BRIGHT MOMENTS.
Joined at the Proper Junction Result is Flash of Fun.
Clara—But why are you going to marry Frank, when you like Fred better?
Marie—Frank asked me first.
Muggins—Is your son in business?
Buggins—He's a contractor. Muggins——What line? Buggins—Debla—Philadelphia, Record.
Mam—wants but little here below,
As someone said before,
But when he gets it, don't you know,
He wants a little more.
Homekeep—Ever drink any of these substitutes for coffee? Dayboard—I haven't drank anything else for seven years.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
"Summer is a tough season on our parents." "Why so?" "Our daughters, who have been graduated try to make us talk grammatically."—Chicago Record.
"Fame," said Uncle Eben, "am jes' like swingin' in er hammock. Hit am mighty good fun of somebody don't but de string an' drap yer."—Washington Star.
"Does your family sympathize with you when you have insomnia?" "Yes.
When I can't sleep I sit up all night and practice on my accordion."—Chicago Record.
Hedges—Sappy is continually falling off his wheel. Rose—What can you expect from a fellow who isn't well balanced?—Philadelphia North American.
"I went to take a quinine capsule this morning and the blamed thing, just as I got it in my mouth, came apart"—"Ah, that was a bitter parting, indeed!"—Indianapolis Journal.
Willie—Grandpa, tell me a story.
Grandpa—Once upon a time, before people thought of marrying for money, —Willie—Oh! I don't mean a fairy story.—Norristown Herald.
"Ehen," said old Borderkeep, "here comes them York folks. Give the children a little more snuff an' get 'em ter sneezin'." "We've got ter make 'em think it's cool here somehow."—Judge.
"I suppose you are fond of Shakepeare," said one legitimate actor to another. "Of course I am." "Then why in the name of humanity do you insist on acting his plays?"—Washington Star.
Wickwire—Have you noticed that Mudga has quit cigars and taken up a pipe? Yabsley—Yes, I wonder what is the cause—has he been playing the races or getting engaged?—Indianapolis Journal.
Salvatio Army Apostle—If you swear at those horses, my good man, you'll never go to heaven. Teamster (humbly)— I knows it, mum; but if I don't I'll never get to Tonawanda.—Buffalo Times.
Mechanic—I have just been married and would like a raise in my wages.
Employer—I am sorry, but the company is only responsible for accidents that happen to the men while in the factory.—Brooklyn Life.
Wiggles—There's one good thing about Hicks. He is always willing to admit it, when he is in the wrong. Wag-gles—I don't think it is a good thing.
It doesn't seem to trouble him a bit.— Somerville Journal.
"It seems to me, Mr. Stilson, that your new house is lacking in a judicious use of fretwork." "Well, my wife will fill that deficiency just as soon as she gets her eye on those measly closets."—Cleveland Plaindealer.
He—I am going to pay you the highest compliment a man can pay a woman. She—This is so sudden. He—I know it, but I came away without my pocketbook—can you lend me a dollar until to-morrow?—New York World.
"And how is your papa, Eddie?"
"Papa is feeling ever so much better to-day." "I suppose it's the change in the weather?" "No, ma'am, 'tain't the weather. Mamma has decided to start for the seaside to-morrow."— Cleveland Plain Dealer.
First Wheelman—I always get fluttered when I see a woman crossing the street ahead of me. Second Wheelman——So do I. They have so many pins in their clothes that if a fellow collides with them he is almost sure to puncture his tire.—New York Mercury.
"No," said Dismal Dawson, in an answer to his benefactor's question, "hard times is not the best for our business. Nor yet good times. The times that suits me best is about medium—when the work ain't too plenty, nor money too scarce."—Indianapolis Journal.
"Once for all, girl," he hissed, "once for all, will you marry me?" "Yes," she said, "I'll marry you, but I don't know about the once for all part of it.
I guess you haven't lived here long enough to catch the spirit of our exciting city."—Cincinnati Enquirer.
The Teacher—Now, an altruist is one who is willing to subjugate his own interest to the interest of his fellow-men. Does any little boy here understand what an altruist is? The Kid—Yes, ma'! An altruist is a feller that makes a sacrifice his.—Indianapolis Journal.
Fuddy—Snapshot was showing me a lot of photographs he has taken. They are only passable, but to hear Snapshot talk you would think them marvels of the photographic art. Duddy—Yes, Snapshot isn't much of an artist, but then his views are better than his opinions.—Boston Transcript.
Mother—Mary, that young Spinnett has been paying a great deal of attention to you of late. Do you think he means business? Mary (with a far-away look)—I am afraid he does, much more than I do. I am the agent for a bicycle department. I have done nothing but try to sell bicycles ever since he has been here.—Puck.

SCENES AT MOSCOW.
A VAIN REGRET UTTERED BY SIR ED WIN ARNOLD.

