HUGH McLEAN.

Entered into rest at his home, the Strathcona Hotel, Charlottetown, on Tuesday, Oct. 2, 1928, after a short illness, borne with calm resignation to the Divine Will, Hugh McLean, aged 52 years.

The passing of the late Mr. McLean is home in a great shock to his many relatives and friends in the different parts of the province where he was so well and favorably known. In the home even although his nearest and dearest during his severe illness may have been cognizant of the sad fact, yet his passing will seem to them as a strange dream, the awakening from which will bring added sadness and pain to their hearts, already stricken in loneliness and sorrow.

May Jesus in His infinite mercy and love be to them a resting place—the shadow of a great rock in a weedy land!

During his illness the departed was most tenderly nursed by his wife and family, with the assistance of N. trained nurses, Mrs. Alexander McLeod and Mrs. Lester Douglas, but all this, and the best medical skill, could not avert that dread disease, pneumonia, until a kind Providence relieved him from suffering, and his spirit peacefully took its earthly tenement to be clothed in immortality.

Born at Peter's Road, a son of the late James and Margaret McLean, he spent his boyhood and early manhood years, he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Beaton, of Flat River, P. E. Island. Later, with his family, he removed to Charlottetown, where he was engaged in the busy life of an hotel manager. Afterwards he purchased the up-to-date Montague Hotel, which for some years he conducted most successfully and finally retiring in his locating in Charlottetown as proprietor of the Strathcona Hotel.

The late Mr. McLean, though unassuming and unobtrusive by nature, was possessed of many sterling qualities, which go to make up an excellent character—manly, honest, and generous in his dealings with his fellow-men; a kind and indulgent husband and father, he held a firm place in the hearts and affections of all, and especially with those who knew him best.

The funeral service at his home in Charlottetown was most impressive. The clergymen participating were: Rev. Dr. Ramsay, Rev. H. Johnston and Rev. D. V. O'Meara. The pall-bearers were: Lester Douglas, Thomas Lankford, Dr. Green, Wm. Gillespie, J. A. Moore and J. D. McMillan.

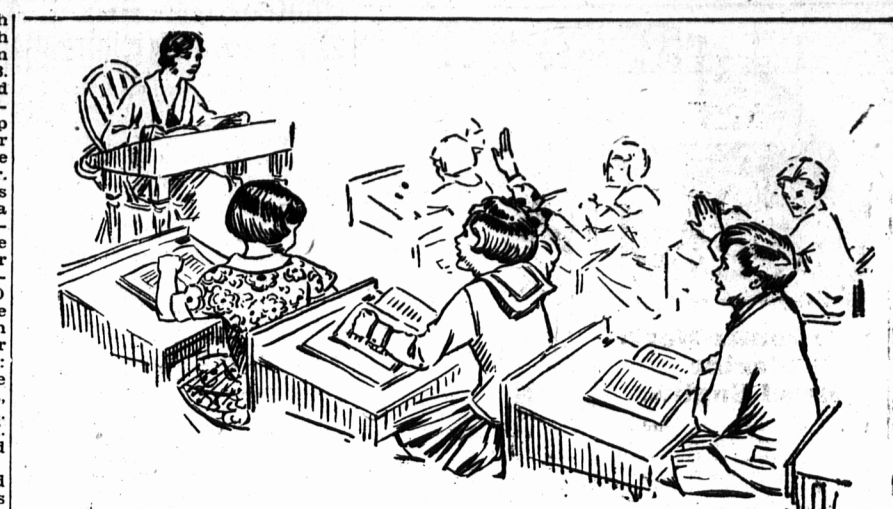

On Thursday, 11th, the remains were taken from the city to Peter's Road for burial, a number of cars accompanying the motor hearse to the Presbyterian church there. The final services were held in the Presbyterian church at Peter's Road, where a large assemblage of people were congregated. The ministers officiating were: Rev. Dr. Ramsay, Rev. Mr. McDowell, Rev. D. V. O'Meara and Rev. Mr. Sterling. Rev. Mr. Maxwell presided from the text: "This day shalt thou be with Me in Paradise." Rev. Dr. Ramsay also spoke of the deceased in regard to his upright life. Revs. O'Meara and Sterling also took part in the services with scripture reading and prayer.

