THE MOST POWERFUL AND HEART-STIRRING RENUNCIATION SCENE EVER SHOWN ON THE SCREEN

Wrongfully accused by her tyrannical husband—her child taken from her by an unjust law—this woman became the slave of a drunken brute. When she heard the all-compelling voice of mother-love calling her, she threw aside the shackles of a degrading life. When Providence led her to her boy who needed her love, she arose to heights that only a mother can attain. See Marjorie Rambeau in the most soul-stirring and heart-moving dramatic moments ever portrayed on the screen.

Ethel Clayton's
Beautiful Complexion

That splendid actress now appearing under the Paramount banner is famous for her beautiful complexion. She attributes her wonderful skin to the use of her simple collet article called Derwillow.
There is nothing like it for tan, freckles, shiny nose, sallowness, dark, rough skin. It takes the place of face powder, stays on better, as perspiration does not affect it, and it instantly restores the complexion. One application proves it. If you want a nice lily-white skin with rosy cheeks, get a bottle of Derwillow today. You will be delighted. Derwillow is sold at all up-to-date toilet counters. Be sure to read large announcement of Miss Clayton's soon to appear in this paper.
It tells how to instantly have a beautiful complexion and a soft, white, velvety skin everyone "just loves to touch." J. G. Jamieson, Mr. J. Edward Martin, baggage and entered the Charlottetown Hospital, being seriously ill with an attack of acute indigestion.

For several years food due to a scarcity created by war conditions have risen more in value proportionately than other products of the farm, and for various reasons horses for the past number of years have not commanded a price equivalent to the price paid for other classes of farm animals, or in proportion to the cost of raising them. In fact, they were the only class of farm animals or farm products that did not experience any increase in price during that period of inflated values, while cattle and sheep have brought almost unheard of prices during this time.
However, during the past year farm products have taken a sharp decline, and as there was very little encouragement to breed and raise foals while live stock were selling proportionately so much higher, there is now apparently a scarcity of horses suitable for agricultural or transport work. It looks as if the demand for these animals would be greater for many years to come, and as the price of grain and hay is materially lower and the cost of gasoline higher, heavy horses will prove more profitable in comparison with this power than at any time within the last four or five years. The following article gives a good estimate of the comparisons of these different methods of farm power:

The Horse Association of America has research figures showing that a 1,000 pound horse voids 13 tons of manure per year. On farms of ordinary fertility, this is worth at least $3.00 per ton, which is a legitimate credit to offset feeding costs.
If the price of grain and hay is lower the cost will be still less.
Only when the manure is good for grain and hay, do the operating costs for horses rise proportionately—which is in contrast to the situation of low prices for farm products at a time when everything the farmer has to buy remains high.

The farmer who uses brood mares for his farm work, producing his own power, replacement and selling of the mature animals as fast as the younger stock is ready to go to work, need never know the meaning of the word "depreca-tion" as applied to horse power. T. H. Carruthers, a farmer, near Masonville, Iowa, is an illustration. He requires twenty horses during peak load season for his farm. He therefore uses good mares in his work, and the mares in foal and three-year-olds help out during the heaviest season. There's a crop of six or eight surplus horses for sale each year. From these he has averaged a thousand dollars annually for the last eight years. He says: "My stock is constantly improving, my work being more efficiently done, and the cost of it will be less.
In this way the people are protected and the number of unsound horses is yearly growing less. Every province that is attempting to breed and raise horses to the extent that we do in Prince Edward Island should have a similar law on the Statute Books enacted to take place at some future date, giving the owners sufficient time to get rid of their scrub stallions without undue loss. The best horsemen in this province are in favor of such an act and have requested the government to introduce it at an early date. We consider that if it were in force nothing that we could do would encourage the breeding of good horses better, or add more value to the farm animals of this province."
Department of Agriculture

While the foregoing relates to conditions on large farms in United States, it is equally true in our province that the right class of brood mare can earn her keep doing farm work and raising a foal each year that will pay any farmer to feed it.
In fact, if the right type are raised no class of farm stock will pay better for many years to come Prince Edward Island horses have enjoyed a reputation of being inestimable value to the breeders. It is a well known fact that buyers in other parts of the Maritime Provinces will pay more money for an animal of equal quality bred in this Province than those purchased in Ontario or Quebec, out we have of late years been losing this market to a considerable extent, because we do not raise horses of weight to meet the demands of these buyers. In Montreal or Toronto horses of from 1,200 to 1,400 lbs. are classed as "farm hanks," their draft horses weigh from 1,500 to 2,000 lbs. and bring a very much higher figure. We can always sell a 1,500 lb draft that is sound and of good type at a price that would pay well to raise them, but we have been raising entirely too many undesired, poorly built, nondescript animals that are neither carriage horses, roadsters, general purpose breeds and they are just culls of the breed. The only excuse for raising such is that their sties are kept in reach of all breeders at a trifling cost of service. It is an instance of the damage a scrub animal may do to a community.

BARS AGAINST FIREMEN

SUNBURY, Pa., May 8.—"Go home and I'll put out my own fire," Mrs. Carrie Hackenberg told the American fire company when they answered a still alarm to extinguish a chimney blaze at her house and she wouldn't let them in.

EXPECTS COLD SUMMER

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., May 8.— George Brown, the local weather prophet gives the following as the result of his observations:
"We need not look for good weather before the 15th. of the month. There will be one more cool summer with less rain than last year. August will be cool and frost before that time. It will be a fall will come late."

During the present season several high class draft horses have been imported to this province, animals that were carefully selected for their breeding and character, and whose stock will add greatly to the value of the horses that we will have for export. If these six animals get city colts each in a season and they are worth on an average at maturity $50, more than the average scrub animal, it will make a difference yearly to the breeders and the province of some $15,000, or if worth $25, more on an average which would be too low an estimate, half that amount. Not only would the value of these horses be so much greater but they could be more easily sold.

Ontario and Western Provinces of Canada, United States, and in fact most of the countries of Europe where they breed a splendid class of heavy draft horses have years ago passed an act of parliament for the encouragement of horse breeding. In Saskatchewan where they are doing a great deal to improve the class of farm horses and where geldings weighing up to 1,800 lbs. are found whose grand dams were brood mares weighing less than 1,000 lbs. they have enacted a Stallion Law compelling every stallion that stands for service, to be a registered animal of some breed, and they are not allowed to go out without a yearly examination by a qualified Veterinary Inspector under penalty of a fine of $100. No
