

MORSE'S TEA

A Favorite Since 1870

Kensington

Mrs. Hector Morrison, of North Devon, N. B., a former Kensington resident, has been a recent visitor here. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison and son Lewis are now carrying on fox ranching in New Brunswick and are making a success of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Farnell MacMahon have moved to Summerside, where they will reside in future.

The Dominion-wide day of prayer, Dec. 2nd, was observed in St. Mark's Church, by holding prayer services for five different hours. The other churches in the town co-operated with St. Mark's in their services of intercession.

Rev. Dr. Ashdown, who has been supplying in the Presbyterian Churches at Kensington and Free-town for the past eleven months, preached his farewell sermon, on Sunday, Nov. 29th. Dr. Ashdown is returning to the Province of Ontario to take up the work of the church here. Rev. Mr. Rhodes the new pastor has arrived and is being welcomed by the members of his congregation.

The annual meeting of the W. A. of the parish of New London was held on Thursday, Dec. 3rd. Only one change was made in the list of officers, Mrs. Alden Moase replacing Mrs. Henry Mill, as Vice-president. A very satisfactory year's work has been accomplished.

Mrs. Andrew Thompson is very seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wesley Champlain.

Mr. Norman Ramsay, who has been so ill for the past week, is slightly improved. Mrs. Walton Toombs of Wiltshire, spent most of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay.

Miss Verna Vessey, York, is spending a few weeks at Wiltshire, the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Barrett.

Mr. Donald S. McDonald, Stanhope, spent yesterday in the city.

Mr. Clifton Dingwell, City, paid a business visit to York, Monday.

Mrs. Chas. Carr, Marshfield, is spending the week at Pleasant Grove the guest of her sister Mrs. Wallace Duck.

The Guardian is pleased to know that Mr. Thos. Hardy Yeo of Union Road is very much improved after his serious illness. Mr. and Mrs. Yeo expect to take up their residence in the city in the near future.

Mrs. Walter Dockendorff and family Cove Head are spending the week at Cherry Hill the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Warren.

Mrs. Mae Partridge is spending a few days with Mrs. B. Mellett, York.

WEIMAR, Germany, Dec. 7.—"Campo di Maggio", a drama by Benito Mussolini, Italy's Fascist premier, which deals with the period of Napoleon's life between his flight from Elba and the battle of Waterloo, will have its first production in Germany in this city, strong hold of German fascism. "The Hundred Days", is the German title for the drama. Rome and Budapest have already seen the Duke's dramatic effort. Later it will be staged in London and Paris.

BRIDAL SHOWER AT MARSHFIELD.—A very interesting event took place at Marshfield on Wednesday evening December 2nd, when a large number of friends from the surrounding district gathered at the home of Mr. Frank Lin Mill on the occasion of the marriage of his youngest daughter, Frances Pauline to George Vernon Garnum of Charlottetown which took place November 19th. The bride and groom being seated two heavy laden baskets were carried into the drawing room by Misses Irene Mill and Mae Warren the parcels being opened by Miss Helen Scott and the witty and humorous verses read by Miss Frances Munn and Mrs. Hector Jenkins. After which both bride and groom in a very fitting manner thanked their friends for the beautiful array of gifts: all of which testify to the popularity of this young couple. After singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and other amusements. A delicious buffet luncheon was served by the girl friends of the bride, when all dispersed to their various homes wishing the happy young couple many years of wedded bliss.—(Patrol, Please Copy)

The evangelistic services being held in the Baptist Church at Murray River and conducted by Rev. Mr. Pyke, Pastor of the Baptist Churches at Montague and Murray River are being well attended and highly appreciated, and we believe that now or in due time will show good results.

Mr. John Johnston, Peters Road, recently joined his brother, Ernest at Halifax, N. S., where both will probably be located for some time.

Mr. George A. MacDonald, Peters Road, whose well known vocation in drilling wells and fitting them with approved type of water producing equipment has been recently plying his trade at Lower Montague.

Mr. John L. MacDonald, Peters Road, is improving his farm-buildings by having them enlarged with a view to better facilities in the accommodation of his increasing enterprise in the live stock industry.

Messrs W. S. Fraser and Co., and Fraser Bros. of Greek River are now busily engaged in the canning of fowl. A visit to their extensive plant will give some idea of the large amount of work which it is possible for this firm to put through. This year their activities are confined to the canning trade, of which they now have a large amount purchased, and which is of a most desirable type. This firm gives employment to a considerable number of people, and is therefore, with all such enterprises, an asset both to the producing public and those who are employed.

Farmers in this section having about completed their fall work are now turning their attention to the woodlot, and many huge piles of this necessary article will soon be in evidence. Like the village blacksmith day in and out, our teachers in the various schools are doing their best with the young and rising generation, for which they should receive cheerful recognition in their exacting work. Santa Claus is just around the corner.—P.

