Urges workers to Greater efforts

MANCHESTER, Nov. 9 —(AP)— Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply, wants British workers to beat October's record output of war materials to stand off 100,000 German cannon, which he said eventually "will be deployed against us."

In answer to criticism "going around that the government is not doing everything expected of it," Lord Beaverbrook delivered a prepared speech here Saturday and answered questions submitted by workers. The questions generally availed political and strategic aspects of the war but complained of mismanagement and curbing of industry and asked the supply ministr ter to give the workers a larger share of war tasks.

Lord Beaverbrook assured the workers he would try to remedy the conditions to which they objected. He admitted that Britain had not yet "got up steam" after two years of war but pledged himself henceforth to see that there should be no more lagging on the production front.

"We have not yet known privations in this war," he declared. "Everyone is going to be hurt, terribly. No man or woman will escape. What we must suffer and endure in the days to come are much more than we have suffered so far."

FINE POSTURE FRIEND OF CHIC

When your pelum ripples forward with a zip—and many of the smartest will do just that, this fall and winter—a flat abdomen is a blessing. When your dress has a padless perfectly flat shoulder—as some of the most stylish afternoon and dinner dresses will have this fall and winter—a naturally impressive shoulder line of your own is essential.

What are you going to do about it? Ignore fashion? You can, of course. You can even stick to your full skirt and slightly built-out shoulders and remain in style during the day, for the "natural" silhouette that is contrived is perfectly good. But who wants to pass up the new afternoon and evening look which is the look of sleeker and suppler grace? Especially when you are as close as a great deal toward attaining that look simply by improving your posture?

Improving Posture

Stand before a full length mirror and examine your figure now. Is there an exaggerated hollow in the centre of your back? If so, your hips probably look broader than they are and your stomach is not flat.

Now stand with your back to a wall. Place the centre of your back firmly against the flat surface—never mind about shoulders for the moment. As you press your spine backward, flattening it pull the stomach up and in, and elevate the chest. Now, very gradually, flatten all of your backbone against the wall, raise arms above head, and make shoulders touch the wall. Lower arms, and notice that your hips tilt forward now. Hold the position a few seconds. Relax and repeat.

As soon as you become accustomed to this correct posture, you will be able to maintain it when you stand and walk. After you have practised near the wall, go back to the mirror and get your body in the position it was in against the wall. Now look at yourself again—your stomach, flat; your backbone, almost straight; your shoulders, beautifully high. One really thoughtful session like this should be an inspiration to go into flat shouldered ripple-limbed frocks whenever you please.

Catholic Clergyman Arrested by Nazis

BERLIN, Nov. 9 —(AP)— Very Rev. Bernhard Lichtenberg, dean of St. Hedwig's Roman Catholic Cathedral here, has been arrested by German secret police and is being held in Ploetzensee prison in the northwestern section of the city.

N. B. Sgt. Pilot Killed in action

FLORENCEVILLE, N.B., Nov. 9 —(CP)—Sgt. Pilot Ivan Trafford, 20, of the Royal Canadian A.T. Force, was killed in action overseas last Friday, according to word received here by his father, Clinton Trafford. The young airman graduated from an air training school in Ontario last August.

U. S. convoys to Britain, Russia Are discussed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 —(AP)— Administration supporters, confident that next week-end will find United States ships free to sail any seas, urged today that speedy steps be taken to "deliver the goods" to Great Britain and Russia.

Senator Josh Lee (Dem.-Okla.), one of those active in the successful fight for Senate approval of legislation lifting the neutrality act's restrictions on American merchant shipping, said he and others of like views feel that President Roosevelt ought to take advantage immediately of the new freedom of action he will have if the House of Representatives approves the Senate's bill.

To many, that appeared to be a proposal for American convoys all the way to Britain and perhaps to the Russian port of Archangel.

However, Lee said he was not undertaking to say how the goods should be delivered.
