REORGANIZATION OF MILITARY DISTRICT HERE

Special to The Guardian.

OTTAWA, April 30—It is announced in Military orders that in order to reorganize the militia on a divisional basis four commanders will be required so as to form six divisional areas providing six infantry divisions and four cavalry brigades.

The change affecting the Maritime Provinces is that by which the sixth divisional area replaces military districts Nos 8, 9, and 12 comprising New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and P. E. Island with headquarters in Halifax. To each divisional area will be appointed an officer to command infantry division to be organized in that area and in addition to command and administer such other units as may be quartered in the division area.

SAYS MRS. GLOVER ASKED A MAN TO KILL HER HUSBAND

BOSTON, Mass., April 28—A sensational statement by Hattie LeBlanc was made public today when her St. John deposition was read in court in Cambridge. She said she had heard Mrs. Glover make threats against her husband on several occasions.

"Did you ever hear any conversation between Mrs. Glover and another person?" was asked, and in reply Hattie said that three months before Glover's death she heard a conversation between Mrs. Glover and Toby LeBlanc, brother of Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Glover, she said, asked Toby if he would kill Glover if she would pay him for it. Toby said he would not and that if she wanted any killing done she would have to do it herself.

During the reading of the deposition, certain portions were ordered stricken from the records by Justice Hammons, among the parts under the ban being all reference to an alleged act of misconduct on the part of Glover and the LeBlanc girl.

The questions asked Hattie LeBlanc by Lawyer Elmore at St. John referred to the payment of her expenses from West Arichat to St. John. She said that she had paid them herself and that she had not received any money from the four brothers who are contesting the will or their representatives. A short time ago she received some money from Melvin M. Johnson, her senior counsel in the murder trial. Out of this money she paid her travelling expenses.

She said that she had seen Larry Smith, the detective, and Alice Morrell, a stenographer, at the hotel where she stayed in St. John but had no conversation with them. The first person she talked with, she said, was Lawyer Edward Barry.

She denied having told any one that Harold Gardner had said that he would "fix" Glover. She denied that she had been guilty of misconduct with Glover.

About a month ago she said Mr. Brewer, who was junior counsel in the murder trial, visited her at West Arichat, but she refused to say whether he talked about the will contest.

She denied that there had been an agreement by which the four Glovers were to assist her in her defence on the murder charge in return for her helping them in the will contest.

The court adjourned until Monday.

BOY BURNED AT THE STAKE

BOSTON, April 28—Bound and tied to a stake while his little playmates executed a mimic Indian war dance about him and "tortured" him with a lighted candle, Max Tattlebaum, aged five years, of Roxbury, turned play into reality, and was "burned at the stake," when his clothing caught fire from the candle, causing injuries which resulted in the boy's death at the hospital last night. The Tattlebaum boy's companions ran away in terror when they saw the boy's clothing flaming up, and he was released from the stake by two little girls who carried him home.

ALL SUMMER SESSION LIKELY IN OTTAWA

Special to The Guardian.

OTTAWA, April 30—There is practically no doubt that Parliament will be in session all summer. Members and Senators have made up their minds to that and their arrangements have been challenged accordingly.

If Sir Wilfrid does not attend the Coronation few members will do so.

HOLD BROTHERS AS MURDERERS

CRANSTON, R. I., April 26—Francisco and Antonio Zoglio, who are alleged to have murdered their brother-in-law and cousin, Alfonso Zoglio, on April 8, were found probably guilty and bound over to the grand jury after a short hearing in the Eighth District Court here today.

Alfonso was found shot, and his head crushed with a hammer, on the night of April 8. He had atteempted it is alleged, to shoot his wife, from whom he was separated.

The testimony introduced by the prosecution today included an alleged confession which the police claim Antonio made to them, in which he admitted that he shot the murdered man from the second story window when Alfonso was leading the house.

