A FOOD TEST WITH STUDENTS

Getting Best Out of Food.. Interesting Test With 9 Graduates of Yale.. Masticating Food.. Followed Reasonable Regulations With Most Astounding Results.

New Haven, Conn., May 7.—Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, has concluded an experiment covering ten weeks in the relation of endurance to diet, and last night he published the first statement of the result. Nine Yale graduates were selected for the experiment and were given one test after the Christmas holidays, when they were fresh from vacations, and another after a term of hard work. The experiment consisted in trying to find a truer food instead than most persons are said to have. No attempt was made to prescribe diet or forcibly alter the quantity of proportion of the food. The men were simply asked to follow the plan, eating slowly and thoroughly masticating their food giving special attention to its taste and following implicitly the dictate of appetite. A record was kept of the food consumed by each man each day. The proportion of fat, starches, sugars and proteins were worked out by means of a mechanical diet indicator devised for this purpose by Prof. Fisher. It was found that the men decreased their food ten per cent, the protein 15 per cent, and the consumption of meat and other flesh foods by 40 per cent, instinctively. To test the working power of the men trials of endurance were made at Yale gymnasium at the beginning of the experiment. The same tests were repeated at the end. It was then found that each of the nine men had improved anywhere from 15 to more than 100 per cent, despite the fact that no special physical exercise endurance was over 50 per cent. Strength tests were also given, but the improvement in endurance was greater than that in strength. Mental tests were also given in form of problems, and it was also found that most of the men had increased in mental quickness. As every precaution was taken to prevent any disturbing factor to which the improved condition of the men might be ascribed, it is believed that the experiment has demonstrated that it is possible for any persons in two and a half months' time, by simple mastications of the food and following the appetite, to improve the endurance by one-half.

THE EASY OIL. Scott's Emulsion is "the easy oil"—easy to take, easy in action. Its use insures deliverance from the griping and nauseating sensation peculiar to the raw oil. Nobody who has any regard for their stomach thinks of taking cod liver oil in the old way when Scott's Emulsion is to be had. It is equally certain that no one having a regard for their health will accept a cheap emulsion or alcoholic substitute for Scott's Emulsion. It fulfills every mission of cod liver oil and more.

POLISH LAD'S NECK BROKEN

And He Instantly Killed While Trying to Stop an Ascending Elevator.

St. John, May 9.—(Special)—Hyman Eisenstein, an immigrant lad who arrived from Poland a month ago, was instantly killed today on the premises of Aschins & Co., clothiers, where he was employed. He tried to stop the elevator as it was passing upward and was caught in the machinery, carried upward and horribly crushed between the elevator and beams above. His neck was broken and his head nearly severed from his body.

AN ENGLISHMAN WON THE BATTLE

LONDON, May 8.—A Hamburg despatch in the London Daily Mail says: "A stirring account is to hand of the valuable assistance which an English elephant hunter, Mr. Southerland, gave the German troops in their fight in East Africa. A certain station was in great danger, when the defenders determined to attack the oncoming Wagonis. The little expedition only consisted of two German officers, Mr. Southerland, and thirty two native warriors. The next morning the enemy, 700 to 800 strong, were encountered. The enemy, badly armed, but with fanatic courage, attacked undaunted. Captain Richter fell their leader with a well aimed bullet, and the natives on the German side, with their fire created great havoc, but still the savages swept forward. The situation was most critical, when the Englishman, a splendid shot, began to use his heavy No. 12 elephant gun with expansion bullets. Every shot, aimed at the head, told with fearful effect. The enemy retired, but only to attack again. The Englishman, however, stayed at his post until the ground was covered with victims. The rest of the savages then fled in panic-stricken flight. A number of rifles had fallen into the hands of the rebels, but by a ruse of Mr. Southerland's they were destroyed. Forty highly explosive cartridges, too heavily loaded for the rifles, were placed so that they fell into the rebels' hands. When used they exploded, and several rifles were found later bearing evidences of the violent end of those who had fired them."

