THE PITCHER

The pitcher takes a telling pose and holds the ball on high. Then turns it with his finger tips. His new in-curve to try. Then swiftly swings his strong right arm.

A Hard Knock.

"How nice and soft your hands are, Mr. Muffy!" "Yes; I—ah—sleep with my gloves on, don't you know?"

Mamma had told her little daughter that she could not go out to play, but the little maiden determined to make one more plea.

"Young Harvest had only been admitted to the bar a week when he made a fortune. He was caught in a railroad wreck in which forty people were injured."

"He was all of them. He got all the victims to retain him."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Copenhagen correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt sent his paper an interesting article on the "name famine" in Denmark. In no nation, he says, is the choice of the family name so limited.

When the great Napoleon died there were doubtless among the readers of the London Globe many persons who would have liked to read a full account of his life, but, if so, they were disappointed, for the Globe in its issue of July 4, 1821, contained only the following brief notice:

In this catalogue of books which are me books—biblia-abilia—I reckon court calendars, directories, pocketbooks (the literary excepted), draught boards bound and lettered on the back, scientific treatises, almanacs, statutes at large, the works of Hume, Gibbon, Robertson, Beattie, Soame Jenyns and generally all those volumes "which no gentleman's library should be without."

A French savant points out that spiders' webs improve the acoustic properties of a room. He says he knew in England a hall that was ideal for the conveyance of sound. In an evil moment it was decided to clean the ceilings, and all the spiders were destroyed.
