Can likely arrange regulations to be altered to allow old traps to be fished without alterations for two years. All new traps made after 31st December next, to conform to the new regulations. No traps which do not conform to be fished after 1st January, 1913. Wire if satisfactory, best possible writing. Signed, A. B. Warburton, Ottawa, 23th. Nov., 1910.

The Printer and Publisher in its November issue has a write up of the King's Printers of the different provinces. Of the Island's representative it says—George W. Gardiner, King's Printer of Prince Edward Island, succeeded to the office on the first of January, 1907. He is a son of the late Mr. George Gardiner, formerly a prominent man and producer dealer in Charlottetown, and is about fifty years of age. He was educated in the public schools of Charlottetown and learned the trade of printer under the supervision of Messrs Coombs & Worth, formerly job printers. After leaving their employ, he began business for himself. An excellent half tone cut of Mr. Gardiner illustrates the write up.

The following item appeared in a recent issue of The Comet of Lashburn, Sask.—"That sly little god, Cupid, has been busy again in our midst, (he seems to have begun his pranks earlier this season), with the usual happy result. A quiet but interesting wedding took place on Monday afternoon, Oct. 31st, at Bonnie View, the residence of James and Mrs. Kettles, when their eldest daughter, Esther, was united in wedlock to E. G. Drake, our school teacher. The Rev. English journeyed from Lashburn to perform the ceremony, and a number of friends and well-wishers were present. The young bride, who looked very dainty in her pretty bridal gown of white, was given away by her father, Miss McKeerchar acted as bridesmaid, F. J. Tallant as best man. The numerous presents were both useful and ornamental, and hailed from friends in Lashburn, Wascana and Battlevale. The young couple being very popular in each place, Mr. and Mrs. Kettles provided handsomely for the comfort of their guests, the wedding cake, of course, being the chief feature. Speeches and toasts followed in their usual course, and all went merrily as the proverbial "marriage bells," as it should do. Everyone had a splendid time, and it is safe to say that all unite in wishing the young couple every happiness and good luck in the long years to come. Mr. and Mrs. Drake will take up their residence on their farm, the north-west quarter of section three. We have still a few bachelors left on the shelf. We are beginning to wonder how much longer they are going to lay there. Don't be "best man" too often, it isn't lucky." (Mr. Drake was formerly of Pownal, this Province.)

Jep, Zeke and the Widow, presented at New Wonderland last night, was greeted with a regular scream of laughter, so funny indeed that many wanted to see it a second time. The Greenhorn and the Girl was clearly shown and was a good picture to begin the well-assorted program which was afterward put on. Handicapped by Conscience was a superior Kalem story, and one to bring home to the onlooker the reality and blessing of a clear conscience. There was a lesson in it for all. The hall was delightfully comfortable and the pictures and songs of the highest quality.

On Thanksgiving Day the Commonwealth Hotel, Inc., of Boston, of which Storer F. Crofts is the general and popular manager, and which is the popular resort of many Provincialists while in Boston, served a very elaborate menu. Their chef, who has the culinary art at his finger tips, certainly excelled his previous efforts on the above dated day. The partook of this excellent dinner were most thankful. First came soup in three kinds, then several kinds of fish with sauces. The entrees were braised sweetbread, financiers; filet of beef pique, fresh mushrooms, oyster pattie, banana fritters, glaze, etc., followed by the most delicious roast Vermont turkey with chestnut dressing, cranberry sauce, domestic duckling, sucking pig and currant jelly. The vegetables were there in abundance, while the dessert was charmingly served and of a wide variety, including different fruits, nuts and confectionery, plum pudding and every other conceivable delicacy. Certainly it was no fault of the Commonwealth's manager or cook if the visitors did not enjoy their Thanksgiving dinner.
