—GOOD CATCHES OF TROUT—Some excellent catches of trout are being reported by some of the expert fishermen of Prince County, and the writer can vouch for the truth of one of these fish stories, as a very good specimen of sea trout were left at the door on Thursday morning by two well known anglers, who tell a great story about a certain gentleman of the Upper House, who is apt to brag about his fine catches. Arriving at a favorite fishing hole, the gentlemen were told there was not a fish in the river, but notwithstanding, they proceeded to undo their fishing tackle. One is an expert fly fisherman and the other plus his faith on bait. After fishing down stream for awhile, the gentleman with the worms landed a lovely sea trout weighing over a pound and half. This encouraged him and he kept on until he had a nice mess of good sized trout, which he proudly exhibited to his friend with the fly. Just at that moment, along comes their friend of the Senate, saying, they could not beat him this morning, and produced a fair catch of little fish. But his chagrin can be better imagined than described when he saw the lovely speckled beauties of his professional friend, taken from a stream reputed to be entirely dry of the much sought after sea trout. ### In Memoriam

MRS. GILAS GALLANT

On the eighth of June, the home of Mr. Frank Gallant, of Rustico, was thrown into mourning by the death of his aged mother, Mrs. Gilas Gallant. The passing of this revered and beloved old lady removed from the parish of Rustico, one of its oldest life-long inhabitants, a notable figure, whose true Christian character, which had guided her steps through life, was so forcibly evident in her last hours. Deceased was nearing her eighty-seventh year and had been ailing about four months.

All during her sickness, to her children and grandchildren, who visited her, she never failed to impart her usual admonitions and counsels that they should lead good Christian lives, to love one another and not to forget their prayers. The force of these earnest exhortations could be felt the more by those who had known her intimately and remembered how well she had kept up to these ideals in her everyday life. During her whole life she enjoyed good health, and was endowed with great intelligence, which was much in evidence during her active years and even during her few years of retirement. The late Mrs. Gallant was a daughter of the late Gilbert Pet-