Anonymous Painting On Exhibition
NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 7.—There is considerable guessing being done at a local art gallery this week. There are more than a score of paintings on exhibition. There is not one name of an artist visible either on the painting or on the place tags naming the picture. It is called an "exhibition of anonymous paintings" by Patrick L. Godfrey, who arranged the showing. Mr. Godfrey, who feels very strongly that art patrons too often are won by a name, decided to see if the patrons knew a good painting when they saw one. There may be a painting by George Luks or one by Joseph Solman; but if there is it is up to the visitor to pick it. Mr. Godfrey will not help. He even had obliterated the artist's signature on each picture with a dab of paint. In a foreword to the exhibition announcement Mr. Godfrey says: "For the discriminating a painting cannot remain anonymous. For the ignorant a name becomes the sole criterion. These pictures are therefore shown anonymously, as a corrective against the current exaggerated emphasis on names and reputations. "These paintings are presented, to be considered in terms of the purely personal taste of the spectators, rather than in terms of names, with all the snobbery and academic clichés they imply. Under these circumstances one can judge the pictures with a sense of freedom, impossible to a mind befogged by names. Only under such a condition of anonymity can one feel the vivid personal thrill of discovery." Not all the artists represented in the show are by any means unknown. Mr. Godfrey chose the paintings and he chose to put in a few works by men well known in the art world. For instance, there are paintings by men whose works have been seen at the Carnegie International; others who have pictures in the Whitney Museum of American Art. But the majority of the painters are unknown and come from all parts of the country.

FLYING APPROVED
ROME, Dec. 7.—(By The Canadian Press)—The Vatican which in the past has frequently condemned such forms of women's recreation as shooting and hockey on the grounds that they are "damaging to ideals of womanly grace, modesty and health," has now given its approval to flying as a sport for women. In an article urging that other countries should follow the example of France and establish flying clubs for women, the "Observatore Romano," the official organ of the Vatican, said that aviation is "the very best of feminine amusements."

Peters Road

After a brief interlude the weather again continues mild at the time of writing, but . . .

Rev. A. R. Gibson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Montague conducted services at Murray Harbor North and Peters Road, Presbyterian Church on Sunday 29th. In the evening service at Murray Harbor North, Mrs. Gibson was in charge, speaking in the interests of the W. M. S. of that section. The services in both sections were most edifying and instructive. At St. Peter's Road the learned speaker based his sermon on the text "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" and showed clearly that out of many apparently dark places, God has caused His light to shine, and that He does not confine His work according to the set ideas of man, but bringeth His decrees to pass in ways that we might think impossible.

New Shipping Centre Planned On Mersey

600-acre Tract Set Apart Near Lever Bros. Village

AMPLE FACILITIES
Dock Area Covers 145 Acres—Rail Access.

Regarded as offering an almost ideal location for Canadian manufacturers and exporters planning to invade the British markets, an announcement is currently being made throughout the British Isles and the rest of the Empire of the launching of an ambitious addition to the immense manufacturing, mercantile distribution and shipping facilities centring on Liverpool, Eng., and stretching along both sides of the Mersey River.

Covering an area of 600 acres in the immediate vicinity of Port Sunlight, site of the Lever Brothers' plants and model village, the development has been christened Bromboro Port Estate. With half a dozen huge industrial plants and shipping agencies already established on or near the tract, the Port Estate has already made headway in its aim of "breaking new ground industrially." With complete facilities for manufacturing, import, export and domestic distribution, and a pivotal point in distributing products to a national market of 44,000,000 people, the Estate, nevertheless, is far enough up the river to remain almost rural in character.

With the absence of smoke and congestion making for employees' well-being and operating efficiency, it is anticipated that the estate in the next few years will be intensively colonized by manufacturers and warehouses, not only in England, but from other parts of the Empire as well. The manufacturing sites, warehouses and trans-shipment facilities described in a handsome booklet just issued by the estate, have already aroused much interest among manufacturers and exporters in Canada who have seen it. A copy of this booklet may be had from Lever Brothers Ltd., Port Sunlight, England.

It is pointed out that a growing number of industries in Canada expect to do larger business with the British Isles and the Continental countries in the future. Strategically located and scientifically planned, the Bromboro Port Estate offers accommodation to manufacturers who may wish to turn out their products in Great Britain, or to manufacturers and exporters who may wish to hold stocks in catering to seasonal demands or meeting variations in sterling exchange.

With ample supplies of labor, water, electric power, gas, fuel and other services, and with road, rail and water transportation facilities available, the estate also boasts a lock-enclosed harbor basin and a dock area, fully and modernly equipped, covering 145 acres.

TWO HUNDRED FIRST EDITIONS COMPRISE $4,000,000 EXHIBIT

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Two hundred rare first editions ranging from the first printed classic, Cicero's "De Officiis," to a first edition of John Galsworthy's "The Forsyte Saga," are on exhibition here.

The exhibitor, Dr. A. S. W. Rosenthal, has culled the group from a vast collection of rare books and values it at $4,000,000. He explained he had not attempted a dictionary guide for bibliophiles, incipient or advanced, but merely chose 200 books considered to be among the greatest and most influential in the progress of civilization.

