—SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 14—(CP)— —Crown witness Jerome Gerrold of Sydney testified in Supreme Court today Blaise Koufis had "approached" him to "set fire to the Diana Sweets Building" and had promised him $350 for his "job". Koufis, Sydney restaurateur, was charged with arson in connection with a fire which destroyed the Diana Sweets, a rival restaurant, April 18, 1940.
Originally convicted and sentenced to five years in penitentiary, Koufis was granted an appeal for a new trial. Gerrold and two other witnesses heard today, O'ayton Pentecost and Edward Thistle, both of Sydney, are all serving four-year sentences in penitentiary on charges in connection with the same fire.
Gerrold admitted receiving "between $90 and $110 from Koufis" and testified that he split the money up with the other two. Both Pentecost and Thistle declared they had no personal dealings with Koufis and that Gerrold had been "contact man". Both admitted attempting to fire the building three times before succeeding.
Koufis is scheduled to testify in his own defence tomorrow.

Mrs. E. K. Murphy Senator's widow, Dies in Ottawa

(Ottawa Journal, Nov. 7) Mrs. Evelyn E. Murphy, widow of Senator P. C. Murphy, and member of a prominent Ottawa family, died Thursday afternoon at the home of her brother, Major J. MacC Clarke, 181 Waverley street.

Although in poor health for the past month, Mrs. Murphy's death was unexpected and will come as a shock to a wide circle of friends.
Her husband, Senator P. C. Murphy, of Tignish, Prince Edward Island, predeceased her in 1925.
Born in Ottawa, she was a daughter of the late Patrick Clarke and his wife, Catherine Weir, and received her education at the Congregation of Notre Dame Convent and Rideau Street Convent, graduating from the latter institution.

Married in Ottawa in 1916, she went to live in Tignish, P. E. I., with her husband until his death, when she returned to Ottawa to live with her brother. She was a former member of St. Joseph's parish, and of late years had been a parishioner of St. Theresa's Church, where she was a member of the League of the Sacred Heart.
Both during her residence in Tignish, P. E. I., and Ottawa she was a staunch supporter of all Catholic activities.

Surviving are her brother, Major Clarke, former chief of registration, Department of National Defence, and four sisters, the Misses Margaret, Mary Monica, Lillian Clarke, and Mrs. J. M. Ahearn, all of Ottawa. A brother, Col.
Emmett Clarke, Assistant Quartermaster General, died in 1924.
The funeral was held on Saturday from the residence, 181 Waverley street, to St. Theresa's Church for requiem high mass.
Burial was in Notre Dame cemetery.

The new giant Stirling bomber, a type of which was used in recent raids on Germany, can carry 2,000-pound bombs. The Naz's felt the terror of this plane when R.A.F. raiders dropped low out of a stormy sky in one of the greatest mass attacks yet made by the British on the enemy. Here bombs are snaked in under the nose of the Stirling bomber which can carry three to nine times as heavy a bomb load as other British planes.

"Young fools" Says Pouliot, Then backs down

OTTAWA, Nov. 14—(CP)—Three men were reported dead overseas, three dangerously ill and two seriously ill overseas in the army's 71st casualty list issued late today by the Department of National Defence.
The list brings to 482 the number of army dead and missing reported officially since the start of the war.
Following is the official casualty list with official numbers and next of kin:
Overseas:
Dead:
commendation of my leader, the Prime Minister of Canada. It is time to say this."
Some minutes later, after Mr.
Pouliot ended his speech, Mr. King said that while he understood Mr.
Pouliot had been "chivalrously speaking on my behalf" he had a duty as leader of the House which the country would expect him to perform.
The object of the procedure adopted by the House was to enable members to question the various ministers. While members could be given latitude in the discussion should relate primarily to the department whose minister had his statement before the House at the moment.
Later G. S. White (Con. Hasting-Peterborough) mentioned Mr. Pou-liot's speech.
"Mr. Speaker," he said, "I have listened to the remarks of the honorable member from Temiscouata, and I wish to take the strongest exception possible to the remarks which he made when he alluded to Canadian soldiers overseas as young fools. I submit that no one in Canada, least of all...
"Not all of them," Mr. Pouliot interjected.
"Please do not interrupt," said Mr. White. "I say that no one in Canada, least of all an honorable member in this chamber, has any right to refer to any member of the Canadian forces wearing the King's uniform, and serving in England, as of the very wise and patriotic rea young fool. I would ask the honorable member from Temiscouata if he has ever worn the King's uniform, or rendered any service to his King. What right has he to talk?"
At this stage the chairman called for order on grounds a member cannot ask a question "as in a cross-examination in court" and the exchange ended.
Later, Mr. Pouliot rose to explain his use of the words "young fools." He said: "When one is not speaking in his native language he is under a rather severe handicap, and I should like to say a word or two about what I said this afternoon concerning the young soldiers who made a commotion when the Prime Minister visited them in England. I used the word 'young fools' in the sense of gamineerie. I could not find an exact translation of this word as we would use it in ordinary conversation. The nearest is boisterous or turbulent. I want to make this explanation in order to keep the record clear."

