IN MEMORIAM Remembrance

THE LATE MRS. (CAPT.) DICKS
There passed away at Charlottetown on November 29, 1934, Mrs. (Capt.) Edward Dicks, nee Miss Mary Alice MacDonald, formerly of Georgetown, P. E. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus MacDonald. The subject of this sketch was married early in life to Capt. Edward Dicks of Georgetown, P. E. I., one of the rising young skippers of the days of iron men and wooden ships and they embarked together on the sea of life a fearless Captain and a faithful mate, after days of happiness and joy interspersed with storms, joys and varying currents of life's sea. She has entered the harbor of rest, crossed the bar and met the "Phoebus" face to face.

Mrs. Dicks was a woman of rare physical beauty with a love that shone through her eyes, a smile that has the seams of her life and unlocked all doors before her and gave her entrance into all hearts with whom she came in contact, a queenliness was hers, not the veneer of outward decking, but the rare qualities of heart and which characterizes her every action. A mother in the true sense, a peo to her children and a support to her husband in every time of need.

For some years she has been the mistress of Dalvey-by-the-Sea, one of the best hotels of the Maritime Provinces, catering to the comforts of the tourist trade and her genial and considerate nature won her the love and esteem of the travelling public. Her friends were always welcome and the atmosphere which surrounded her breathed a welcome not to be denied.

For some years her health was undermined by disease but which by medical skill seemed for a time to be arrested and life seemed fair to carry her into old age, but later the arrow fell loose from the bow, struck and she fell, and amid the love of her family and host of friends passed on to the Great Beyond and to those who knew her not, it was but the passing cortege of the day. To those who knew the richness of her soul. The bride to meet the King in that array. No sad farewell, the kiss, the handshake and adieu. Living as ever in our hearts though passed from view. But in the brighter land of distances unknown She reaches to touch the sceptre of forgiving love before the throne.

She leaves to mourn her sorrowing husband, three daughters, her married, Misses Catherine Audrey and Edith Cavell, one daughter married, Mrs. Victor Chaisson, Summerside, one son, Edward Earl, a brother, William Archibald MacDonald and a host of friends whose sympathy in the hour goes out to the bereaved home.

ANNIE NICHOLSON
On Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13th, amid many manifestations of deep sorrow, the mortal remains of Mrs. Annie Nicholson, Orwell Cove, were laid to rest in the St. John's Church cemetery, she having departed this life on the previous Tuesday morning, after an illness of a few weeks. The Grim Reaper, Death, has visited this home with tragic frequency during the last few months. Last May the husband and father, Angus Joseph Nicholson died, and two months ago, the youngest child, Myrtle, at eight years of age passed away. Undoubtedly these two sad losses went far to undermine the health of Mrs. Nicholson, who was in her forty-fourth year, and to all appearances had many years of this life in store.

STANCHEL W. I.
The regular meeting of the Stanchel Women's Institute was held at the home of Miss Sadie Buchanan on Wednesday, Dec. 5. There were six members in attendance.

President Mrs. James Graham conducted the meeting which opened by singing Institute Carol. Secretary reported having received the Christmas Seals sent out by the Gyro Seal Sale Committee and it was decided that the Institute purchase same and distribute them among the members. A program committee was appointed, viz: Miss Priscilla Frizzle, Miss Katie Aiken, Mrs. Remy White and Mrs. Douglas Todd. A reading, "The Origin of Christmas Customs," by Sadie Buchanan and Christmas name contest and an interesting and amusing account of the Tenant League Parade of pioneer days by Mary Stuart (an aged lady) constituted the program. Meeting adjourned for a social chat and lunch closing with the National Anthem. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Remy White, roll call to be answered with "A New Year's Resolution."

The annual meeting of the Stanchel Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Neil Cameron on Saturday, November 10th, with six members and two visitors present.

Meeting opened by singing Institute Ode and "It's a Good Time to Get Acquainted." Minutes of last meeting and last annual meeting were read and approved. Secretary gave a satisfactory financial report for the year.

Officers elected for the new year: President, Mrs. James Graham (re-elected); Vice President, Mrs. Remy White (re-elected); Secretary, Miss Sadie Buchanan (re-elected); Sick Committee, Mrs. Neil Cameron and Miss Rachel Martin; School Committee, Mrs. James Frizzle and Mrs. Alex Aiken. Meeting adjourned for the usual social chat and lunch, closing with the National Anthem.
