

THE TEACHING PROFESSION

The series of articles appearing in The Guardian, furnished by the Prince Edward Island Teachers' Association, are, we are pleased to say, being read with much interest throughout the province. Publicity is well known, is the life blood of every line of activity in which the general public are interested and there has been too little publicity in connection with our education doings.

for the people and on top of the people could be strung out almost interminably and poetically interwoven with a panegyric on the ethereal blue and the infinite variety of flowers that gladden the earth with their colouring and their fragrance as the Bell government gladdens the people with its "courtesy" in giving us the blessing of taxation increased seasonal indemnities and a host of superfluities and superabundant officials.

ITS POUND OF FLESH

An analysis of the vote in the federal election of December 6th has been published and the figures reveal very clearly why the province of Quebec claims to be and is the master of the situation. Outside of Quebec, the vote stands as follows:

PATHETIC SILENCE

The studious avoidance by the local government organ of all reference to the overdue and double-crossed bye-elections is really pathetic. At a time of year when live newspaper topics for editorial discussion are at a premium, when our contemporary is scouring the earth in vain for matter upon which to expend some of its pent-up editorial eloquence, the fact that this fruitless subject is "taboo" must be galling to its sensitive editorial soul.

AUTOCRACY

During the recent pre-election campaign the word Autocrat was constantly on the lips of Mr. MacKenzie King. Mr. Meighen was denounced as an autocrat because, as it was alleged, he did not take the public into his confidence on matters of government policy.

The Public Forum

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Charlottetown Guardian does not necessarily endorse the opinions expressed by its correspondents.

HOCKEY PROFITEERS

Sir—We see by the Evening paper that the prices for the coming match between Abegweit and Sussex have been advanced considerably to what has been charged in the past.

Others' View Points

An Expert's Opinion of J.J.

Miss Alice M. Barrows, a field representative of a national welfare organization, has made a special study of recreations in small towns of the Central States. She is a musical specialist and has worked out scientifically the relation of music to human emotions from both the psychological and physiological standpoints.

Others' View Points

"It is unrealized in its enormity" was the reply. "There is a greater menace in the rural district through lack of knowledge and of intelligent direction than in a city, where the facts are known and effort is made to improve the conditions."

Daily Selections for Guardian Readers

From the collection of the late Mr. W. S. Louson

THE STREAM THAT IS NEVER CROSSED

There's many a sorrow and pain I know, As we tread the path of life, There's many a grief and lasting woe, And the way is toil and strife, But the hardest load we have to bear

THE STREAM THAT IS NEVER CROSSED

We have fretting and worry from morn till night, And anguish weighs on the heart; The thorny way seems hard to fight, And life is a bitter part, But there is a burden greater yet, Much heavier of soul it has cost, It is building a bridge with toil and sweat

THE STREAM THAT IS NEVER CROSSED

Then gather the roses along the way, And treasure the fragrant race, Rejoice in the bright and joyous day, Rejoice to borrow care, For sorrow and pain will surely come, And your soul be tired and sad, But don't be heling to reach your home, O'er the stream that is never crossed.

Notes By The Way

A few days ago a correspondent of the Patriot, evidently inspired (politically) outlined a plan by which the cost of legislation may be cut in half and the curse of the salary grab lessened, if not obliterated.

Notes By The Way

Divide the House—any member can do that at any period of the session. Anyway, what are the House and the Government but two Houses, one within the other, and both divided against themselves?

Learned in Public Library. One morning he read an account of a milkman finding a packet of one-dollar bills which he presented at a bank where he learned that they were counterfeit.

Notes By The Way

His Fatal Slip. In the meantime, of course, some of the bills, perhaps an insignificant percentage of them, had been pronounced counterfeit by the banks and had been sent to the Secret Service.

Notes By The Way

An Amazing Memory. He read volumes on dyeing and struck up an acquaintance with a well-known Boston printer who permitted him to visit his plant at night and study the various processes.

Notes By The Way

Oh, there are plenty of ways to effect real, substantial economy if the party in power really desires it. Let them repeal the salary grab.

Notes By The Way

This is not a party question. Both the old parties have had Executives of nine members. That makes the way to reform easy. There is no sense or reason for having a Government of nine in a House of thirty.

Notes By The Way

Again, if we are to have real economy in our little province of 88,000 (and they are diminishing in number from year to year) why cannot our Premier also hold a portfolio, as was here and now is the almost invariably practice in other provinces?

Mere Youth Was Expert Counterfeiter

William J. Flynn, former chief of the United States Secret Service, has recently told the story of the most remarkable counterfeiter ever produced in the United States, perhaps the most remarkable in the history of crime because of his youth, the means he employed to utter the counterfeit paper and the success that attended his career.

Mere Youth Was Expert Counterfeiter

From first to last he never used a camera, which fact makes him unique among skillful counterfeiters, for all the others photograph the banknote they are to imitate and work from that. The chief defect with his first bills was that they looked too new. The plates were good, the impressions fine, and the weight of the paper was correct.

paper is as carefully guarded as gold in the mint. Every scrap of it is accounted for. There is never a surplus. It is a special paper, and the formula of its manufacture is a secret. Visitors are shown through the plant in care of a guide, and three times Wilkin was a visitor. He saw no more than the others with him saw, and for practical imitative purposes one might say this was nothing at all.
