Two people were killed and 49 injured when a subway train ploughed into the rear end of another train at Lexington avenue and 116th street. Work men are here seen trying strenuously to clear away the tangled mass of wreckage which resulted from the collision, caused when the forward train stopped on an emergency signal given by a passenger when a woman's arm was caught in the door of a car.

Centennial Of Acadia University

The celebration of the Centennial of Acadia University was brought to a close on Sunday evening with a vesper service on "The Ridge" overlooking the picturesque Gaspeau valley. In this setting of exquisite natural beauty several hundred people gathered for the crowning service of the Centennial celebration. Rev. Dr. T. S. Roy, 11, pastor of the First Baptist church, Worcester, Mass., brought a forceful and eloquent message.

From start to finish the celebration was an unqualified success. The inclement weather at the beginning did not dampen the spirits of the enthusiastic Acadicians who gathered from far and near to celebrate their Alma Mater's first century of service. The registration passed the thousand mark. Distinguished Alumni of Acadia were in evidence. Among them were Hon. Dr. C. A. Eaton, '90, member of the United States House of Representatives for New Jersey; Hon. J. L. Lester, '13, Dominion Minister of Internal Revenue; Hon. N. McL. Rogers, '19, Dominion Minister of Labor; Hon. J. A. MacDonnell, '13, Minister of Agriculture; Justice W. L. Hall, '98, of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court; Chancellor H. P. Whidden, '91, of McMaster University; President A. A. Shattuck, Denison University; President G. B. Cutton, '96, of Colgate University, and formerly president of Acadia; Dr. Walter W. Chipman, '90, eminent medical authority, former professor at McGill; Rev. T. S. Roy, 11, outstanding preacher of New England; and many other distinguished in science, education, and other professions.

Delightful was the renewal of the friendships and fellowships of college days. In memory the alumni lived over again the happy days spent on The Hill, Wolfville. Some had not returned to Acadia since their graduation and were amazed and delighted with the little village of new college buildings that had grown up on The Hill. Class reunions formed one of the most enjoyable features of the Centennial. The garden party, the alumni reception and the two banquets afforded ample opportunity for social intercourse. From the oldest of the alumni down to the members of the last graduating class the years seemed to drop away and all were college boys and girls again. Dr. I. B. Cakes, a graduate of the class of 1871, now in his nineties, an honored citizen of Wolfville and former principal of Horton Academy, is the oldest living graduate. To a remarkable degree he retains his vigor of body and mind. No more enthusiastic alumnus participated in the Centennial celebrations than Dr. Oakes and he entered into them all with the spirit of a boy. Eloquent addresses were given before audiences that taxed the capacity of the spacious University Hall. A dramatic depicting three scenes in the early history of the university was well staged and received most favorable comment from the immense audience. Sunday high noon of the day of the celebration, President Shaw of Denison University, Granville, Ohio, brought an inspiring message to a great audience, and the vesper service at The Ridge, an outstanding and will live long in the memories of the throng who participated in it. An impressive memorial service was held in the Wolfville cemetery and the graves of former presidents, professors, and benefactors of Acadia were visited and decorated. The stunts staged by the classes on Raymond field on Saturday afternoon provided no end of merriment as class after class represented in dramatic form some of their escapades of college days.

The Centennial convocation was one of the high lights of the important occasion. The special address was delivered by Dr. G. B. Cutton, former president of Acadia, an alumnus beloved by all Acadicians. The heads of a number of universities occupied seats on the platform and some of them participated in the exercises. Sixteen honorary degrees were conferred by President F. W. Patterson. Among the recipients were a few of special interest to Prince Edward Island. The degree of Doctor in Science was conferred on Dr. Alden B. Dawson, who has had a most distinguished career in biology and now occupies a prominent position on the faculty of Harvard University. He is a native of Tryon and a graduate of Acadia of the 1915 vintage. The degree of Doctor in Divinity was granted to Rev. D. J. MacPherson, pastor of the Baptist church in Berwick, N. S. Mr. MacPherson is a native of Bellevue, a graduate of Acadia in the class of 1906, and has filled prominent pulpits in the Maritime Baptist Convention. The degree of Doctor in Civil Law was conferred on Mrs. Lucy Lowe Bagnall, '08, widow of the late Rev. H. S. Bagnall, '08, a native of Hazel Grove, whose untimely death by automobile accident in 1920 cut short a promising career in the Christian ministry. Mrs. Bagnall is a native of Pugwash, N. S., and has had a distinguished career in education in Western Canada.

