MYSTERY IN DEEP PLOT AT BOSTON.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Police and newspaper men searched in vain for women who were expected to appear at Tremont and Montgomery Sts. and Castle square.

Rumors of elopements, kidnappings, and lost, strayed or stolen females filled the air until the excitement became intense and something had to be done.

Someone had blundered. There was no time to reason why. The crowd was waiting, the permits had been issued, but there was nothing doing. The "open air" was prepared, the settings made up and the audience in a spirit of expectancy and neither the police nor the reporters could help matters along.

Finally everybody went home but the police and the newspapermen. They never do. As far as can be learned, nobody in authority at the woman's suffrage headquarters had authorized an open air meeting at the places mentioned. Susan W. Fitzgerald, a leading suffrage advocate and head of the Boston suffrage branch, said she had not heard of the proposed meetings. She communicated with a number of other women connected with the movement, and they, too, were ignorant of the advertised gatherings. And now it is being whispered about that someone played a joke, that the advertising women speakers were myths and that—well, the meetings at Castle square and Tremont and Montgomery streets did not take place.

WILL SEARCH FOR DEPOSITS OF PITCH BLEND.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 27.—Frederick J. M. Rhodes, of London, nephew of Cecil Rhodes, left Tucson today for Tiburon Island, home of carnivals in the Gulf of California. He will search for deposits of pitch blend from which radium is obtained. The expedition will be fitted out at Guaymas. Rhodes is accompanied by F. R. Lanford Miller and F. Rowley, also of London, who have had adventures in the Orient.

Rhodes was a captain in the First Chinese Regiment during the Boxer uprising. He has a gold and silver mine in Northern Durango and is well-known throughout the United States. President Madero told Rhodes nine months ago that he would help to build the Mexican flag, not the Union Jack. Few white men return from Tiburon, several expeditions having met with disaster. The natives are the "Cris" Indians and they use poisoned arrows.

AIRMEN FALLS TO DEATH

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Sept. 29.—John L. Longstaff, a former English army officer was killed this evening while flying in a Farman biplane with his mechanic, Pierre Chavallier. Seventy feet in the air a wire connecting the control of the biplane became jammed and the machine instantly overturned, striking the ground with such force that it was buried two feet. Longstaff fractured his skull and received serious internal injuries from which he died a short time later. Chavallier is seriously but not mortally injured. He will probably lose his left eye.

Longstaff held a pilot's license from the Royal Aero Club of England. He had been flying as a scout with the insurgent army in Mexico until recently. He had planned to take up a passenger and was turning up the machine. Longstaff was 35 years of age.

He will be laid up for some time.

BEGS TO GO BACK TO JAIL AGAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Harold F. Hoops, who served 25 days in the House of Correction for motor car mashing and released yesterday returned there voluntarily today to avoid temptation.

Hoops is a son of W. H. Hoops, a millionaire merchant. He is 22 and has gone a giddy pace for two years. His father helped him out of a score of scraps, but refused to pay the $50 fine assessed for mashing.

After 12 hours of freedom young Hoops returned to jail, begged Superintendent Whitman to take him back. He said hard work, coarse food and a jail cot beat his riding, crack kicking, wine bibbling or chicken fancying.

Mr. Whitman, I want to stay at the Bridewell, young Hoops said. I want to go to work and I want to work where I will be absolutely free from all temptation to go back to the old ways. Will you let me stay with you and work.

The fishing schooner Confidence had hove to off the banks and sent out her dories on the morning of Friday, Sept. 6. An evening drew on a dense fog settled down and the two men in the dory became confused in their bearings and lost track of their vessel.

For four nights and days they continued to drift about, daily growing weaker. Then the Leeds hove in sight and rescued them.

The prisoner was caught in March last year on board the steamer Zeitan in New York Harbor by a Prussian detective who had been on his trail for months and had followed him on board the St. Louis, a speeder vessel.

The prisoner held up the bank of the frontier town of Myslowitz and with the aid of a youthful accomplice killed its cashier and escaped with a considerable amount of money in 1910.
