IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

A convention of more than ordinary importance to the farmers and stock breeders of this Province is the second annual meeting of the Maritime Live Stock Marketing Board, Inc., which opens today in the Strand Theatre.

The Maritimes have made good progress in stock raising during the past two years, but perhaps the greatest lesson that has been learned is the possibilities that still lie before the industry in this country.

U. S. TEXTBOOKS IN CANADA

The use in certain sections of Canada of United States textbooks for school instruction, due to the laxity of Canadian authorities in not providing satisfactory Canadian works, and the distorted viewpoint which these United States books present of events relating to the Great War, forms the subject of a timely leading article in the current issue of MacLean's Magazine.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Toronto exchange reports that a cat went crazy with the heat last week in that city. It tore around and then started to climb the agitated limb of a pedestrian.

Only three countries have more motor vehicles in proportion to their population than Canada, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Very timely is the advice to drivers of motor vehicles contained in an announcement published by the highway safety committee of Ontario on the eve of the week-end followed by Dominion Day.

The report of the New Brunswick Historical Society, which enquired into the accuracy of Myer's History, is set out in part as follows:

Notes By The Way

The first Dominion Day in the Maritimes, July 1, 1867 was very different from that of this year. It did not concern Prince Edward Island at all.

Nova Scotia was almost in open revolt. In Halifax flags were at half mast and citizens there and in country districts had even painted their chimneys black in token of mourning.

In New Brunswick the Province had first rejected Confederation by a sweeping vote in 1865, and had, in the following year reversed that vote by a majority equally large.

In Saint John on the first Dominion Day a minor incident occurred that created strong local excitement for a brief period. Zealous Confederates had stretched a cord across a street from which a Union Jack was suspended.

There are few if any survivors of the distinguished group of public men, the political giants, who were in active life on the first Dominion Day, and they in part owed their distinction to the fact that they stood upon the horizon of a new era in British North America.

Of the ten Prime Ministers since that day, only three are living now—Sir Robert Borden, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and Right Hon. Mackenzie King, the present Premier of Canada.

During the sixty-two years since the First Dominion Day this country has been under Liberal Conservative leadership for 34 years as against 25 years under Liberal rule.

Sir John Macdonald was born in Glasgow, Scotland, January 11, 1815 and died in Ottawa, June 6, 1891 in the 76th year of his age.

Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the second Prime Minister of the Dominion was born near Dunkeld, in Perthshire, Scotland, 28th January, 1822.

In the swift flight of years the Dominion of today looks forward with confidence and hope to the day, little more than half the allotted span of human life in the future, when the first century of her national life shall be completed.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton M.D. MEAT TEST MEALS

For years a "bread" meal has been used to test the ability of the stomach digestive juice to do its work.

A slice of bread was given and after an hour it was removed by the stomach pump along with the digestive juice of the stomach.

The strength of the digestive juice was then learned and treatment given in accordance therewith.

However Dr. M. E. Rehfuess of Philadelphia has been experimenting on normal and sick individuals with a "meat" meal instead of a bread meal.

He has been able to show that a stomach whose juice does not show much strength in digesting a bread meal, may show considerably more when it is digesting a meat meal.

The point is that some individuals may have a normal mucous membrane in the stomach but because of some general condition of the body, causing the acidity in the stomach to be low normally, the effect of the stomach juice on the bread meal is weak, whereas with meat meal the juice becomes much stronger.

In other words the meat meal stimulates the juice glands to do more effective work.

Dr. Rehfuess suggests therefore that persons who show but a weak effort in digesting the bread meal should be tried out with a meat meal.

In his experience, in a proportion of these cases, the strength of the juice was greatly increased, and this of course means a better chance for the patient to get completely well.

This should be a matter of encouragement for patient and physician who have been relying entirely upon results obtained with the bread meal.

In fact persons giving a similar response to bread and meat cannot be considered normal.

This all means that sufferers from stomach trouble, and unfortunately they are numerous, will now not only get the bread meal but will get a "second chance" with the meat meal, in the physician's endeavor to get an exact idea of the condition of the stomach.

The Poet's Corner

PEACE

Peace waits among the hills; I have drunk peace, Here, where the blue air fills The great cup of the hills, And fills with peace.

Between the earth and sky, I have seen the earth Like a dark cloud go by, And fade out of the sky; There was no more earth.

Here, where the Holy Grail Brought secret light Once, from beyond the veil, I, seeing no Holy Grail, See divine light.

Light fills the hills with God, Wind with His breath, And here, in His abode, Light, wind, and air praise God, And this poor breath.

Maritime Province Club of Montreal

The Maritime Province club of Montreal is now installed in its new quarters in the Windsor Hotel. The spacious, richly-furnished lounge over-looking Dominion Square is in the very centre of the business district of the metropolis.

The Windsor Hotel was selected as the headquarters because of its easy accessibility from the railway stations and the business section and the wisdom of this site is being amply justified by the manner in which the club's quarters are being used.

A program of special features has been prepared and there will be some form of gathering every month. There are to be banquets and luncheons with special speakers, a moonlight excursion on the St. Lawrence motor picnic, the annual dinner dinner dance and similar attractions.

Committees have been formed to handle enquiries of an industrial nature with the idea of assisting as far as possible maritime industries to enlarge their markets, to promote a wider knowledge of Maritime affairs, to direct and assist tourists and similar objects as well as looking after the club's social activities.

It is hoped that the Governments of the three Maritime Provinces may within the near future recognize the opportunity offered by this organization to further the aims of the Maritimes and that some measure of support might be forthcoming.

During the past year the club was visited by scores of Maritime men who were visiting or passing through the city. Many of these were parliamentarians or travellers on business trips and a number of helpful suggestions were made by them.

The secretary, if desired, will arrange hotel accommodation in Montreal or extend any courtesies within his power to travellers.

The club has among its honorary officers many names with a Dominion-wide reputation. The honorary president is the Rev. Canon Allan P. Slatford, rector of the church of St. James the Apostle and a former Nova Scotian. The honorary vice-presidents are: Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager of the Bank of Montreal; Charles E. Neill, General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada; C. B. Foster, passenger traffic manager of the C. P. R.; Col. G. S. Stairs, K. C., of the legal firm of McGibbon Mitchell & Stairs; Dr. W. W. Chipman, eminent physician; Rev. Dr. D. J. Fraser; Sir Andrew MacPhail, physician and author, and Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, head of the department of English in McGill University.

For the current year the club has elected the following executives: President, Arthur M. Irvine, general manager coal sale British Empire Steel Corporation, a former resident
