DISCUSSES CANADA'S RAILWAY PROBLEM

Hon. R. B. Bennett Addresses Annual Meeting Of Toronto Board Of Trade.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) TORONTO, Jan. 28.—There would never be any solution to the railway problem in Canada, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared in a speech here tonight, "so long as you have men thinking in terms of party politics. It far transcends the importance of any political party. It is your problem—not Bennett's and not the Government's," he said.

Mr. Bennett was addressing the annual banquet of the Toronto Board of Trade and he charged his listeners with themselves failing to look upon the railway problem as one that must be dealt with in the interests of Canada as a whole.

It was useless for men to come to the easy solution of having the Government "tear up 4,000 miles of railway," Mr. Bennett declared, "and then go to the people and say just look what the Government has done to you." The lives and hopes of the thousands who had settled along the railroads had to be considered.

Mr. Bennett touched upon the trade agreements negotiated by his Government, tariff and other international trade regulations, and declared he had "neither apology nor excuse" to offer. He dealt only briefly with his reform policies, stating that in his belief either Socialism or Communism would be the alternative to the measure he proposed.

Canada's railway difficulties had come "because in a moment of madness we thought we were 50,000,000 people," said Mr. Bennett. "We saw a vision that turned out to be only a mirage, and we have when you talk about lifting thousands of miles of track without thinking of the thousands who have gone with their families to settle along those tracks?" he asked.

The Royal Commission on transportation had been given an absolutely free hand, Mr. Bennett said, and it recommended that been carried out regardless of political results in the establishment of the Canadian National Board of Transport and Commerce to secure co-operation and co-operation of services for reasons of economy.

"What have you done," he asked, "to assist the railways in their efforts at co-ordination of activities and avoiding duplication?" He charged that those to whom he spoke had been quick with protests when the railways had attempted curtailment along the lines of cutting down duplication of services.

"When will we get together on this question and forget politics?" he queried, "and I am not talking about one party more than another." "Our madness has not entirely left us and will not leave us so long as problems of this kind must be settled by purely political bodies," Mr. Bennett said, and he would welcome suggestions from any quarter. "The problem above all others that threatens our national life."

KING ATTEMPTS TO IMPEDE LEGISLATION

Liberal Leader's Demand For Speed In Introducing Reform Measures "Did Not Ring True", Mr. Guthrie Says.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Every item in the government's social and industrial reform programme will be introduced in Parliament this session, Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie promised in the House of Commons today. "And I think I am safe in saying, will be enacted by Parliament at this session," he added, amid enthusiastic desponding by Conservative members.

In a sudden and dramatic move at the end of a long day, Liberal Leader Mackenzie King made another attempt to sidetrack minor legislation and money votes "to leave the road unimpeded for the reform measures. When the government, having exhausted private members' motions, moved to consider simply, the Liberal leader pledged his party's co-operation in speeding up the reform legislation which he said the people of Canada were most concerned about and which it was the main duty of Parliament to consider. It was futile to consider money votes while a reform legislation remained in the background and "do not think the public should be humbugged regarding any of this legislation."

The Liberal leader's sudden move opened the first sharp political debate of the session and probably will result in the first division, at the 11 o'clock adjournment hour, if he was still under consideration. In contrast, the rest of the day, devoted to private members' legislation, was drab and colorless.

The government, said the Minister of Justice, could not be accused of lying. He twice cried: "stop that!" at his inquisitor, the determined Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

He admitted he lied when he was held in New York but when Wilentz shouted: "Lies, lies, lies, about Lindbergh ransom money!" the prisoner shot back: "well, you lied to me, too."

Throughout the day's ordeal Hauptmann, perspiring, white-faced and often faltering, insisted he was innocent of the kidnaping, the baby's murder, his cruel ransom hoax.

"It is—" he protested, "I feel innocent and I am innocent and that keeps me the power to stand up." But he admitted he told "not the truth" when he was arrested last September and grilled about the ransom money in his pocket.

HAUPTMANN PROTESTS INNOCENCE

But Prisoner Admits Not Telling Truth When Arrested Last September And Grilled About Ransom Money.

(Associated Press Staff Writer) (A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 28.—Bruno Hauptmann, writing under a driving cross-examination, fought today with desperate, stumbling words from the witness stand of his trial for murdering the Lindbergh baby.

Accused of lies, he twice cried: "stop that!" at his inquisitor, the determined Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

He admitted he lied when he was held in New York but when Wilentz shouted: "Lies, lies, lies, about Lindbergh ransom money!" the prisoner shot back: "well, you lied to me, too."

Throughout the day's ordeal Hauptmann, perspiring, white-faced and often faltering, insisted he was innocent of the kidnaping, the baby's murder, his cruel ransom hoax.

London Stock Exchange Delists Vancouver Bonds

(C.P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Financial Times today said the London Stock Exchange has removed from its quotations listing of Vancouver bonds. The paper says the bonds were delisted "in view of the threat of partial default."

The Financial Times adds that lower prices are being quoted for other Canadian municipal stocks.

Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver has had a meeting of holders of Vancouver bonds for Feb. 11 at which reduction in the interest rate on the bonds will be considered.

