

CLEAN UP WEEK MAY 25th - 30th

The citizens of Charlottetown are called upon to observe "Clean Up Week" from May 25th-30th. If we wish visitors to return to their homes well-pleased with their sojourn here we must have our city looking its best. It is a matter of civic pride to repair and paint our homes, to make our lawns and property attractive, and to keep our streets and driveways clean, but it is also a matter of health to do so. The mayor and councillors of Charlottetown request all citizens to observe Clean Up Week to the best of their ability and to make their city the most attractive in all Canada.

Take Time to Fix-Up Home And Surrounding Premises

"Clean-Up" Week an institution still valuable in war time.

Talking to the average woman, every week or even every day sees a little cleaning up around the home but the special period appointed by committees for this special purpose is a testimony to the advance that modern health science has made of late years.

Hygienic cleanliness is a matter of personal pride with most people, because they know from scientists and medical men that cleanliness makes for health, and from their own experience, that it makes for comfort.

Spring is the logical season for a thorough clean-up. Winter has left dirt and dust in the house and unsightly rubbish and bare spots outside the house and the sunshine is here to help us in the task of making everything sparkling and span.

Women are naturally the most enthusiastic boosters of "Clean-Up" campaigns.

Most communities sponsor "Clean-Up Weeks". It is not a fad or a stunt; but the logical outcome of the teachings of scientists, medical men and health authorities as to the importance of clean sanitary surroundings.

Here's another angle to the story. It is a splendid chance to give a man a job, painting, mending, cleaning up the cellar or the yards.

You'll be able to think of a dozen jobs that have to be done and you'll be happy in the realization that you've done a little towards bettering the lot of your fellow man.

Citizens of Charlottetown Are Specially Favored

A great deal of credit is due the fathers of the city of Charlottetown for the beautiful way the sidewalks were laid out even back as far as most of us can remember.

Their sense of beauty in leaving trees standing along the sidewalks giving gorgeous color to the city and supplying shade for pedestrians in summer time should be heartily commended by us and we can show our appreciation of this to future generations by preserving and maintaining them to the best of our ability.

The same thing might be said of our sidewalks and parks. How many cities in Canada are so fortunate as to have a strip of lawn between the sidewalks and street's? Yet we have many streets of this type which are truly pleasant, to the eyes of a weary pedestrian.

We also have a large number of squares scattered over the city. These squares give shade and quiet spots in which to sit and rest during many hot days of the summer.

Let us all therefore instead of hindering nature this year, resolve now that we will not take shortcuts across the space allotted to the grass until the ground has become firm, and the grass sufficiently strong to bear our weight without becoming crushed and pushed back into the earth from which it has so recently sprung.

We parents and older people can assist in preserving the beauties of our city by instilling in our children a love of the beauties of our streets and making them so proud of our city that they will think it very unsporting to do anything which would retard nature's work in the spring, such as tearing small limbs off trees or running around on the lawns and plots where grass can grow in park squares or between the curbing and sidewalks at least until the ground has sufficiently dried and the grass becomes nature.

Being blessed with all this and having grown up with it we are to

OPPORTUNITY TO SALVAGE VALUABLE WAR MATERIALS

In war time clean-up campaigns have had more than ordinary success in that they have secured the cooperation of the public in the beautification of their particular surroundings, and at the same time given an opportunity to search out discarded materials which have littered up the premises that have been tucked away in some obscure corner simply because the owner did not know what else to do with them.

These materials are now valuable in our war economy and our City has been organized for their collection. During the week it will be well to sort out these materials as advised by the Salvage Committee and hold them for the next collection.

some canned abalone and canned scallops, though the latter products are never put up in large quantities. Operations in different branches of the canning industry may be affected more or less by war conditions which at present cannot be foreseen but, at the worst, there will be quite a variety of canned fish and shellfish available from Canadian plants for Canadian consumers. No Dominion housewife should experience great difficulty in filling her needs.

Most of these canned sea foods can be used in any number of different fish dishes. There are a great many recipes which have canned sea foods as their principal constituent. As a matter of fact, the Dominion Department of Fisheries has available for Canadian housewives a special booklet containing many such recipes, tried and tested and recommended by members of the department's lecturer-demonstrator staff. One of these books may be obtained, free of charge, by any woman upon request. They contain many valuable and helpful suggestions as to serving fish foods.

Taken all in all, the reserving of canned salmon and sea herring stocks for Britain need not disturb Canadian housewives a great deal. True, they may not be able to secure what they formerly looked upon as a regular standby in household diet, but there is a bright side to the picture, too. The domestic shortage of canned salmon and canned sea herring will be the means of bringing to many Canadian tables canned sea foods not formerly tried, and the introduction of many Canadians to varieties of fish foods they were agreed have been too long overlooked. It's an ill wind that blows no good!

Canada's entire 1942 pack of consumption through some will be sent overseas to help meet the food needs of the gallant people of Britain but that doesn't mean that Canadians will have to do without canned fish. Not by a great deal. The Dominion's big fishing industry produces many other kinds of nourishing, tasty food fish and shellfish which can be purchased in the canned form in nearly every part of the country.