FINDS BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT IN CLOSE TOUCH

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Canada's business—its possibilities and its relation to government as compared to the New Deal's attitude toward United States industry—got a two-page treatment in the current issue of Fortune, United States magazine for business men.

In Canada's Fortune finds, business and government realize they are so closely connected with the nation's economic welfare that "one dare not act independently of the other."

Reason for Canadian caution is a "precarious economy" attributed to great distances, small population, unstable character of trade, the article holds. The reasoning is that because "Canada is a number of distinct widely separated" islands, a great population is not possible and the country must depend on widely fluctuating world markets. It will be taboo in the limits of the industrialist looking toward Canada as a place to invest money. "Investment in the exploitation of her resources by American companies will return profits in the future just as in the past."

YOUNG EDMONTON WOMAN SEEKS TO ENTER MINISTRY

EDMONTON, August 31.—(CP)—Realization of the opportunity and scope for women's services in the church and a heart-felt interest in human welfare has induced Miss Audrey Black of Edmonton to enter the ministry.

Miss Black, who will be ordained following her final year of study at Emmanuel college, Toronto, next year, is now in charge of St. Paul's United Church at Milk River, Alta., to which she was appointed by the Alberta conference. Miss Black appealed to an interviewer as a vibrant, young and attractive girl. She is tall and slim, with dark brown eyes and hair. She will be the first woman in Alberta to be inducted into the ministry of the United Church. The congregation at Milk River is most enthusiastic about her capabilities. They speak lovingly of her as "our preacher." When a woman was asked if she thought women would be popular in the ministry, she immediately replied: "If they are all like our Miss Black there is no question of it!"

The 23-year-old girl feels a woman can get closer to the heart of the home than a man. Mothers will talk over the home intimacies more easily with another woman than with a man. Her father, a minister, she can gain spiritual comfort as well as aid to solve her domestic problems.

Sturgeon Falls, Ont. Miss Black has had a manse background. Her father, Rev. Alexander E. Black, minister here for 25 years ago to the pastorate of Central United Church. Miss Black attended University of Alberta, graduating in arts and majoring in psychology and philosophy. She completed two years' theological study at St. Stephen's college here and a year ago served a mission field in the French River area.

Miss Black fills all the offices of her church, other than officiating at marriages, baptisms and communion services, for which she will not be qualified until ordained. She holds a student's group where world and domestic problems are discussed.

FEMININE HOSE MAY COST MORE

LEICESTER, England, Aug. 31.—Women's stockings may be increased in price as a result of a drastic restriction of color shades being considered due to increased charges for dyeing, coming into effect Sept. 1.

Eyes suggested 12 standard shades and offered to dye small quantities at the usual rates. Advances in price for dyeing any other than these shades will be considerable. If the public demand is for other shades, then increases in the prices of stockings are inevitable, it is said. The new price-list for dyeing applies to practically all stockings except hosiery and wool and includes silk, artificial silk and rayon and wool mixtures.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—The council of Rockcliffe, suburb of the capital, has decided that bears hibernating in the animal's moat and the village. The decision followed a report by a couple that they were the unwilling principals in a bear cocked and served with milk. Mr. and Mrs. John Graham were taking an evening stroll when they were menaced by a bear which evidently had jumped out of a nearby tree.

LONE WHITE WOMAN ADMIRERS TINY SOUTH SEA ISLAND

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug. 31.—(CP)—The task of "ruling" an island populated by 520 natives and five whites is in the hands of a lone white woman, Mrs. Ethel May Rahel, who for 29 years has administered remote Badu in Torres Straits.

Here on a visit, she told of fanning wives for nagging or poor cooking, and husbands for such assaults on the church during services and prods sleepy natives with a long stick. The church, an $8,000 white cement structure, was subscribed by the natives.