An informal meeting of dealers held on the stock exchange today unanimously decided to stop dealing in and to withhold all quotations for city of Vancouver bonds temporarily.

While the decision to withdraw quotations on Vancouver listings adversely affected other Canadian corporation stocks, no changes were registered in the securities of the large cities. Montreal and Quebec stocks were unaltered at the end of the day's transactions.

Disorders Break Out In House Of Commons

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Disorders broke out tonight in the public gallery of the House of Commons among a score of men and women spectators shouting criticism against the British Government.

Attendees were forced to use violence in ejecting some of the disturbers from the gallery and getting it cleared.

The uproar from the gallery was marked by shouts of "down with the starvers!" "You cowardly lot of robbers!"

Strong Case Presented To White Commission By Island Representatives

Minimum Annual Increase Of $600,000 For Fiscal Needs, Plus Additional Debt Allowance Of $162,000 Annually, Urged Before Commission By Premier MacMillan & Attorney General MacPhee.

(Canadian Press, by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—A minimum increase of $600,000 in annual subsidies paid by the Dominion was claimed by Prince Edward Island before the White Royal Commission today.

Putting forward this demand, Premier W. J. P. MacMillan and Attorney and Advocate General H. F. McPhee told the enquiry this claim was based on fiscal need only. In addition, the Prince Edward Island representatives claimed $162,500 by way of addition to the Province's yearly subsidy on the submission she was entitled to a greater debt allowance; compensation for the lands handed over to Ontario, Quebec and the western provinces and compensation on a special claim that Prince Edward Island was the only "landless province of Canada," or, in other words, without any public lands.

DR. MACLAREN MAY BE N.B. GOVERNOR

Resignation of M. P. For Saint John-Albert Expected This Week.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Resignation of Hon. Dr. Murray MacLaren as member of the House of Commons for Saint John-Albert, and his appointment as Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick are expected this week although there has been no official announcement. Dr. MacLaren would succeed Mr. General H. H. McLean.

Other appointments expected momentarily include the chairmanship of the Board of Railway Commissioners, vacant since Hon. C. P. Fullerton resigned to become chairman of the Canadian National Railway board of trustees. Hon. C. S. Harrington, former Premier of Nova Scotia, has been prominently mentioned for the post, but the possibility has also been advanced that it would go to a prominent western jurist.

Resignation of Sir Douglas Hogg as Chief Justice of New Brunswick has been announced effective Feb. 1 and another former Provincial Premier, Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, will likely be selected to succeed him.

Need Of New Social Concept Says Premier

Makes Strong Appeal For Economic Readjustment At Montreal.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—Need of a new social concept was urged by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett on his address here Saturday night before the Montreal Board of Trade. It was necessary, he said, that social ideas be applied to the solution of economic problems.

"My view is that we can no longer look upon these matters as things that concern us as individuals," Mr. Bennett said. The alternative to the pursuit of a policy that would bring the greatest good to the greatest number, was the setting up of a system that would be at variance with Canadian ideals of law and civilization.

FINE PLAY PRESENTED AT STRAND

Y. M. C. A. Three-act Comedy Presented to Capacity House.

The three-act comedy, "It Pays to Advertise", presented at the Strand Theatre last night to a capacity house, was an outstanding success. The play, which was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., was gay and entertaining throughout. The characters were well drawn and the many humorous scenes were depicted in a delightful manner.

The story portrayed the battle of wits between a successful business man of the old order and his son, who, having fallen in love with his father's secretary, attempts to conduct a rival business along modern lines.

Mr. Menton Whitlock very cleverly portrays Cyrus Martin, a scamp who has a son Rodney, successfully played by Mr. Stuart Dickson, who is in love with his father's secretary, Miss Grayson, which part is well portrayed by Miss Margaret Collins. Cyrus and his secretary scheme to get Rodney to go into business for himself. As a result he starts a rival soap company, aided by a high pressure advertising man, Ambrose Foole, which part is

Loses Wallet Containing $1,456,000

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Dashing into the headquarters of the Bank of Manhattan today in Wall Street, a 65-year-old messenger reported the phantom-like disappearance of a wallet containing $1,456,000 in government bonds.

He placed the wallet, police quoted him as saying, on a counter ledge in a little room on the 25th floor of the skyscraper at 49 Wall Street and when he looked around this wallet had vanished.

The messenger, Morris Blossfield, of Jersey City, employed for 15 years by the Bank of Manhattan, and two guards with him were held for questioning.

Vicious Attack On Ramsay MacDonald

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Jan. 28.—A violent attack on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in which he was called a "swine" was made in the House of Commons today by the Laborite George Buchanan of Glasgow during a heated debate on the new gold board set-up.

Must Resign In Favor Of Russia

(C. P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Jan. 28.—(Tuesday)—The Morning Post says that Canada will be called upon today to resign its seat as a member of the governing body of the International Labor Office in favor of Soviet Russia, Belgium, it says, is to resign in favor of the United States.

Latest indications are that Canada will exercise her right to appeal to the Council of the League of Nations against forfeiting her seat. Meanwhile the governing body is working in an endeavor to displace a hated delegate on the governing body.