The attorney for the brothers, Antonio Tettine, said in court that he would admit that Antonio shot Alfonso but claims it was done in self defense. It is alleged that after Alfonso had shot at his wife when leaving her hodse, Antonio fired two shots at him from the second story window, and afterward Francisco came out and pounded the mortally wounded man on the head with a hammer.

Medical Examiner Latham declared that either the bullet wound or any one of the wounds on the head were sufficient to cause death. No testimony was introduced by the defense.

ALBANY, April 26—The State treasury will be enriched to the extent of $4000, the amount remaining of an original estate of $17,000 left by Catherine Grimes of Albany. The Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the decision of the Appellate Division, Third Department, dismissing the appeal taken by alleged heirs of the woman in Ireland, against the judicial settlement of the estate.

The Albany County Surrogate held they had not proven their claim to the estate. The cost of administering the estate, including attorneys' fees and funeral expenses, aggregated about $13,000.

KING AND QUEEN DINE WIVH AMERICAN COUNTESS

LONDON, April 28—King George and Queen Mary dined tonight at Forbes House with the Earl and Countess of Granard. The Countess of Granard was Miss Beatrice Mills, of New York.

LONG AGO

I once knew all the birds that came
And nestled in our orchard trees;
For every flower I had a name—
My friends were woodchucks, toads and bees;
I knew where thrived in yonder glen
What plants would soothe a stone-bruised toe—
Oh, I was very learned then—
But that was very long ago.

I knew the spot upon the hill
Where checkerberries could be found,
I knew the rushes near the mill
Where pickerel lay that weighed a pound!
I knew the wood—the very tree—
Where lived the poaching, saucy crow,
And all the woods and crows knew me—
But that was very long ago.

And, pining for the joys of youth,
I tread the old familiar spot,
Only to learn the solemn truth—
I have forgotten, am forgot.
Yet here's this youngster at my knee
Knows all things I used to know;
To think I once was wise as he—
But that was very long ago.

I know it's folly to complain
Of whatsoe'er the Fates decree;
Yet, were not wishes all in vain,
I tell you what my wish should be:
I'd wish to be a boy again,
Back with the friends I used to know;
For I was, oh! so happy then—
But that was very long ago.

REV H. E. THOMAS DELIVERS SERMON ON NE TEMERE

There was a very large attendance in the First Methodist Church yesterday evening when Mr. Thomas, the pastor, delivered a particularly effective sermon on the "Ne Temere" decree of the Church of Rome. The announcement beforehand of the topic of the evening drew an unusually large congregation.

Two texts were chosen, II Corinthians, 6:14—Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers, and Matthew, 19:6—What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder.

Mr. Thomas said:

Some months ago when King George V sent a message to the World's Missionary Conference at Edinburgh he said, among other things, that "the foundation of a nation's greatness is set in the homes of the people," and by reason of the fact nerein asserted we are ready to recognize the importance of any phase of the subject of family life and the transcendent importance of a matter which lies at the very basis of the home like that of betrothal and marriage. In the first text which we have quoted the Apostle Paul is giving a command which is not limited to the marriage relation, but has an application as well to all those who in any sphere of life would endeavor to do God's Holy will. "Look well to your companions and co-workers," says the Apostle, "for you can never do so well in business, in social and all other relations with one who does not sympathize with you in your Christian faith, and hope and service, as with one who shares with you the great object of life." If in any relation of life this principle applies to what greater degree must it apply, when two lives enter into that solemn association which is to last "till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance." Aside altogether from the question of "mixed marriages," so-called, no safer counsel was ever given regarding marriage than this God inspired word of the Apostle; for when two hearts not only love each other but love a common Saviour, and when they bow their heads at a marriage altar they bow as well in spirit before a common Divine King. Then indeed Heaven may look down upon one of earth's purest and holiest and most blessed sights, for God is there and there to bless,

The voice that breathed o'er Eden
That earliest wedding day;
The primal marriage blessing, it
hath not passed away,
Still in the pure espousal of Christian man and maid
The holy three are with us
The three-fold grace is said—
O spread Thy pure wing o'er them,
Let no ill power find place
When onward to Thine altar the hallowed path they trace."

