council, felt obliged to draw the attention of both Great Britain and Turkey to their compact of last year not to take any military measures pending a solution of the controversy.

Seamen's Strike Causes Consideration of This Action.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—British ship-owners are discussing the advisability of cancelling sailings because of the seamen's strike, it is reported here, but hesitate to take such extreme action because of the inevitable bad influence it will have on the country's export trade.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 21.—When reports were received here yesterday that British ship owners might cancel sailings because of the seamen's strike Premier Bruce Scrymgeour said that if such a step was taken he would take all advisable measures to guarantee the shipment of Australian products to foreign countries.

The pirate's booty was transferred to the Charman No. 2 of New York stated that the Jean Louis master who added that he and his crew had been kept close prisoners by the pirate band who boarded his ship with drawn revolvers and that the pirates before leaving had ransacked his ship taking all articles they considered of value including the Captain's personal possessions and ship's papers.

MAE EDWARDS PLAYERS SCORED BIG HIT

"The Girl From Childs", selected by Miss Edwards as the opening play for eight days' engagement at the Prince Edward Theatre, scored a big hit. It has everything that playgoers like. The occasion was in the nature of a double triumph. Miss Edwards, as Mary, the Girl From Childs, was given what was undoubtedly the finest characterizing role she has had in years. To say that she rose to the occasion is but scant praise. Miss Edwards was nothing less than superb. The part called for much comedy, at which he is expert; and there were several moments of tense anxiety when a lump came to the throats of everybody in the audience. There were little wistful moments, there were delicious love scenes, there was a big dramatic climax in each act in which Miss Edwards rose to new heights. And her gown in the final act was a stunning creation that will have all the ladies in raptures.

"The Girl From Childs" is the story of Mary, a waitress, who married a young man and is sent to the parental home in Washington, only to discover that his family are high lights in fashionable society. Of course, Mary, with her shabby clothes and her amusing flow of slang, is out of place, and the members of the blue-blooded family begin to rub it in. In fact, Mary finds herself a "Spite Bride," with an unfaithful husband. She exposes a crook who is trying to blackmail the family, she saves the sneering society debutante from disgrace, and then finds herself plunged into the depths of despair when she finds she has been heartlessly tricked.

The last act, however, straightens matters out. Mary comes back an entirely different Mary from the first two acts. She finds true love in the person of her husband's brother, and also discovers that her bitterest enemies are now her firmest friends. This outline doesn't do justice to the plot, of course, and our advice is for everyone to see "The Girl From Childs" Tuesday matinee.

Mr. Carleton Pinckney, as the younger brother, had a role excellently suited to his talents. Mr. Lawrence Hayes as the husband of the waitress, played his part well. Miss Mabel Grand made a charming society debutante who finally woke up and reformed; Miss Peggy Downes as the scheming mother, was at her best and gave a fine performance.

Mr. Paul Lynton, a new member of the company, as the banker, did full justice to an outstanding role, and great things are expected from him as the week goes on. Billy Webb, an old favorite, formerly comedian with the Klark-Urban Co., as an English lord, made the most of a good part. Miss Anita Webb, as a French maid, and Mr. Charlie Downes, as a butler, scored heavily. Mr. Walter Sanville as a reporter, is a real good one. The stage setting was a beautiful one, and the play moves across the background of gorgeously dressed men and women. The vaudeville between the acts was of a high class order. Billy Webb, with his educated feet, scored a real hit, while Anita Webb with her songs and dances made many friends.

The Mae Edwards Orchestra were just as good as ever, and rendered seven numbers before they rang the curtain down. All in all Miss Edwards has one of the best companies she has ever brought to the island, and it looks like a banner week at the Prince Edward Theatre.

"Scarlet Women," a four-act comedy drama will be the offering for tonight.

3 HELD IN DEATH PLOT

Accused of Planning to Kill New Red Ambassador at Vienna

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—Three Czarist Russian officers were arrested here Friday, accused of a conspiracy against the Soviet Embassy. One is Lieut.-Colonel Theodore Boreidin, a well known Czarist and white guard.

The Soviet Embassy informed the Austrian foreign office it had received information of plans for an attempt on the life of the new Soviet ambassador, Jan Bersin, who came to Vienna a few weeks ago from London where he was first secretary of the embassy.

The would-be assassins, it is charged, came from Bulgaria by forged documents, sent by a foreign conspiring group. One, believing he had been betrayed by the others, reported the alleged plot to the Soviet Embassy. The police arrested the alleged conspirators a few hours after receiving the information.

Great Britain And France Agree

(Special to the Guardian) GENEVA, Sept. 21.—Britain does not want to put any obstacle in the way of the proposed world conference on economic resources and international trade but she wants time to breathe a bit. Lord Cecil the British representative in the League assembly agreed at yesterday's session with M. Loucheur the representative of France that interrelated debts must not be included in the scope of the proposed conference.

"It never has been and never will be the desire of France," said M. Loucheur, "to bring the question of her debts before such a conference. The question of immigration and emigration must also be put outside the agenda of the conference the French spokesman declared. Lord Cecil on behalf of Great Britain agreed that debts and immigration should be excluded from the scope of the conference."

Two Conditions Necessary
The Foreign Secretary added that Great Britain would carry out in spirit and letter the Washington conference engagements, but he declared that for the full fruition of that conference to be realized and for the inquiry into the matter of extra territorial rights, two preliminary conditions are necessary.

1.—An atmosphere of good-will, putting aside suspicions engendered by those who saw their opportunities in other people's troubles.
2.—That China should become united and at peace with herself, with an effective central authority, able to undertake engagements and see them kept, and able to provide security for life and property.

Mr. Chamberlain emphasized that Great Britain has no desire for special privileges but is ready to meet China half way, bearing her own will. He declared that Britain would not allow herself to be diverted by the memory of things past, but would be ready to relinquish her special rights just in proportion as the Chinese Government could assure to British nationals the due enjoyment of the ordinary rights which foreigners enjoy in other countries.

EIGHT PERCENT INCREASE

(Canadian Press) WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Reports made public by the Department of Agriculture today from 29 countries representing eighty-five per cent of the world's wheat crop showed an eight percent increase in production this year over last year. Estimates of the production for these countries are placed at 2,852,000,000 bushels this year against 2,634,000,000 bushels last year.

Britain To Meet China Half Way

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, in a speech today indicated Great Britain's policy toward China in regard to "unequal treaties" conferring on foreigners special extra territorial privileges.

"As circumstances change," Mr. Chamberlain said, "Great Britain will gladly surrender the special arrangements which were brought into being only to preserve peace between China and the outer world. Our hands will go out to meet China in memory of old friendships and in the desire to restore cordiality."

Mr. Chamberlain spoke at a luncheon given by the China Association in honor of Sir Ronald MacLeay, British Minister to Peking, and other British delegates to the Chinese customs conference to be held in Peking next month.

Alluding to the interior conflicts in China which have aggravated the already grave situation, Mr. Chamberlain said: "I am convinced that these are only surface features. If they are rightly handled and the opportunity rightly seized, the situation may lead to better relations than have been experienced for many years."
