THE Temple, Texas, Sunday Tribune prints an extended obituary notice of late Morley H Seller, noticed in these columns some weeks ago. Among other things it says. His was the ideal life, in the home and in the community, and now that he has left us we appreciate with almost worshipful reverence what he did and what he was. The whole city is in mourning today and the churches are uniting in a memorial service to be conducted at the First Methodist Church at 11 o'clock.

A WELL known Charlottetown publisher just home from attending the St. John Exhibition vouches for the accuracy of the following remarkable instance—somewhat similar to that which occurred in Summerside a year or two ago.—"Coming from the dining room of the Royal hotel I went to the cloakroom selected what I supposed was my hat, looking inside to make certain, of it being a "Christy." It was a Christy alright, bearing the name of Prowse Bros, Charlottetown, P.E.I. To my surprise on putting it on I found it to be much too large. Tried the next hat, wrong again, repeated this performance four times before reaching my own hat and in each instance the hat was a Christy, with Prowse Bros name on it. It certainly impressed me with the fact that Prowse Bros must sell as well as keep Christy hats." It might be called an instance of successful Island hats abroad.

Some Bonnets at the Millinery Opening

Many times do customers complain of the difficulty of getting pretty ideas in bonnets. Hats are always in evidence.

This time we are making pretty bonnets a specially strong feature of the showing.

To-Morrow, Wednesday Evening at 7.30

THE GREAT MILLINERY EXHIBIT COMMENCES

IT IS PRETTY well understood by this time that our reputation for millinery is rather a remarkable one to sustain. Not many stores anywhere, in towns of this size can show you as good a millinery department as this of ours—not many can show you the range of handsome fall millinery ideas either in extent, in style, or in prices.

We have done so well for you in the past that you might, naturally enough greet any improvement with surprise—yet we feel confident that never in the past have we provided the showing, in value or attractiveness that will be ready for you on Wednesday evening.

We have already referred to the hats that will be shown, and briefly again, we want to tell you a little of them.

They will for the most part be small and medium in size, and as some one has said many of the shapes are in "melon" style. Indeed there's more than a little suggestion of the "glengarry" about the newest ones. Variations, of course for variety, and individuality are the making of a millinery exhibit. Felt and velvets will both be shown and the trimmings will be velvets, ribbons, wings, ostrich plumes (uncurled) and many soft drooping feathers. Wood browns hunters Greens, Wines of several vintages as well as Scotch plaids will be prominent among the colours. But, after all there isn't much to description is there? You'll see better when you come.

Dainty Headwear for little folk,
Handsome Ready-to-Wear Hats,
Newest ideas in trimming Materials,
Beautiful designs in fall Millinery,
Special collection of Pretty Bonnets.