This is the ideal which we must ever keep before us, the union of two persons who walk in the fear of a common God, who bow at a common altar and who serve a common Saviour, Jesus Christ; for to fall below this standard and to be unequally yoked together with unbelievers is to open the way for unrest and danger and tragedy. A home where God is honored and loved by man and wife is earth's nearest approach to Heaven, a home where God is ignored and brutal passions reign is earth's nearest approach to hell. Few calamities on earth are fought with such dire consequences as that of an unfortunate marriage, for there are men who were ordained to be the salt of the earth and the great of the world, but whose influence has been stultified and whose life has been made a burden, by awaking to the fact that instead of being mated to a woman they were mated to the empty head and the worldly heart of one who did not know what it was to have one serious thought in life. And there are women who have come to a marriage altar with trustful heart, and pure mind, and high ideals, but who have awakened with a rude shock to find that their whole life was cursed, for they were married to one who was worse than a clown, for in a great degree it is true "As the husband is, the wife is; thou art mated with a clown, and the grossness of his nature will have weight to drag thee down." This is the fruitage of marriages born of a chance meeting at some Godless dance hall, or wine party, or card party. This is the result which follows an utter disregard of the counsel of the church, the entreaties of friends, and the prayers of loving parents. Better a thousand times to be thrown upon life's sea, single, helpless, and alone, than to be so ill mated that life becomes a living death.

Whilst dangers like these are possible in any marriage where the contracting persons are not true Christians, it is especially true where one person is a Roman Catholic and the other a Protestant. To come at once to the heart of this issue, one may believe that with certain concessions on both sides it is not impossible that whilst this mixed marriage can never be an ideal marriage, yet in certain cases it may be followed by a life free from great discord, unrest or calamity. That this is a possibility is all that one can safely say. In nearly every case the Protestant giving the hand in marriage to a Roman Catholic is taking chances of a life of woe, and perplexity and sorrow. My evidence touching this matter is that over and over again the Protestant has made confession to me that the one fatal mistake of a life was the mistake made in joining hands with one who kneeled at another altar. And remember this, all you who are involved in this question, that in all these cases the promises made were just as fair, and the way seemed just as plain as in your case, but that did not prevent disaster. I am well aware that we are treading here upon delicate ground; not as some would allege because we may wound feelings and give offence, for when duty is to be performed feelings and offences count for nothing; but delicate to me, because in all cases of betrothal and marriage we tread upon God's holy ground.

When the Great Creator would perpetuate the race; when the Father Everlasting would people Heaven and earth, He did it in His own all-wise and all-wondrous way. He placed in the soul of mankind a faculty which for want of a better name we call love, and by that power one heart will turn toward another heart as the opening flower turns toward the sun, and although earth teem with its thronging millions, to these two hearts it is as though no other lived on earth beside. "No one so accursed by fate, no one so utterly desolate, but that some soul although unknown responds unto his own." Responds as if with unseen wings an angel touched its quivering strings and said why hast thou stayed so long? This is love! This is the tie that binds! This is the way God

REV MR FULLERTON ON "NE TEMERE"

In St. James' Church yesterday evening Rev. T. F. Fullerton delivered a strong sermon on Ne Temere to a very large congregation, taking his text from Proverbs 12:27. In the course of his remarks Mr. Fullerton drew attention to many phases of the decree which are touched on in Rev. Mr. Thomas' sermon on the same subject published in this issue. He fairly and fearlessly discussed the topic and, while expressing accord with Roman Catholics in the matter of objection to mixed marriage as a menace to happy home life, he pronounced the decree as too far reaching and too authoritative. He explained certain sections of the decree and quoted cases which had arisen as a result of its enforcement which had broken up homes and left the wife on her own resources. In the course of his sermon he made extended reference to the recent case in this city of a woman who had been buried by the Roman Catholic Church and explained fully the circumstances leading up to her burial. He told of the woman being a Presbyterian all her life, having lived in his and another manse, of her oft expressed wish to be buried as a Protestant and her expectation of a Roman Catholic burial through the influence of relatives. He told of his attendance at the sick bed and her desires expressed then, a previous payment of money for burial expenses and the wishes of her son, a Protestant. He referred to what had taken place after her death when he tried to get into communication with the authorities at the Palace and the final information received from them of her baptism by that church, his order to the undertaker, and of a counter order made to that undertaker by a priest. He finally told of the culmination of the matter in the body being placed in a hearse by another undertaker, fifteen minutes before the hour appointed for burial, explaining his own position clearly. Mr. Fullerton's sermon was a very lengthy and earnest one, well deserving of an extended report which, regrettably, time and space at the present will not permit. The service was concluded by singing God Save the King.

RELIEF COLUMN IN A TRAP

TANGIER, April 26—News from Captain Bremond, dated April 22, says that his column, hgving received an urgent sdmmons from Fez to create a diversion towards the Raselma region, so as to relieve the pressure on Fez, where the situatioo has reached a critical stage, struck camp and commenced an arduous march, fighting every step of the way.

The Cherada tribesmen, although 60 or more have been killed within a day or two, are attacking with the greatest ferocity, and threatening to massacre all prisoners falling into their hands.

Late news received here regarding the situation at Fez says Captain Bremond, who is marching at the head of a column to relieve the city, is now in a critical situation. He is short of ammunition and is completely surrounded by Cherada tribesmen, who, far from being discouraged, have returned to the positions from which they were dislodged a few days ago.

By an unlucky chance, Captain Boisset, who had been sent to Bremond's aid, when almost within reach, heard that Bremond, profiting by the fine weather, had struck camp and was pushing on to Fez. Boisset decided that he would be of no service to Bremond and returned to Alcazar.

QUEEN VICTORIA ON CONCERT STAGE

NEW YORK, April 28—A London cable to the Tribune says:—

"Signor Leopold Francis, who taught Queen Alexandra to play the mandolin and guitar, makes the surprising statement that her majesty, when she was Princess of Wales, appeared on the concert platform on several occasions. Only a few ladies of the court besides the tutor, were in the secret, and as she wore a gown similar to that of the other members of the women's orchestra and always figured on the program at Countess Gage, the audience could never guess it was being entertained by an artist of such exalted rank.

MAY HAVE A RACING CIRCUIT

FREDERICTON, April 27—The Fredericton Park Association directors, this evening, decided to take the initiative, the other tracks will quickly fall into line and the circuit will soon be complete.

J. D. Black, the secretary of the Fredericton Park Association, is to get into communication with the managers of the various tracks and is anxious to receive any announcements of racing dates or suggestions in connection with the formation of the circuit. Several of the tracks have already expressed a willingness to join the circuit.

The Fredericton Park Association directors went on record this evening in favor of giving a mid-summer meeting as well as the exhibition races. The association stand ready to give a meeting, and with the assistance assured from business interests of the city, who want racing crowds here for a week in the summer, it is practically certain that the meeting will last for three days with about six races, with $300 purses.

The Moosepath Park management at St. John have expressed a wish to open the season, and with Dominion Day falling on Saturday, which is always St. John's best race day, it is believed that the winter port will likely take the opener, and then St. Stephen, Woodstock, Fredericton, Chatham and Moncton are expected to agree to follaw in the order named. That would take up all the time until along in August, and with the Cape Breton tracks and New Glasgow to come in before the Halifax exhibition races.

After that the exhibitions at Chatham, St. Stephen and Fredericton, in New Brunswick, and Charlottetown in P. E. Island, will wind up the season. The Fredericton Park Association will give three days' racing during the Fredericton exhibition, the racing days decided on being September 19th, 20th and 21st. The racing program of probably eight or nine races will ne announced probably next week, and will include three or four early closing stakes.

With the circuit formed, the tracks are assured a fine entry of horses from the New England States and also from the Montreal and Vermont districts.
