CHAPTER III.—Continued.)

After dinner the good woman took off my clothes and put me in bed while she mended them. I went asleep then and did not awake for a long time. When I got up at last, she brought a big basin of water and washed me with such motherly tenderness in voice and manner that I have never forgotten it. Uncle Eb lay sleeping on the lounge, and when she had finished dressing me Fred and I went out to play in the garden. It was supper time in a little while, and then again the woman winded the shell and the men came up from the field. We sat down to eat with them, as we had done at noon, and Uncle Eb consented to spend the night after some urging. He helped them with the milking and as I stood beside him shot a jet of the warm white flood into my mouth that tickled it so I ran away laughing.

The milking done, I sat on Uncle Eb's knee in the dooryard with all the rest of that household, hearing many tales of the wilderness and of robbery and murder on Paradise road. I got the impression that it was a country of unexampled wickedness and ferocity in men and animals. One man told about the ghost of Burnt bridge—how the bridge had burnt one afternoon and how a certain traveler in the dark of the night, driving down the hill above it, fell to his death at the brink of the culvert.

"An' every night since then," said the man very positively, "ye can hear him drivin' down thet hill jes' as plain as ye can hear me talkin'—the rattle o' the wheels an' all. It stops sudden, an' then ye can hear 'im hit the rocks way down there at the bottom o' the gulley an' groan an' groan. An' folks say it's a curse on the town for leavin' thet hole open."

"What's a ghost, Uncle Eb?" I whispered.

"Sumthin' like a swift," he answered, "but not so powerful. We heard a panther las' night," he added, turning to our host. "Hollered like sin when he see the fire."

"Scairt!" said the man o' the house, gaping. "That's what ailed him. I've lived twenty year on Paradise road, an' it was all woods when I put up the cabin. Seen deer on the doorstep an' bears in the garden, an' panthers in the fields. But I tell ye there's no critter so terrible as a man. All the animals know 'im—how he roars an' spits fire an' smoke an' lead so it goes through a body er bites off a leg, mebbe. Guess they'd made friends with me, but them I didn't kill went away smartin' with holes in 'em. An' I guess they told all their people 'bout me—the terrible critter that walked on its hind legs an' hed a white face an' drew up an' spit 'is teeth into their vitals 'cross a ten acre lot. An' purty soon they concluded they didn't want t' hev no truck with me. They thought this clearin' was the valley o' death, an' they got very careful. But the deer they kep' peekin' in at me. Sumthin' funny 'bout a deer—they're so curius. Seem's though they loved the look o' me an' the taste o' the tame grass. Mebbe God meant em t' serve in the yoke some way an' be the friend o' man. They're the outcasts o' the forest, the prey o' the other animals, an' men like 'em only when they're dead. An' they're the purtiest critter alive an' the spriest an' the mos' graceful."

"Men are the mos' terrible of all critters, an' the meanest," said Uncle Eb. "They're the only critters that kill fer fun."

"Bedtime," said our host, rising presently. "Got t' be up early 'n the mornin'."

We climbed a ladder to the top floor of the cabin with the hired men, of whom there were two. The good lady of the house had made a bed for us on the floor, and I remember Fred came up the ladder, too, and lay down beside us. Uncle Eb was up with the men in the morning, and at breakfast time my hostess came and woke me with kisses and helped me to dress. When we were about going she brought a little wagon out of the cellar that had been a plaything of her dead boy and said I could have it. This wonderful wagon was just the thing for the journey we were making. When I held the little tongue in my hand I was halfway to heaven already. It had four stout wheels and a beautiful red box. Her brother had sent it all the way from New York, and it had stood so long in the cellar it was now much in need of repair. Uncle Eb took it to the tool shop in the stable and put it in shipshape order and made a little pair of thills to go in place of the tongue. Then he made a big flat collar and a back pad out of the leather in old boot legs and rigged a pair of tugs out of two pieces of rope. Old Fred was quite cast down when he stood in harness between the shafts.

He waited patiently to have his collar fitted; he had grinned and panted and wagged his tail with no suspicion of the serious and humiliating career he was entering upon. Now he stood with a sober face, and his aspect was full of meditation.

"You fightin' hound!" said Uncle Eb. "I hope this 'll improve yer character."

Fred tried to sit down when Uncle Eb tied a leading rope to his collar. When he heard the wheels rattle and felt the pull of the wagon he looked back at it and growled a little and started to run. Uncle Eb shouted "Whoa!" and held him back, and then the dog got down on his belly and trembled until we patted his head and gave him a kind word. He seemed to understand presently and came along with a steady stride. Our hostess met us at the gate, and the look of her face when she bade us goodby and tucked some cookies into my pocket has always lingered in my memory and put in me a mighty respect for all women. The sound of her voice, the tears, the waving of her handkerchief as we went away are among the things that have made me what I am.