The choir sang, "Rock of Ages," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Nearer My God to Thee."

The pall-bearers were: Lester C. and Garfield Johnston, Merrill Graham, James McLean, Geo. Clow, and John Gillis. The funeral procession from the church to the New Cemetery at Peter's Road, the interment was made, was very large and was under the capable management of Mr. N. D. McLean, undertaker.

Besides the sorrowing and bereaved, the following are the members of the family: Sinclair, in the West; Elsie M., completing training for music in New York, and Belle, a graduate of Prince of Wales College, Leith, Great Britain. The brothers and sisters are: W. J. McLean, of Peter's Road; John, of Charlottetown; Joseph, of Gibsons, Alta.; Mrs. Benj. Clow, Murray H. North, and Mrs. L. G. Campbell, in the services with scripture reading and prayer.

The floral tributes reposing on the casket were donated as follows:— Pillow, wife and family; Cross, Bessie, Merrill, Jack and Arlie; Star, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Clow, Jane and George; Wreaths, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. McLean, Mabel and Jim; the guests, Strathcona Hotel; Miss Ethel Balmert, Miss Christina McDonald; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Beaton and family; Rhoda McLeod and Vivian Vanidestine; Mr. and Mrs.

Bright Children
Are those who are Properly Fed

CHILDREN who are brightest at school are those who are properly fed. The body must be nourished and full of energy if the brain is to be alert. Breakfast is the child's most important meal. It is the meal which starts bodily and mental activity for the day.

Physicians, educators and public men are calling for better breakfasts for the children. They know that during the four morning hours body and mind are most heavily taxed with work or play.

Don't handicap your children by improper or insufficient morning meals. Give them a sustaining breakfast. Serve Quick Quaker Oats every morning.

Be sure always to get Quick Quaker. Each package contains a coupon with which you can secure useful household and personal articles of genuine value. The figure of the Quaker is on each big family package and the small ten cent size. Both are wrapped and sealed.

HUGH MONTGOMERY CAMPBELL

Hugh M. Campbell, whose death has already been recorded, was a man whose life measured well up to the standard of his contemporaries. He was a most faithful husband, providing for his family with a prodigious hand, lavishing upon them all the comforts and the indulgences that thoughtful kindness could suggest.

His habit of playful exaggeration was most amusing, and always supplied a harmless implement of recreation. In his joyful moments he would entertain a multitude with a simulation of sincerity that seemed to show all signs of the real.

But, in serious conversation he could produce argument that would require a mind with far greater intellectual training to refute. He had a fine concept of political knowledge which he naturally inherited from his illustrious father, the late Hon. William Campbell. Then he could follow along industrial lines and give his hearers the benefit of his advanced ideas.

In all the vicissitudes of life he had a most faithful and devoted partner in his beloved wife, who added materially in displaying in the home such evidence of actual prosperity. Live fresh for many, many years, will the memory of his personality in the minds of his many friends, and, as the years pass, his generous spirit will be felt influencing the lives of his friends.

His funeral, held on Thursday, September 27, the services being conducted by Mr. Fleck, who gave a neat and animated digest of the sad news, and bestowed religious comfort on the widow and family. The pallbearers were George Cousins, James Cousins, John E. Cousins, Heath McLeod, Kenneth McLeod, James McLeod, Milford Campbell, and Fred Champion.

Interment was effected in the Geddie Memorial Cemetery, New London. The flowers placed upon the casket were sent with sympathy as follows:— Wreath by Williams & Crue, Summerside; Spray, Percy Bowness Summerside; Wreath, John S. and Mrs. Cousins and family; Spray, Mr. and Mrs. Huggan, Charlottetown; Natural Flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McLeod, French River.

Insidious Eye Strain

We use this adjective advisedly. Sufferers from Eye Strain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect. The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy. Normal eyes, if it is computed, utilize about 25% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eye Strain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.
