TO FORCE MARRIAGE OF HEALTY MALES

ROME, May 2—Mustapha Kemal's parliament, alarmed by the depopulation and low birth rate in Turkey, is about to pass a bill to enforce the marriage of all healthy male Turks more than twenty-five years old.

Men who obstinately remain bachelors will be punished by heavy fines and extra taxes. No Turks can afford to have four wives and many find even one wife a luxury too expensive.

Moving Time--Paint & Varnish Time

FURNITURE and other effects are invariably bruised, chipped, rubbed or scratched during "moving." Only Paint and Varnish can put them in condition again and make them look like new.

Also the outside and inside of every house should be beautified and protected with Paint and Varnish before moving day. Without proper surface protection no household property will last.

Another urgent need for paint and varnish at moving time is that of sanitation and hygiene. Freshly painted and varnished rooms are as free from infection and disease as though fumigated. Never move into a home, old or new, until it has been painted and varnished from cellar to roof.

Mountain Family In Wild Condition

Father, Mother and Four Children Half-Civilized, Illiterate and Nearly Naked

NYACK, N. Y., May 4.—Judge Charles W. Haughey, a member of the town board of Orangetown, brought to the attention of the board today the condition of a family named Thompson, consisting of father, mother and four children, refugees from the interior of the Rampo Mountains, who took possession of a tumbledown shack on the edge of Pearl River, near here, four days ago.

Judge Haughey said that the couple and the two older children, a boy of 10 and a girl of 7, appeared to be suffering from a skin disease due to lack of water. Their hair was matted and they presented a wild appearance.

In his report Judge Haughey said that he found the man sitting on the doorsten of the shack. After much persistent inquiry the man finally said that he and his family came from the interior of the Rampo Mountains, Northwest of Suffern. The interior is a desolate place, inhabited by a few half-bred Indians, moonshoners and "Jackson Whites."

Thompson's only garments were a blue flannel shirt, a pair of old trousers, held up by a twisted rope, and a pair of old shoes. Judge Haughey learned that none of the children had ever been to school nor had they ever seen pencil or paper. The two youngest children were a boy of 5 and a girl of 4. They were almost naked.

After considerable coaxing Judge Haughey induced Thompson to call his wife, who had remained inside the hut during most of the interview.

"Woman, come here," cried the man. A frail, huddled form emerged, clad in a black wrapper, worn through at the elbows and knees. The woman's hair was matted. Thompson swore at her, and after she had given several laughs he said she was dumb. He told Judge Haughey that his wife and children had never had a comb so far as he could remember.

After Judge Haughey made his report, it was decided that it would be best to remove the family to an institution, but no formal action was taken.

Even the man who expects the unexpected is apt to be surprised when it happens.

The self made man at least relieves Providence of the responsibility.

Duke's Visit Had Calming Effect

Punjab Miasma Cleared Away for New Legislature's First Session

LONDON, May 4.—The session of the New Indian Legislature which is now closing may mark a definite epoch in Indian administration, says the Bombay correspondent of the Times.

It opened, he adds, under the shadow of unassuaged bitterness in the Punjab and under the oppression of heavy burdens of taxation made necessary by military considerations.

"In this heavy weather," the correspondent writes, "the new constitutional bark might easily have foundered. That it has passed into comparatively calm waters is due to the Duke of Connaught's visit."

This royal visit, with the Duke's appeal for unity, the Indian Government's frank confession of error in dealing with disturbances and particularly Lord Rawlinson's declaration of military policy, it is said, cleared away the Punjab miasma.

Taking advantage of this period of quiet, the new Council of State is considering special legislation for the preservation of order which will prepare the way for the repeal of acts which have outgrown their usefulness.

"The constitution now has the line clear for a year," says the correspondent. "This it owes in large measure to Mr. Gandhi (the native anti-British leader) and the doctrine of non-cooperation. By keeping from the councils the firebrands who would have gone there only to obstruct, and by leaving the way free for men desirous of genuinely working for reforms, an opportunity has been afforded for an understanding between the government and the councils established all over the country.

"But the battle between constitutionalism and revolution has to be fought this year. All over the country non co-operationism is developing into undisguised tyranny, too often accompanied by disorder. Mr. Gandhi deplores this for the moment. It is inevitable that as soon as the dismal failure of his efforts to bring all governments to a standstill is realized by the public he will be driven to take further measures."

Time may be money, but most people prefer the long green.

A spinster says that getting married is almost as serious as remaining single.

Lloyd George And De Valera Might Confer

LONDON, May 4.—The possibility of an interview between DeValera and Lloyd George as a result of Lord Derby's recent visit to Ireland, is suggested by the political correspondent of the Sunday Times. He says:

"DeValera is, indeed, I believe, not unwilling to meet the Prime Minister in friendly consultation on the definite understanding that he is not in any way 'suing for peace,' and it is on the cards that the interview may be arranged.

"There are, however, lions in the way. On the one part there is the hostility of the castle authorities to any 'negotiations with rebels,' and on the other intransigence of many of DeValera's followers. The fact is he leads on sufferance. He has loosed a devil in Ireland and is now very doubtful whether he can whistle him back."

The Sunday Times' Dublin correspondent also states that the Dail Eireann has issued a proclamation signed by its "Minister for Home Affairs," announcing that it has decided to recognize the elections for the Southern Parliament, even though they be held under an act which is illegal, inasmuch as it is a foreign statute.

The reason he gives for this is that the will of the people must once more be demonstrated.

On the other hand the Dail denounces the elections in the southern senate on the ground that as seventeen out of its sixty four members are to be nominated and the other members are to be appointed ex officio by limited electorates, "recognition of such a body would be contrary to democratic principles."

He calls on the country council not to elect the fourteen members they are entitled to.