NEW GUINEA BUILDS SHOCK-PROOF CITY

RABAU, New Guinea, Aug. 31.—(CP)—A $2,000,000 works program is in progress at Salamata, chosen as New Guinea's capital after earthquake shattered administrative facilities here. Besides government buildings, extensive harbor improvements will be constructed at Salamata, and a new road will replace the present jungle track to Wau in the gold-fields. The buildings are expected to be ready in two years. Because Salamata lies on the Pacific earth fault and is subject to quakes, the structures will incorporate features proved shock-proof in Tokyo and Southern California.

SOME INVENTIONS

SYDNEY, N. S. W., (CP) — F. P. Watson thinks he has solved the parking problem with an invention which enables automobiles to travel sideways. He said here the device would cost no more than a self-starter he would be ready for wholesale production within a year. It would enable the driver to turn the wheels of his car sideways to enter parking-space—if he can find it.

PILE O' BONES

FRIENDLY BEAVER IS MISSING FROM FOREST RETREAT

WASHEWU, Sask., Aug. 31.—(CP)—One of two beaver placed in 1911 at Beaver Lodge on the shores of Ajaawan Lake by the famous naturalist, Grey Owl, is missing. Rawhide and Jellyroll, Grey Owl's "friends" were used by the author-naturalist to start the present colony of beaver on the lake in Prince Albert National Park. Recently however, Rawhide disappeared and Silver Moon, Indian widow of Grey Owl, is certain the original member of the colony never will return.

Rawhide appeared ill for about two weeks prior to his disappearance. Silver Moon said and the day before he was missed he ate some rice and an apple given him by Silver Moon. "Something seemed to be wrong with his throat," said the naturalist's widow. "I've hunted everywhere for him, but I can't find him. He must be dead or he would have come back before now. He was such a pet."

With Rawhide gone, the beaver colony is reduced to 11, six of them this season's young, four from last year and Jellyroll. Silver Moon said Jellyroll appears unafflicted by her mate's departure. She still enters and leaves Beaver Lodge at will and insists her rice be cooked and served with milk. Silver Moon sits up at night with Jellyroll, as Grey Owl did before his death early this year. Beaver usually sleep during the day and work at night and because Grey Owl remained up with her, Jellyroll expects Silver Moon to do likewise.

LIONS STOPPED MAIL CARRIERS

LIVINGSTONE, Rhodesia, Aug. 31.—Lions held up His Majesty's mails for several hours in the north-eastern province of Northern Rhodesia recently. The mails are carried from Fort Rosebery to the copper belt—170 miles—by native runners. The journey ordinarily occupies six days, and a squad of six native cyclists is employed to transport the bags, travelling together for safety. On a recent trip they encountered lions the third day out from Rosebery. They formed a rampart by turning their cycles upside down, and then tried to scare the lions away by holding sticks against the spokes of the revolving wheels. Instead of being alarmed the lions became more curious and the natives took refuge in trees, where they remained for six hours.

KILLED AFTER WEDDING

DONCASTER, England — A few hours after her marriage, Mrs. Lily Dixon, 20, was knocked down by a motorcyclist and fatally injured. The driver was fined $35 for driving carelessly.

HUNDRED DOLLAR CATCH

MACLEOD, Alta. — A fish story to end fish stories! Martin Vanderburgh, 11, of Macleod went fishing recently and his catch was worth $100. On a riverbank he found a tin box containing cheques and papers which Royal Canadian Mounted Police said were stolen from the Veterans' Club last July.

WARNS SECRETARIES

LONDON — The ministry of labor in a pamphlet issued recently warned would-be secretaries to politicians, authors and professional men that "there is rarely any security of tenure, and the post may be terminated when a particular piece of work is finished."

Want to know anything about the time anywhere in the world, on the sun, the moon or any of the planets? Want to check up on times of high and low tide in any port? If so, this clock will tell you. Built by Lodewyk Zimmer of Belgium, to the order of King Leopold, it has arrived in America for exhibition at the New York Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Centre. It has 93 dials. The slowest indicator will take 26,000 years to make a single revolution, and the fastest swings around the dial in one-hundredth of a second.