Berlin Admits

This proud claim was broadcast by the Moscow radio to climax a series of military reports which depicted the Germans, on a true black Friday for Nazi arms, retreating in every sector of the Moscow front.

The Tula battle was won on the mine-sown southern approaches to the town, in the village of Rodezhensky, a Tass news agency account declared. Here, some 100 miles due south of the Red capital, the Germans won a shabby foothold at staggering cost in men and equipment, only to be pushed back.

"The Germans were here yesterday," a Tass reporter wrote from Tula. "Today only their corpses are here."
This was the Russian picture on the other battlefields before Moscow:

Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest: Soviet troops wiped the Germans from the east bank of the Nara River after stubborn fighting, and stopped a new Nazi thrust to the west bank.

Kalinin, 95 miles northwest: The Germans were driven from an even 20 villages in 24 hours.

"The Germans continued to bring up reserves to the Moscow front, but successful Red army assaults were reported in the direction of at least one operative base, Zarechie.

On both north and south extremities of the front the Russian position was described as equally good.

The Germans were reported driven from strategic heights and forced back several kilometers in the Arctic Murmansk zone: A mobile SS (elite) Nazi division was declared routed before Rostov-on-Don, northern key to the Caucasus.

Russian reinforcements were pressing toward the Caucasian front to block a German drive from the Crimea.
(A Moscow radio report picked up in New York said the besieged Red armies at Leningrad had broken through the German encirclement at one point with artillery and dive-bombing support and had driven through to the Nazi rear.)

FOOTLOGGERS BRISTLE WITH WEAPONS

TODAY'S CANADIAN INFANTRYMAN is so well armed that he is actually a light machine-gunner. He must handle the Tommy gun as well as the Lewis and Bren machine-guns for both ground use and anti-aircraft defense. He must be a crack-shot with the revolver as well as a sniper with a rifle. He must be deadly with an anti-tank rifle and know how to operate two types of mortars. Some of his weapons are illustrated above. On top, a Bren gun is getting ready for action; centre right is a Tommy gun and left, a mortar. Below an infantry Bren-gun section is taking position in the open.

ganize sub-committees to look after their areas.
The Provincial Committee, acting on a request of the Charlottetown sub-committee, yesterday asked Military District No. 6 at Halifax to send a blackout expert to the province to assist in organization work.
It is expected that he will visit Summerside and Borden to help out there.

tent the national defence department decided it had training facilities available.

Figures compiled from the national registration of manpower during August, 1940, showed there were 889,739 single men and childless widowers in Canada between the ages of 19 and 45 years—military age under the mobilization act.

To date the call-up for home defence extends only to single men or childless widowers of 21 to 24 years as of July, 1940 and those becoming 21 since that time. The present system of filling ranks with recruits for service in Canada has been to take as many 21-year-olds as are available, then move on to the 22-year-old class and so on.

So far, in the nine compulsory training periods, a total of 104,629 men in the 21-24 year class have been trained.

So far, the minister said, the 21-to-24-year-old classes have been more than ample to supply all the trainees called for by the national defence department.

JAPS ORDER NEW

In all, the Government is expected to submit 13 measures to Parliament, including the already operating postal censorship and the military service revision, as well as four budget increases which will carry the total expenditure on the China campaign to 26,209,760, 000 yen ($16,028,000,000).

Another factor in the crisis is the dispute between Japan and Russia over the sinking of the Japanese liner Kehl Maru in the Japan Sea on Nov. 5, attributed by Japan to collision with a mine broken away from the Vladivostok fields.

Informed sources said that Russia replied only today to Japan's urgent protest and they understood that Russia rejected all major Japanese claims. Japanese accounts have put the total of dead and missing from the ship at 126.