JAP SAILORS IN GREAT BRITON

LONDON, May 8.—A party of 32 officers and 882 men of the Japanese Navy, who have arrived in England to man the Katori and Kashima, which have been built at Barrow and on the Tyne respectively for Japan, arrived lately on board the steamship Iyo Maru. The men were taken to Greenwich in two steamboats. They visited the Royal Naval college, the museum, and the observatory. On Monday one party visited St. Paul's, paying special attention to Nelson's tomb in the crypt—the law courts and Westminster Abbey. On leaving the Abbey they were entertained at luncheon in Caxton hall, and afterwards proceeded to the Coliseum, where a special performance was organized. In the meantime the officers were entertained at luncheon by the lord mayor at the Mansion house. The other party were entertained on Monday at the Passmore Edwards Sailors' palace, Limehouse, by the British and Foreign sailors' society, and on Tuesday visited St. Paul's Westminster Abbey, the house of parliament, and other places, finishing up with visits to the Coliseum and the Alhambra.

LAURIER FEELS THE INDEMNITY

Is Not Too Great Considering the Length of Sessions—Many Members Defend it and Few Oppose—Fraudulent Devices to Increase Immigration Strongly Condemned.

OTTAWA, May 9.—(Special)—In the Commons today a resolution was endorsed asking the British Parliament to pass a law to prevent immigration to Canada being encouraged by fraudulent representation. It was moved by Ralph Smith and approved by several speakers. Hon. Mr. Aylesworth said he would use all his influence to have such bill put through the British House. A sultry debate took place on MacLean's motion to reduce members' indemnities, the motion of the member for North York being warmly denounced by members on both sides. After several speeches, mostly favoring the increase except the ministerial pensions, Sir Wilfrid Laurier took a hand. He admitted the Government was responsible for the bill, but the Opposition had accepted it without criticism. Regarding the salary for the Leader of the Opposition he took credit that Canada had been the first portion of the Empire to recognize the Opposition Leader as a part of the constitutional system. As to the indemnity, he could not approve of the position of Mr. McLean, who at first gave his assent to the bill. He (Laurier) had agreed to the increase on account of the greater length of the sessions and considering the present duration he thought the present amount not too much.

TRAIN HELD UP BY ARMED ROBBERS

At Kamloops—They are Pur-sued, Got Registered Letters but no Express Money.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 9.—(Special)—The Imperial Limited express on the C. P. R. was held up by robbers at Kamloops early this morning. The robbers compelled the engineer to uncouple the mail car and haul it a mile away where it was rifled of registered letters. They were evidently under the impression that the express packages were in the same car and when they found their mistake had not nerve enough to go back. The Company has taken immediate steps to pursue the robbers. It is probable that a considerable sum of money was secured, but details are not at hand.

A REMARKABLE TURNING OVER

DETROIT, May 8.—The Michigan Christian Advocate reports a rather remarkable occurrence at the annual session of the Wyoming Conference just closed. A Polish Catholic priest appeared before the Conference asking that he and his fifty families, numbering in all some two hundred persons, be received into the Methodist Episcopal Church, and that all their church property be made over to that body. It was decided that after instruction and evangelistic work among them, the presiding elder would admit the entire number and organize a Methodist church.

THE GLACE BAY BUILDING BOOM

GLACE BAY, May 8.—A. C. Curry, of Rhodes, Curry & Co., Sydney, was in town today and visited Dominion No. 2, Caledonia and the other collieries. The Rhodes Curry Company have a large contract for the erection of miners houses for the Dominion Coal Company. In all 61 houses are to be built at Dominion No. 2, of which twenty-two are now completed. The company have commenced work on thirty new houses of both the single and double style at Caledonia. They have about completed work on the houses at Dominion, No. 6, of which they have erected over two hundred. It appears as if the building boom throughout the collieries during the coming summer will be the greatest in their history. Besides the construction work for the Coal Company, it is expected that there will be a large number of private residences erected. There is every likelihood of a number of handsome residences being erected shortly on South street, one of the most desirable streets in Glace Bay.