The Author of the Light of Asia and the Light of the World Writes His Impressions at the Czar's Coronation—Omen of Good Luck.
The correspondent of the London Chronicle at Moscow, says: "A quaint subject of conversation yesterday was that after last evening's serenade in the courtyard of the Petrovsky palace the light clouds in the western sky grew into an exact likeness of a great white heraldic eagle, which disappeared in half an hour. The superstitious Russians regard it as an omen of peace and prosperity for the present reign.
"The scene last night was a beautiful one. The illuminations are witnessed by unwearied throngs, who do not seem able to have enough of light seeing."
Sir Edwin Arnold, who went to Moscow on behalf of the Daily Telegraph in his despatch to the paper describing the scene at the Kremlin, exclaims:
"Why, cannot one write in There was never anything seen on any stage like that living tangle of fantastic attire, of festal hues and embellishments visible around me, particularly in the Oriental element, and all the far eastern nations. The officials from Khiva wore magenta colored velvet robes, gold embroidered and sugar loaf hats. Now China contributes a dazzling group with fowered satin frocks and vermilion buttoned hats. Now a boy of magnates from Lake Baikal around the eye with fur-trimmed brocade and long red boots Now I recognize the gray surtout and amber cap strings of the Koreans.
"The Cossacks, Guards were gloriously uniformed in scarlet and gold, riding little, weedy, Roman-nosed Ukraine nags, with only snaffle and bridle, and with gold and black band-ollers, looking quite fit to pace in front of the Czar.
"After these came upon the scene almost the chief interest for me personally, since I saw gravely and significantly riding along, as the vassal friends of the great Khan, Khan all the chiefs of the Central Asian Kingdoms and provinces over which his eagles cast the shadow of their wings.
"But and other parts of the pageant pulled before the grand master of ceremonies, borne haughtily onward in such a golden chariot as I thought existed only in heaven or in classical pictures, holding a wand of gold, topped with an emerald as big as a walnut.
"I note that a Catholic Archbishop of America has been deprecating the abolition of war by arbitration. He would have been consoled by the spectacle I witnessed to-day in the Red square—a dazzling illustration of the pomp, pride and circumstances of glorious war.
"But here at last comes the august subject of this unparalleled manifestation the successor and heir of Ivan the Terrible. His handsome and many young countenance is pale with the prodigious sensation which such a scene must naturally excite and holds his gloved right hand almost perpetually to his segment cap. He bends his head gently to this side and that to acknowledge the boundless welcome Every man is bare-headed and ever-woman is waving a kerchief or shawl or violently crossing her loyal brow in prayer for 'the Little Father'.
"The Czarina also sat all alone, dressed wholly in white, even the jewels, pearls and diamonds, seeming to mar by their color the effect of this pure apparel, which caused her to resemble a marble saint within a golden shrine. Most unmistakable were the affection and loyalty of the crowd, and I saw more than one poor peasant woman's eyes fill with tears of sheer joy to behold this fair lady."

A Rapidly Made Coat.
Manufacturers are always pleased to turn out the product of their establishments in less than the average time, and many have made records to which they point with pride. In the issue of the Round Table for December 10, a short article was published on making a coat in thirteen and a half hours from shearing the sheep to putting the finished garment on a man's back. This was done at Green-ham Mills, in England, in 1811. Mrs James Lyon, of Bath, New York, writes that a similar feat took place in that town in 1816, and was accomplished in less than nine hours by one George McClure, who asserted that if could be done in ten hours. The record of each step of the work still exists, with the exception of the shearing.
The wool was colored in thirty-five minutes; carded, spun, and woven in two hours and twenty-five minutes; fulled, warped and dyed in one hour and fifty-one minutes; carried to the tailor in four minutes and was turned into the finished coat by him and his journeyman in three hours and forty-nine minutes. The shears used in the work are still preserved, and can be seen at the Steuben Agricultural Society's Fair grounds, at Bath.
This feat, at the time, doubtless attracted as much attention as a record-breaking railroad run or steamship does to-day. It is probable that many of our present manufacturers make such trials for their own edification, which, if described, would prove interesting.—Harper's Round Table

Clover of Three Leaves.
The clover of three leaves is, in Ireland, considered an emblem of the Trinity, from the tradition that St.
Patrick used it while preaching to confute the argument of a heathen.
"How," said the man, "can there be three gods in one, and one in three?" St. Patrick stooped and plucked up shamrock growing at his feet. "Here," he said, "are three in one and one in three." Since that day the shamrock has been the national plant of the Emerald Isle.
Swiss Independence Natural.
The geographical position of Swiss land, rendering impossible all attacks by sea, and offering by means of lofty mountains and difficult passes endless positions of vantage to a moderate defending force, renders the country almost impregnable, even in these days of gigantic armaments and far-reaching explosives.

Commencing on March 30th at the corner of Kent
and Great George Sts., we will sell all of the large stock of shelf and heavy hardware lately purchased from the executors of the late W. E.
Dawson. The stock is large and well assorted. This is a splendid chance for carpenters, blacksmiths and carriage builders to secure first class goods at from 25 to 50% less than regular prices.
DODD & ROGERS.

Cutlery That Cuts
You've seen the kind that doesn't, haven't you? Made to sell, never intended to cut.
The Cutlery in our stock is made to cut, and therefore it sells. Our trade is growing all the time in this department just for that reason.
We have a full line of goods in the famous eye witness steel. There's nothing better, nothing on the market that gives a better edge or wears longer.
Carving Sets, Pocket Knives, all sorts of handles, Shears and Scissors cut accurately and don't work loose. Razors hold their edge, easy to keep in order.
SIMON W. GRABBE,
STOVES AND HARDWARE.
Walker's Corner, April 1903.