We stowed our packages in the wagon box, and I walked a few miles and then got into the empty basket. Fred tipped his load over once or twice, but got a steady gait in the way of industry after awhile and a more cheerful look. We had our dinner by the roadside on the bank of a brook an hour or so after midday and came to a little village about sundown. As we were nearing it there was some excitement among the dogs, and one of them tackled Fred. He went into battle very promptly, the wagon jumping and rattling until it turned bottom up. Re-enforced by Uncle Eb's cane, he soon saw the heels of his aggressor and stood growling savagely. He was like the goal in a puzzle maze, all wound and tangled in his harness, and it took some time to get his face before him and his feet free.

At a small grocery, where groups of men just out of the fields were sitting, their arms bare to the elbows, we bought more bread and butter. In paying for it Uncle Eb took a package out of his trousers pocket to get his change.

It was tied in a red handkerchief, and I remember it looked to be about the size of his fist. He was putting it back when it fell from his hand heavily, and I could hear the chink of coin as it struck. One of the men who sat near picked it up and gave it back to him. As I remember well, his kindness had an evil flavor, for he winked at his companions, who nudged each other as they smiled knowingly. Uncle Eb was a bit cross when I climbed into the basket, and walked along in silence so rapidly it worried the dog to keep pace. The leading rope was tied to the stock of the rifle, and Fred's walking gait was too slow for the comfort of his neck.

"You shif'less cuss! I'll put a kink in your neck fer you if ye don't walk up," said Uncle Eb as he looked back at the dog in a temper wholly unworthy of him.

We had crossed a deep valley and were climbing a long hill in the dusky twilight.

"Willie," said Uncle Eb, "your eyes are better'n mine. Look back and see if any one's comin'."

"Can't see any one," I answered.

"Look way back in the road as fur as ye can see."

I did so, but I could see no one. He slackened his pace a little after that, and before we had passed the hill it was getting dark. The road ran into woods, and a river cut through them a little way from the clearing.

"Supper time, Uncle Eb," I suggested as we came to the bridge.

"Supper time, Uncle Eb," he answered, turning down to the shore.

I got out of the basket then and followed him in the brush. Fred found it hard traveling here, and shortly we took off his harness and left the wagon, transferring its load to the basket, while we pushed on to find a camping place. Back in the thick timber a long way from the road we built a fire and had our supper. It was a dry nook in the pines—"tight as a house," Uncle Eb said—and carpeted with the fragrant needles. When we lay on our backs in the firelight I remember the weary, droning voice of Uncle Eb had an impressive accompaniment of whispers. While he told stories I had a glowing cinder on the end of a stick and was weaving fiery skeins in the gloom.

He had been telling me of a panther he had met in the woods one day and how the creature ran away at the sight of him.

SELL YOUR COLD FOR $1?

You surely won't stop at a dollar bill to cure that horrid, sniffleing cold? Go to my druggist and get "Catarrhozone" and your cold will be a thing of the past. There is almost witchery in the swift way Catarrhozone kills colds. But when you consider the penetrating, healing and antiseptic qualities of Catarrhozone perhaps it is not so wonderful. Certainly there is no remedy half so prompt for colds and catarrh as Catarrhozone. Reuse a substitute and insist on having only "Catarrhozone."

THIS VETERAN GIVES REASONS

Why he Pins his Faith to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Worn out with Chronic Kidney Disease—The Great Canadian Kidney Remedy Banished Backache.

ACADIE SIDING, Kent Co., N. B., June 16 (Special).—Calixte Richard, J. P., one of the most highly respected men in this part of the country, has joined the great army of those who pin their faith to Dodd's Kidney Pills. As usual Mr. Richard has good reason for what he does and he states them as follows:

"I have been troubled with Kidney Disease for forty years and the result was I found myself a worn out man at seventy-two. But after using two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I find all my pains are gone and I can employ all my days with the best results. I cannot let the opportunity pass of letting the public know the great good Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all rheumatic pains by removing the cause—Uric acid in the blood. They put vigor and energy in place of the pain.

HE LOOKED IN VAIN FOR HELP

Till He Tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—Now Edward Rousseau is a new Man.

"Yes," remarks Mr. Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont., "I can prove that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure when other medicine fails.

"You remember I was a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia for ten years or more. Well, I doctored and did everything I could think of for it, but I couldn't get relief till I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Two boxes of them made me feel like a new man. Words cannot express the good they have done me. 'You don't wonder I am always ready to recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, do you?'

If you would eat what you like and when you like, use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Carry a few in your pocket and take one after eating.

THE HAIR MATTRESS FOUND WANTING!

OSTERMOOR PATENT ELASTIC FELT MATTRESS

$15.00 $15.00

First Cost is Last Cost and Only cost.

Tried and found wanting! The experience of fifty years of success is given in a very handsome book, "The Test of Time," which we ask the privilege of mailing to you. May we? Its purpose is to prevent you from ever buying another hair mattress. It will show you that the use of hair is out of date, unsanitary, comparatively uncomfortable, and outrageously expensive. It will convince you, with no financial risk, that the only kind for you to buy is the