With the help of photographic and diagrammatic lantern slides, and in words intelligible to the layman, Dr. de Sitter sketched for his hearers the universe as modern astronomical science sees it. In that universe the earth is one of a hundred thousand stars in the Milky Way nebular system; the Milky Way system is one of many millions of star systems in the universe; the universe is the system that contains all star systems, spiral and globular, known and unknown to man.

The universe, as Dr. de Sitter conceives, is not infinite in size. It is rather a continually expanding finite.

Explaining his theory, Dr. de Sitter continued: "It is made up of, as yet, unnumbered multitude of spiral systems of nebulae and a much smaller number of globular systems, all running away from each other at tremendous speed. The whole system of connected systems is expanding at a rate which spec-

Camera Prominent In Astronomical Study

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 7. (By The Canadian Press)—In a talk given recently at Convocation Hall, Professor de Sitter, the famous mathematical physicist of the University of London, brought to bear on his audience the importance the camera is playing in the astronomical field today. He attributed the great advance of astronomical science in the last 50 years to the perfection of photography, and asserted that with its help, "astronomers will have amassed sufficient data on the millions of galactic systems in the universe to permit of the use of an established system in studying them and their movements."

Dr. de Sitter has evolved his own theory of the universe, which ranks with Einstein's and Le Maitre's among the modern contributions to the study of astronomy. "When you look up on starry nights to see the Milky Way," Professor de Sitter explained, "you are looking at the shining outer rim of a pinwheel of light, wherein the earth is one spark. When you look up by day and see the sun, you see the ball in the centre of the pinwheel. The simile fails. The sun is not the nail in the pinwheel. It is the very heart of a disk of stars that flies spinning through space, carrying with it, somewhere in the middle of the Milky Way, the star we call earth."

With the help of photographic and diagrammatic lantern slides, and in words intelligible to the layman, Dr. de Sitter sketched for his hearers the universe as modern astronomical science sees it. In that universe the earth is one of a hundred thousand stars in the Milky Way nebular system; the Milky Way system is one of many millions of star systems in the universe; the universe is the system that contains all star systems, spiral and globular, known and unknown to man.

The universe, as Dr. de Sitter conceives, is not infinite in size. It is rather a continually expanding finite.

Explaining his theory, Dr. de Sitter continued: "It is made up of, as yet, unnumbered multitude of spiral systems of nebulae and a much smaller number of globular systems, all running away from each other at tremendous speed. The whole system of connected systems is expanding at a rate which spectroscopy and photography are only now beginning to measure. In other words the universe is growing. It is bigger today than it was a million years ago. It will be bigger a million years hence than it is today," Dr. de Sitter believes. "At the moment, and as accurately as mathematical physics can compute it, its size is somewhat larger than what corresponds to the radius of 2,000,000,000 light years, and probably smaller than the equivalent of the radius of 20,000,000 light years. "That" Professor de Sitter explained, "was only an approximately accurate conclusion, reached by a study of data collected in many observations in many parts of the world. The great advance of astronomical science in the last 50 years was entirely due to the perfection of photography." He looked forward to a day "when with its help, astronomers will have amassed sufficient data on the millions of galactic systems in the universe to permit of the use of a statistical system in studying them and their movements."

"When that day comes, science, with the help of the law of averages, will be able to answer many questions with authority. "To the one, "whether it is all just a hazardous collection of stars or whether it is an organism that obeys certain laws," Professor de Sitter is convinced that "phenomena already observed and recorded have provided an answer."

The famous scientist spoke as the guest of the Royal Canadian Institute.

HUNTER RIVER AND VICINITY
Frequent snow flurries are the rule around here lately, making travelling either with sleigh or wagon difficult. The latest bow to Cupid made in this vicinity was the marriage of Miss Eva Matheson, Oyster Bed Bridge, and Mr. Raymond Ling of the same place. Rev. Mr. Brown of Charlottetown married the young couple who on their arrival home were greeted by a joyous crowd of well wishers from Wheatley River and surrounding parts where both are well known and liked. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Ling a happy journey through life.

WILL SELL ESTATE
LONDON, Dec. 7.—(By The Canadian Press)—The Earl of Durham, owing to heavy taxation and a succession of death duties following the death of the two late earls with in a short period, has decided to close Lambton Castle, his ancestral home, six miles from Durham, and sell most of the contents. A stately pile on the River Wear, the castle was built in 1797 from the plans of an Italian architect. The ruins of an old castle stand on the opposite bank of the river. The third and fourth earls of Durham died within four months of each other in 1929, and in that period the estate, estimated at $10,000,000 paid $5,000,000 in death duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Houston who were completely wiped out by fire last spring in Ebenezer have purchased a farm in Rustico and intend starting farming again. We wish them luck in their new place. Mr. John E. Murray of Summerside has returned home after visiting his cousin Mrs. Alfred Carew. Mr. Murray has recently returned from Scotland, having spent about nine months there in the fox farming industry. While there he attended the leading fur shows both in England and Scotland. The recent storms have held up work on the building of the Oyster Bed Bridge but work will be resumed as soon as the weather clears.
