The house was empty at the time, Mr. Gardner being out of the city on a month's holidays and Mrs. Gardner a patient in hospital. Five Nominees In Quebec Byelection

VILLE MARIE, Sept. 6 —Over 800 persons attended an "all party" meeting here this afternoon that followed the nomination of five candidates running in the Federal byelection September 16 in Pontiac County.

All the candidates addressed the gathering but only the Labor Progressive nominee, Oscar Roy, was prevented by interruptions from finishing his speech.

Surprise of the meeting came with the announcement from Real Caouette, Social Credit candidate, that from this point onward, he would have nothing to do with his former chief, Solon Low, Social Credit leader in the House.

Other candidates are: Lucien Labelle, K.C., Liberal, Hector E.E. Belec, Progressive Conservative, and Bernard Molloy, C.C.F.

There were so many interruptions during Mr. Roy's speech that he was forced to discontinue. Before taking his seat he said, "I will come back to you later on and we will understand each other."

Mr. Belec explained the reasons why he accepted the candidacy. "Time has come for a change in Ottawa," he said, "and I want to be the first one, with your support to start that change. It must be made clear to the present administration that the people in Pontiac are not satisfied. There are three byelections to be held in Canada, but the King Government set the first one in Quebec knowing that if the people here vote against the candidate, it would be no use to proceed with the other by elections."

Ivan Sabourin, K.C., head of the Progressive Conservatives in Quebec, declared that the King Government was responsible for the critical situation of the mining industry presently in Canada.

Held Together By Common Faith

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6 —(CP)—A common faith rather than sentiment holds the British empire together, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, said today in an address over the trans-Canada network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"What brought us into this last war was not a question of material rights on our side and of filial affection on yours. There was perhaps something of that in 1914. But a lot has happened since then; one epoch of human history has ended and another begun.

The British empire in the old sense has given place, through a spontaneous development marked by the statute of Westminster, to a new British empire, a commonwealth of nations.

"What holds the British empire together is a common faith. We will have full freedom to differ about ways and means: Our unity, our security about one another exist because we know that on the big issues of human life we shall think alike and that when we differ it will be in friendship and without damage to our common ultimate faith.

"It was not sentiment that brought us together into the war. It was simply that you and we and all the Dominion and the same conviction that we must defend the right. . .

"The British empire is the only evidence to date that this faith can hold together in unity of spirit, in understanding, in peaceful co-operation great nations scattered all over the world."

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of our dear son and brother,
PTE. JAMES MAURICE MAHAR
who was killed in action in France, Sept. 10th, 1944.

(SLEEP ON BRAVE LAD)

Sleep on, brave lad, in silent dreams
Above the din of battle screams
Beyond the reach of burning hate
Sleep on, brave lad, inside the gate.

Forget the lust of war man made
Grieve not the price you dearly paid
Your soul at rest with him abides
Man left on earth through Hades strides

No piercing pain nor battle scar
Can follow on to where you are
Above the sun and earth below
Where every man is wont to go.

You sacrificed what men can't give
Breath of your life, that we may live
Now rest in peace, and slumber long
With Victory's torch we'll carry on.

We'll watch the skies and seas below
And guard all lands where men may go
We'll fight for Right till Right is done
Here on this earth for everyone.

We'll keep the vigil in Justice's name
You sought on earth to bring to fame
Your courage keeps us strong and true
Fear not brave lad, we'll see it through

Now may the angels bring you peace
May all your cares forever cease
Immortal, may your name be read
In memory of the blood you shed.

Sleep on brave lad, in silent dreams
Above the din of battle screams
When Victory rules across the earth
The whole wide world shall know your worth.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed, by
Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers
