RUINS OF BROWN HOUSE WHERE SIX PEOPLE WERE SLAUGHTERED. This building near Hill Valley, Pa., has stood for seventy years unchanged except by the ravages of time from its condition when the crime was committed. Robert McCaughy was the murderer and he slew his mother-in-law Mrs. N. Brown and five children. His object was to kill the whole family and thus gain possession of the property. In the door there is still to be seen a hole made by one of the bullets.

The Bishop of London Gives an Outdoor Talk

Many People Gather in Front of New York's Old Custom House to Hear the Busy Bishop, London's Great Cleric's Open Air Sermon.

NEW YORK, Oct 19.—Standing on a temporary platform where an office desk served as a pulpit and with his back to the sombre grey front of the old customs house the Lord Bishop of London preached the gospel in the open air of Wall street at noon today.

It was the second appearance in the financial district of Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram and while all who could get into Trinity church heard him before, a multitude that filled the street from curb to curb listened today. It was a unique sight. At either hand of the bishop were the banks and brokerage houses, while near by were the various exchanges, where the world's markets are recorded. Many who failed of standing room within hearing distance looked from open windows and even the roofs of many buildings were lined with auditors. Bankers, brokers, policemen, clerks and messengers made up the audience. It was the bishop's fortieth sermon since his arrival here for "rest and recreation".

The bishop announced no text but talked of the pull of faith. "A small boy was walking along a London Street on one of those foggy days holding a stick and a kite string in his hand," he said.

"Somebody asked him what he had, and he replied that he had a kite. "How do you know you have a kite, you can't see it?" was the question.

"No," was the reply, "I can't see it, but I can feel it pull." "In our lives as Christians we have always to face the fact that we are believing in something we cannot see, but that we can feel pulling us every moment of our lives.

"I feel something pulling on my intelligence, my mind, my soul, and my conscience, and I respond to the pull."

It was the pull on conscience he said which enabled men to distinguish right from wrong. The pull of the conscience, the heart and the soul was a pull toward a life of prayer.

YOUR PAINFUL CORN

What it wants is the soothing attention of Putnam's Corn Extract, which lifts out the very root and branch in short order. No pain, no after effect, just clean wholesome cure—that's "Putnam's."

50,000,000 FOR ADVERTISING

"James B. Duke, the tobacco king of Long Branch, New Jersey, recently claimed in an interview that he had spent more money in advertising than any other living man. He said that the figures would reach fifty million dollars.—Newspaper-Item."

Yet James B. Duke is to-day one of the wealthiest men in the world. When you see a liberal advertiser you see a rich man. The business man who in this age of advertising is afraid to invest his money in publicity will never accumulate a fortune.
