SEA VIEW AND VICINITY

January has passed away into the pages of past history as one of the finest winter months on record.

Mr. and Mrs. Layton Coulson are receiving hearty congratulations from their many friends on the arrival of a little daughter on Friday, Jan. 21st.

Mrs. Alwood Blankney entertained the members of the Sea View branch of the Red Cross at her home on Wednesday evening, Jan. 23rd. There was a Red Cross meeting and a most pleasant evening was spent in knitting with beautiful lunch was served by the committee in charge. Mrs. Roy Adams and Mrs. William Brander assisted the hostess. An offering was taken and a nice sum was realized from the proceeds there were entertained with games which made the evening pass pleasantly.

LAC. Wendell MacNutt of the R. C. A. F. left on Thursday morning to resume his military duties in Montreal after spending a pleasant furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace MacNutt, Darnley.

Mr. Hugh Shephard of the R. C. A. F. at Montreal, and Mr. Samuel Silverburg of the R.C.A.F. Toronto, were recent guests at the MacGilligan house, Malpeque, where they spent a few days on official business.

Mr. Arthur Bryenton was a recent visitor to Sea View.

Many friends extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood MacLeod on the arrival of a baby girl to their home on Monday, January 24th.

A great many are suffering from an attack of flu and Dr. McBride has been a frequent visitor to this community but so far there have been no serious complications.

The condition of Mr. John Bassett is not improving and is causing his friends grave concern.

Mrs. William Adams has returned home after spending a pleasant visit with friends in Kensington.

Mr. Holland of Charlottetown and Dr. Leviste of Montreal are both guests at the MacGilligan House, Malpeque and are identified with North Shore Cannery Plant where they are inspecting the

Plucky Nurse At Beachhead Tells of Wedding

(By DANIEL DE LUCA)

AT THE 5TH ARMY BRIDGEHEAD IN ITALY, Feb. 6—(AP)—They call her "The Bride of the Bridgehead."

She landed here and she has been tending the wounded in stuffy green tents, the roof of which has been pierced by a half-dozen pieces of flak. Its ridgepoles quivers as shells whistle over. Last night the explosion of German 88's punctuated the story of Lieut. Ruth Griffard of Farmington, Mo., who was married Dec. 7 to Lieut. Frank Evals, an American whose parents live in Ottawa.

"Yes, I guess I'm still a bride if five days of married life aren't supposed to make you an old married woman," said Lieut. Griffard.

Is Rough Spot

"This beachhead is one rough spot. When we got here we had to lug our own blankets, dig our own slit trenches and help raise our own tents. We hear these things going over almost all the time, but the ones we don't like the most are those which 'Pistol Pete,' that German 170-millimeter gun, shoots off from the hills at night. The air raids aren't so nice either.

"I often say to myself: 'Little girl, do you know the first thing you're going to do when this thing is over and you get landed in New York? You are going to spend every cent you have saved overseas on new clothes, and permanent, and face lifting until people won't be able to tell easily how beat up you were in that old beachhead. And when your husband is through with war you'll practice your nursing—you'll practise it in your own nursery in your own home.'"

The little nurse struck both her hands in the pockets of her trousers and half leaned against a camp table as if her feet in her shoes might already be hurting after only four hours of her 12-hour night shift.

Almost Shotgun Wedding

"But the wedding I was talking about—it was a scream. There I was, on the sick list myself, just getting over a fever which comes from some kind of insect bite, and was I obliged to get married when Frankie arrived.

"Frankie is Lieut. Frank Evals and he's all American, although his parents now live in Ottawa, Canada. He's a troop carrier pilot and he courted me between stops, first in Africa and then in Italy.

"The first thing I knew the hospital address system was announcing that there would be a marriage ceremony in the Chapel at 2 o'clock, so I had to stagger out of bed and get dressed or I'd wind up an old maid."

She shook her bobbed hair at the recollection. "Imagine! My bridesmaids were in soldiers' clothing looking like a bunch of guerrillas, and the music was furnished by one of our Majors playing the accordion a little too hard on the down beat.

"All the same needed, I tell you, was a shotgun.

"My hospital was in the mud but five days' leave to be with my new husband much further south in Italy, near his home field.

Only Five Days

"We found ourselves in an apartment with no running water and all the heat in the house came from a charcoal burner a-burning in the bedroom.

"But the only complaint we had was that five days are—well, they're only five days.

"I came back to Naples after the honeymoon, kissed me goodbye and I went back to the hospital. Pretty soon we were packed up to go to this landing. "He never got into the Naples airport before we sailed and of course he hasn't flown up here yet. But every day when I hear a plane I can't help hoping it might be him."

The February meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Arden Richards, President. Mrs. Richards presiding. The usual order of program was carried out. Roll call was responded to by 14 members, two new members joined.

Minutes of last meeting were read, approved and filed. Correspondence was read by secretary. It was decided to buy two quilt bats. Bill for postage on boxes was presented and paid. Red Cross work for past month as follows: 2 pair arny socks, 1 round neck sweater,

Confederation Fathers Divided On Senate Question

OTTAWA, Feb. 6—(CP)—One of "the biggest questions which seems to have divided" the fathers of the Canadian Senate, the Dominion archives said today.

Upper Canada and New Brunswick favored electing members to the Senate while Quebec and Nova Scotia favored an appointment by the federal cabinet. It was "a- tated in the annual archives report, tabled in the Commons of State Secretary McLarty.

The report listed what it termed "new documents" including the confederation in London in 1867. One of the upper Canada delegates, was quoted as saying when the Confederation pact was being drawn up that "the Maritime Provinces watched even more closely than their French colleagues, the turn of phrase and collocation of words to prevent federal invasion."

Borden

Mr. Edwin MacAssey of Mt. Stewart is spending a few weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Ralph Toombs of Borden.

Mrs. William Millington of Borden was a visitor to Moncton for a few days last week.

Messrs. John Noonan, Norman MacWilliams, Lloyd Tuman and Gordon Constance of Borden are visiting in Boston and New York for a couple of weeks.

Friends here are sorry to learn that Mr. Brenton Leard is confined to his home with pleurisy.

Mrs. John MacIsaac of Borden was a recent visitor to Summerside.

Mr. Bert Stewart of the Veterans Guard of Canada who has been visiting his wife at Eldon, visited at the home of his brother Cecil Stewart of Borden when returning to Halifax on Thursday.
